Former Professional Bondsman Held in Kansas City City for Murder of Clifford Appier Here.

Victim Knocked Down and Shot to Death After Entering Prisoner's Yard to Recover Baseball.

Spot Reagan, former professional bondsman and saloonkeeper, was arrested here for the murder of Clifford Appier, who was killed in Kansas City.

Detectives Powell and Mohr, who went to Kansas City four days ago on the hunt for Reagan, were aided by officers of the Department of Justice in the capture.

The officers caught Reagan yesterday afternoon when he raided the apartment of a woman relative at 284 Harrison street, Kansas City. Reagan offered to surrender, and went willingly to the city jail.

"I'm glad it's all over," he said. "I'm tired of being on the run."

For several days Reagan's whereabouts had been shadowed in expectation that he would lead the officers to him. Finally, he was located in his apartment, and the raid was arranged.

Murder Warrant Issued.

A temporary holding warrant, charging murder in the first degree, was issued against Reagan today by Assistant Circuit Attorney Murphy.

Reagan, early this year, began operating a sight-seeing travel bureau in Kansas City. He was arrested there by police, and taken to St. Louis. He was held in the city jail for several days, and then was released on bond.

Reagan's arrest was telephoned to Chief of Police McCarthy early yesterday afternoon by the federal officers.

Federal Agents Called In.

When the new law was passed, making it a federal offense for a bondsman to flee from a state, McCarthy solicited the cooperation of the Department of Justice in the capture of Reagan.

Edward Conroy, agent in charge of the Department of Justice in Kansas City, said that Reagan would be held in jail there until tomorrow, when he would be returned to St. Louis by automobile.

John J. Reagan, as the fugitive was more formally known, is 50 years old. He lived, at the time of the shooting, May 11, 1933, in an apartment building he owned at 601 Maryland avenue.

The killing of Appier.

Appier, a salesman who lived at 614 Newberry terrace, had attended the funeral of one of Reagan's former clients, John Dryden, and after shooting from the cemetery, entered a car and caught with Dryden and Appier, who was 14 years old.

Another who joined them and the group, in chasing a ball, was the back yard of Reagan's apartment. Appier, before he died, said that Reagan came out and ordered them away. "Well, get out, he doesn't want you here," Appier said.

Appier, Appier testified, they went to the alley to play, but after Appier had appeared with a ball and said, "I'll show you how to play," Appier said he saw Reagan with the pistol and Appier fired and Reagan fled.

Rehearse Greeting Planned for San Diego Monday as Fleet Returns From War Games.

ABOARD BATTLESHIP PENNSYLVANIA, EN ROUTE FROM HAWAII TO CALIFORNIA, JUNE 5.—Uncle Sam's naval air forces, more than 450 planes, roared away from their carrier ships in mid-ocean today in a monster rehearsal of maneuvers which will feature the fleet's return to American shores at San Diego next Monday.

Twenty-four squadrons, embracing all aircraft, participated in the sky parade, a massed preview of what will be staged as the fleet's greeting to the California Pacific International Exposition at San Diego.

The flagship Pennsylvania is scheduled to steam into San Diego Bay at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the head of a parade of the nation's battlecraft winding up their annual six weeks of spring exercises.

Preceding today's air show 52 destroyers were refueled at sea from the fuel tanks of the battleships, carriers and cruisers, probably the largest concentration of vessels for refueling ever attempted.

ON APPEAL; CHARGE QUASHED

Court Holds Evidence Was Insufficient to Prove Intent to Defraud.

LONDON, June 5.—The Duke of Manchester today won his appeal from his conviction May 10 on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Lord Hewart, announcing that the Court of Appeals had quashed the conviction, said that the summing up after the original trial, in Old Bailey, was insufficient and unsatisfactory.

Lord Hewart asserted the question was whether there had been intent to defraud. The defense was that there had been no such intention. The Duke had been sentenced to nine months in prison.

The Duke of Manchester was alleged to have pawned jewels held in trust by the estate of his late mother, thereby obtaining money without negotiable collateral.

The three passengers, T. Patterson, Mrs. Bernice Kirkin and Pearl Howell, all of Los Angeles, were uninjured, the company said.

The plane was in charge of Pilot R. W. Kirkin, husband of Mrs. Bernice Kirkin.

Factories Shut Down as 450 Employees Walk Out in Demand for Wage Increase.

MANY NEARBY TOWNS AFFECTED

Union Business Agent Says Men Get 1926 Hourly Pay With Time Cut From 4 to 16 Hours a Week.

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., June 5.—A condition of virtual industrial paralysis fell on this city of more than 300,000 population today as union electrical workers went on strike, causing a serious shortage of power.

One after another, huge factories shut down—unable to operate without electricity—and city officials predicted that more than 30,000 industrial workers would be idle by night.

The strike was called early today by the Electrical Workers' Union at the Toledo Edison Co., which supplies 95 per cent of Toledo's industries with power. The company said 450 of their 535 employees joined the walkout, while the other 85 refused to settle a wage controversy between the company and the union.

Numerous nearby towns which receive power from the Toledo Edison Co. also were affected as its output declined.

Ready to Supply Hospitals.

Oliver Myers, business agent for the union, said it would co-operate if the company is willing to make provision for an uninterrupted supply of power for hospitals, newspapers and city waterworks.

In other respects, however, the power famine spread rapidly through the city's life and even into its thousands of homes, many of which depend on electricity for illumination, refrigeration and other services.

Street car service, the operation of draw bridges and numerous other common-places of modern life also were threatened.

First large industrial plant to close as a result of the power shortage was the Libbey Glass Manufacturing Co., which officials said has 1200 employees. Earlier, the shortage forced suspension of operations in several departments of the Electric Auto-Lite Co.

Other Large Plants Threatened.

Among large plants threatened with closing are the city-owned Ford Glass Co., the Owens-Illinois Glass Co., the Willys-Overland Co., the National Supply Co., the General Wheel Co. and a number of metal stamping plants which manufacture parts for automobiles.

Myers, in discussing his committee's wage demands, said, "Our men are working on a 1926 hour wage scale and hours have been cut from the 44, 48 to 56 of that year to the present 40-hour week."

Myers said some of the company's plants serving the Northwestern Ohio and Southwestern Michigan areas would be allowed to operate.

The company is subsidiary of the Cities Service Corporation.

Incoming interurban cars were halted at the city limits and the passengers were taken to their destinations in taxicabs or busses.

U. S. Justice Department.

C. L. Proctor, vice-president and general manager of the Edison Co., issued a statement saying:

"There is no justification whatever for our electrical workers going on strike."

"A year ago we acceded to unreasonable demands by the union for no reason except to avert a general shutdown in Toledo, which was then in the midst of mob violence. Obviously, we cannot go on indefinitely meeting unreasonable demands."

"Our men are well paid. In fact, they receive the highest wages of any like workers in any city in Ohio comparable in size to Toledo. They admit that their working conditions are satisfactory."

"Offered to Arbitrate."

"While we feel that our position justifies our refusal to accede to demands we want to avoid the injury to the community which will result from a strike. For that reason we have offered to arbitrate."

"This offer was flatly refused. Therefore we will make every effort to operate under the present conditions and we will rely on the fair-minded people of Toledo to back us up."

ENGLISH DERBY

Members of Royal Family Arrive in Rain to See Race, Won by Bahram, the Favorite.

VICTOR OWNED BY AGA KHAN

Lord Astor's Horse, Field Trial, Finishes Third and American Entry Is Far Behind.

By the Associated Press.

EPSOM DOWNS, England, June 5.—Before a crowd of 500,000, including King George and Queen Mary and most of the royal family, Bahram, the favorite from the Aga Khan's stable, won the 156th running of the English Derby today. Robin Goodfellow was second and Field Trial third in the field of 16.

Robin Goodfellow carried the silks of Sir Abe Bailey while Field Trial ran with the colors of Lord Astor, who scratched his other horse, Plymouth Sound, early in the day. Field Trial was well played at 7 to 1. The Aga Khan's Theft was fourth while his other entry, Hairan, finished far back.

One of the strongest favorites in recent years, Bahram went to the post the choice at 5 to 4.

Robin Goodfellow, a 50 to 1 shot, finished two lengths back of Bahram with Field Trial another half-length to the rear.

Lord Derby's Fairhaven was the fifth across the line followed by Sea Bequest from C. W. Gordon's stable. Mrs. Corlette Clorney's Assigination, the only American-owned horse in the race, was far back.

The victory was the second Derby triumph for the Indian potentate, his Blenheim having won the race in 1930.

Two Seconds From Record.

Bahram was clocked in two minutes and 36 seconds, two seconds slower than the track record set by Hyperion in 1933 and equaled last year by Windsor Lad.

In winning, Bahram chalked up his sixth straight victory since he started racing as a two-year-old. He also became the eighth horse to win two of the three classics—having previously won the two thousand guineas at Newmarket.

Ridden by Freddy Fox, the son of Blanford easily upheld the confidence of the public, which at one time had been the odd-on-choice. The surprise of the race, however, was Robin Goodfellow. Prior to the Derby his best performance had been a second in the Greenham Plate at Newbury two months ago, when he was beaten by Theft.

Robbie, a 100 to 1 shot, Tommy Weston, was up on his second, when the latter won the 1924 renewal.

Mrs. C. Evans' First Son was the first away from the barrier as Fox dropped Bahram into fifth place back of Screamer, Fry II, St. Botolph and in front of Field Trial. At the half-mile post First Son still was in front with Bahram far back but going down hill Field Trial took command and rounding Tattenham Corner still showed the way. Bahram had moved up to third position, however, with Robin Goodfellow improving fast.

A quarter of a mile from home, Fox let the Aga Khan's colt out a notch and in a few strides he was in front, never to be headed.

"I am very delighted I have won, especially as it's the King's jubilee year," said the Aga Khan, head of 100,000 Mohammedans, as he led his winner through the cheering thousands.

Fox said, "Bahram is a great horse. He ran splendidly. I never was in doubt about winning even before we went to the front a quarter of a mile from home."

King Arrives in Drizzle.

The King and Queen and most of the royal family drove through a drizzle to receive a great reception as they entered the Royal box.

They arrived well before the race was scheduled to be run at 3 p. m. Their party included the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Gloucester, the Duke and Duchess of York, the Duke and Duchess of Kent, with the latter's parents, Prince and Princess Nicholas of Greece, Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught and Lord Harewood.

Raincoats and umbrellas were the approved costumes of York, which began pouring down about 6:30 a. m., still was drenching the course three hours later. The rain slackened to an intermittent drizzle toward noon.

The weather kept the early crowd smaller than usual, but made leading to the course were lined with automobiles and busses, and the railroads were doing a rushing business.

NEW YORK, June 5.—American ticket holders in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes won seven of the 10 major prizes of $148,500 each when Bahram won the English derby today.

The tickets were issued to: Mrs. Anna Hyman, 711 Avenue S., Brooklyn, N. Y.; F. C. Pratt, 135 Woodside avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.; T. O'Brien, 111 West 82d street, New York City;

Miss Hocken and three others, 5 Liberty avenue, Oakland, Pa.; Joseph Tymocz, 11 Carol avenue, Allston, Mass.; "Jack and Sandra Brody," 35 Floyd street, Dorchester, Mass.; A. T. Tietz and L. Hanser, 325 Ridge street, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The total amount which comes to the United States from Dublin for the ticket holders on Bahram thus is about $1,039,500.

Four American tickets were held on Robin Goodfellow, which came in second, and each pays its owner $75,250—a total of $301,000.

The Robin Goodfellow ticketholders are: "Lucky Sophie," 281 Patchen avenue, Brooklyn; "Just Another Chance," 601 Grand avenue, Brooklyn; J. A. Fassick, 47 Park avenue, New York; Frank Maguire, 325 Park place, Brooklyn.

Americans had three tickets on Field Trial, which came in third. Each of these tickets pays $49,470, or a total of $148,410.

The ticketholders on Field Trial are: "Eight Hard Nuts," 848 Buck Lane, Haverford, Pa.; William J. Cunnie, 503 West 148th street, New York; "Foursome," 263 Howard avenue, Staten Island, New York.

President to Ask Congress for Fact Finding Body to Compile Reports and Wind Up Affairs of Old Administrative Organization.

DOES NOT DISCLOSE ANY NEW PROGRAM

Seeks Legislation for Control of Hours and Wages in Government Contracts Which Represent About 1 Pct of National Industry.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—With his major plans, if he has made any, still undisclosed, President Roosevelt late yesterday advanced two "very partial" legislative stop-gaps designed to meet some phases of the situation caused by the Supreme Court's decision in the NRA case.

In effect, the President announced abandonment of the National Industrial Recovery Act as a remedy for the nation's economic and social ills and the retention for nine months of a skeleton of the great administrative organization that was set up under the act to wind up its affairs and compile comprehensive reports of the brief life of NRA.

He also announced the administration would ask for legislation which would compel adherence to labor and other standards set up by NRA in all public works. But this legislation, he pointed out, would scarcely affect more than 1 per cent of the country's industry.

Again using his press conference as a sounding board, the President, in a formal statement issued after a special Cabinet meeting and a conference with congressional leaders, announced that the administration would seek to amend the Clark NRA resolution so that a skeleton NRA organization could be retained as a mere fact-finding body.

Asked when he would announce his next step, whether it would be this week, the President flashed his smile and said that he did not know. Asked whether he and his advisers were considering a constitutional amendment to give the Federal Government authority to meet national social problems, as many persons assumed, he pointed out on Friday, he pointed to the formal announcement and cryptically announced that it was all there was for the present.

The President said, in answer to another question, that he did not know who would head the greatly curtailed NRA organization, and that he had not given any thought to the question whether the direction would be vested in one man or in a board.

One certain effect of the proposed legislation will be to save the jobs of a substantial number of NRA employees.

Nothing to Do With Codes.

The President emphasized that the skeletonized NRA would have absolutely nothing to do with codes and their enforcement. In his formal statement he said:

"It should not be assumed by any person that this proposed continuation of the National Recovery Administration, in skeletonized form, relates in any way to the enforcement of working conditions or fair trade practices formerly existing under the codes. All such requirements were eliminated by the Supreme Court decision."

In his informal remarks to reporters, he said that he did not want to raise any false hopes in the minds of those who want to continue the codes in some new form that the legal continuation of

ROOSEVELT WARNS OF MARTIAL LAW IF LABOR BILLS FAIL

Wagner Measure, C o a l Stabilization Plan "Indispensable," He Tells Leaders in Congress.

MANY IN HOUSE SEEK TO AVOID VOTE

Committee Said to Be Opposed to Industrial Disputes Proposal — President Insistent.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, June 5.—A warning that martial law will be necessary to cope with unrest unless the Wagner Labor Disputes and the Guffey-Snyder Coal Stabilization bills are enacted was attributed today to President Roosevelt.

Several congressional leaders who discussed the matter with him said he used almost these exact words—that the two bills were "indispensable" to prevent the necessity of martial law. The informants, who are key men in Congress, preferred not to be quoted.

It became clear that the two measures most vigorously demanded by union representatives are now on the President's list of "must" legislation.

The United Mine Workers are arranging for a strike in the bituminous coal fields beginning June 17. Their leaders assert 450,000 mine employees will be involved. The President referred to this in his talk with congressional leaders and spoke of possible consequences.

One of the participants in yesterday's White House conference said the President was told there would be trouble getting the Wagner bill through the House.

One Democratic chief in that branch reported that at least 150 House members had expressed a desire to avoid a vote on the bill. He added that trouble would result if it were forced to a vote.

Senators Robinson (Dem.), Arkansas, and Hiram (Dem.), Mississippi, replied, it was said, that they had entertained similar fears before the Wagner bill was brought up in the Senate. They recalled that it was passed by an overwhelming majority and with little debate.

The House conferees said, however, that before the bill could be brought up on the floor it would have to be approved by the House Rules Committee. One added that he knew of only one sure vote out of the nine in that committee for the bill.

The President was reported to have insisted, nevertheless, that the bill be pushed.

High Points of Two Bills.
The Wagner bill would set up a labor relations board with power to order collective bargaining elections, and outlaw "company dominated" unions. It would provide for "majority rule" in collective bargaining. The Guffey-Snyder proposal would provide for control of production, wages, hours and fair trade practices in the bituminous coal industry.

Some changes were in store for both measures. Talk persisted about modifying the Wagner bill to make certain that it applied only to businesses engaged in interstate commerce, though Chairman Connery (Dem.), Massachusetts, of the House Labor Committee insisted such an amendment was unnecessary.

The Guffey-Snyder bill, in the form reintroduced yesterday by Senator Guffey (Dem.), Pennsylvania, was referred to the Attorney-General and the Solicitor-General for study and comment.

The constitutionality of both bills is at least doubtful in view of the Supreme Court's NRA decision holding Congress had no power to intervene between employers and employees in the matter of wages and hours in interstate business, since both bills seek to do this.

CRESTS OF FLOODS APPROACH TOPEKA AND KANSAS CITY

Residents of Lowlands Near Kaw and Its Confluence With Missouri River Take to Hills.

(By the Associated Press.) KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 5.—The flood crests of the Missouri and Kaw Rivers approached their confluence here today, causing concern for the safety of lowland residents.

Farmers stored household articles in second stories of dwellings and hay lofts, and left their farms for the hills, driving their livestock before them. Laborers worked desperately to strengthen dikes and railroad embankments.

The crest of the Kaw River flood was about 75 miles west of here, threatening Topeka, capital of Kansas, while that of the Missouri River—already overflowing in many places along its 400-mile course from here to St. Charles, Mo.—was about the same distance to the north. Engineers feared the total volume of water here would exceed that of the 1908 flood.

Residents of North Topeka were ordered to leave when breaks appeared in dikes to the west of the city. The Kaw was expected to reach a stage of 28 feet, seven feet above the flood mark, there.

Nebraska Streams Recede.
In Nebraska the Republican River receded into its banks and the danger of a serious flood along the Platte River decreased.

An Associated Press survey showed 45 recovered bodies and listed 58 other verified and reported dead, a total of 103 for Nebraska. The Red Cross, however, reported 59 dead and 86 still missing. The death toll in Kansas was eight, and in Missouri three.

United States army engineers were prepared to mobilize 5000 men to meet the flood threat here. Three thousand men were put to work early today by Kansas City (Mo.) officials to build a protecting levee on the south bank of the Kaw to prevent an overflow into the central industrial district.

The entire personnel of the CCC in Missouri was ordered to stand by for emergency work.

Kansas City Airport Threatened.
If the crests of each here at the same time, engineers estimate the two streams will reach a level of from seven to 14 feet above flood stage.

Airlines based at the Municipal Airport made preparations for a hasty evacuation. The field is in the bend of the Missouri and the corner is just opposite the point where the Kaw enters the larger stream.

Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., was ready to transfer its equipment to Wichita and St. Louis in the event the levee fails to check the flood waters. The Hanford Airlines moved its larger ships to Fairfax Airport in Kansas City, Kan. Most of the private planes were moved to nearby fields.

Four National Guards companies were called out at Topeka and Lawrence, 30 miles further down the Kaw, to help residents move their belongings. Corps area headquarters at Omaha offered the use of all Federal equipment needed in the flood-threatened zone.

Roosevelt to Abandon Recovery Act

The NRA in any shape, manner or form related to wages, hours and trade practices. He added that the administration would do nothing to circumvent the Court's decision.

As a fact-finding body, however, the revised NRA will be in a position to supply ammunition for a constitutional amendment, if the administration decides to sponsor such a measure. The President said that the amended Clark resolution, if enacted, would permit the NRA to make public all facts and other information regarding code regulation of business as practices during the past two years, and to assemble certain other facts about business, minus this regulation, for publication in two columns with the NRA information.

The other function of the NRA, if the contract legislation is adopted, would be to see that business is living up to the Government contracts.

The President emphasized that the Government contracts, including those made under loans and grants to states and municipalities, were estimated to be only about 1 per cent of the total business of the country and that the proposed legislation could not be expected to have far-reaching effects. He said that the labor requirements would reach down to the sub-contractors but in reply to a question, he said he did not know whether they would go down to the production of raw materials.

The Clark resolution has already passed the Senate, without a record vote, and is now before the House. The first step relating to the "very partial" stop-gaps, will be to rush the amended bill through the House. After that a conference with the Senate will be required because of the changes made by the amendments. Little difficulty is expected in this procedure. The other step will be the introduction of the contract legislation in either the House and the Senate.

Expires on June 16.
The NRA bill will come first because without legislation the NRA as a legal entity automatically expires June 16.

The President's reference to his two proposals as stop-gaps was taken by the 350 reporters crowded in the conference room as an indication that the administration was considering broader plans. This expectancy was given a little substance by his reference to the Wagner labor disputes bill and the Guffey coal bill. Senator Wagner of New York, one of the authors of the original NRA and the author of the bill to set up a permanent National Labor Relations Board, was one of the leaders attending the meeting preceding the press conference.

Comment on Wagner Bill.
When the President was asked whether he thought the Wagner bill was constitutional, he smiled and said that some people thought so. At the end of the conference, he was asked whether he was prepared to support the Guffey coal bill. He replied that many people thought it was constitutional and might pave the way to a permanent solution of the problems of the coal industry. He declined to say whether he was prepared to support it, explaining that it would be better to let stand the statement that a great many people favored it.

The third part of the President's formal statement related to the 16 Federal agencies affected by the Supreme Court decision. He said that a careful review of the decision disclosed that some new legislation would be required to extend the lives of the Federal Alcohol Control Board, the Electric Statement on Contracts.

By restricting Government contracts to organizations willing to enter contracts to abide by the former code limitations on hours, wages and child labor, the President said that however small this Government business was in proportion to entire industrial production of the country, "the Government should take a practical and definite step to show its good faith in maintaining the larger objectives sought by NRA." These code regulations on Government contracts, he explained, would not apply to the whole plant making supplies for the Government, but only those bought by the set up in the codes for the various industries would apply to the Government contracts, including the use of Government loans or grants to states, municipalities or other local Government agencies, and would carry the flat stipulation that no person under 16 years of age shall be employed on Government work.

"It is believed that this proposed bill," the formal statement said, "carries out a moral responsibility of the Federal Government and is hoped that such action will be followed as largely as possible by private industry in every one of its branches."

The President said, however, that the proposed legislation would not require any change in the $18 to $24 a month wage scale prescribed for the $4,000,000 work relief projects. He took special note of the fact in this connection that the prescribed work relief wages are lower in some instances than those which the former codes prescribed.

Conference Result Disappointing.
Yesterday's series of conferences raised many interesting questions. Staged as they were with characteristic showmanship, the results were disappointing to those who had predicted a definite administration "recovery" program to meet the court's decision. The special meeting of the Cabinet at 11:30 a. m. lasted an hour and 40 minutes. In the afternoon the congressional leaders were cloaked with the President for almost two hours. About 350 correspondents rushed into the President's office shortly after 5 p. m. and remained about 30 minutes. The President was in a cheerful mood and after he had finished reading the formal statement he gave permission to those who wanted to telephone reports of the statement immediately to leave the office.

In contrast to Friday's historic conference, the actual results were meager. The making of the skeletonized NRA into a fact-finding body until April 1, means the liquidation of that once powerful organization. The remaining members will of course furnish the administration with information on the necessity for national plans for social and economic improvement. If Friday's conference was the curtain raiser for a dramatic national spectacle, yesterday's conference with the same scenery was no second act. To the correspondents it seemed only an interlude, designed to keep up interest in the drama until the authors can prepare something more substantial.

Permit to Buy Railway Sought.
WASHINGTON, June 5.—The newly organized Missouri & Arkansas Railway Co. applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission today for permission to acquire the properties formerly held by the Missouri & North Arkansas Railway Co., and to operate the lines. The properties were sold to Frank Kell at a judicial sale March 12, for $350,000. The commission's value upon them for rate-making purposes in 1919 was $9,177,000. Applicants said they would seek authority to issue $918,000 in common stock to turn over to Kell in return for the properties. The lines are wholly in Missouri and Arkansas.

ENGLISHWOMAN FREED IN MURDER ENDS LIFE

Commits Suicide After Her Chauffeur Gets Death for Killing Her Husband.

(By the Associated Press.) CHRISTCHURCH, England, June 5.—The body of a woman who stabbed herself six times in the chest and threw herself into the River Stour last night was identified today as that of Mrs. Alma Rattenbury, acquitted five days ago of a charge of complicity in the mallet murder of her architect husband.

William Mitchell, a herdsman, told authorities he saw the woman sit on the river bank, thrust a dagger into her body and then plunge into the water. He said he attempted to seize her, as she jumped and barely missed clutching her heel.

The dagger sheath was found by the river in a handbag, which also contained several notes. Some of the notes mentioned George Stoner, Mrs. Rattenbury's 19-year-old chauffeur, who was sentenced to be hanged for beating Rattenbury to death.

Mrs. Rattenbury was 31 years old and came from Victoria, B. C. She was married twice before becoming the wife of Rattenbury, who was 57 years old. Her first husband was an army officer who was killed in the World War, and her second an American professor, from whom she was divorced.

It was learned that Mrs. Rattenbury, who wrote songs under the name of Lozanne, sent a letter by special messenger yesterday to Stoner in prison.

The scene of the drowning was not far from Bournemouth, where the Rattenburys lived.

COUNT AND WIFE'S EX-HUSBAND FIGHT SABER DUEL; BOTH HURT
Hungarian Relative of Gladys Vanderbilt Challenged Man Who Demanded Alimony.

(By the Associated Press.) BUDAPEST, June 5.—A distant relative of Gladys Vanderbilt is in a hospital here, recovering from head wounds suffered in a saber duel. He is Count Balint Szechenyi, the fourth cousin of Count Szechenyi, the Hungarian Minister to London, who is the husband of the American heiress.

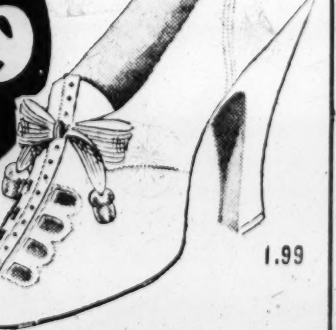

Balint Szechenyi challenged Victor Stein, the former husband of Szechenyi's wife, to a duel after a lawsuit growing out of Count Szechenyi's refusal to continue paying alimony to her former husband. Szechenyi's wife is the daughter of a wealthy Hungarian jeweler.

The duel was fought yesterday. In the first round, Stein was slightly wounded and in the third round both duelists were slashed across their foreheads and taken to hospitals.

Governor Refuses to Save Massachusetts Murderers.

(By the Associated Press.) BOSTON, June 5.—With the statement that he had "decided to allow the law to take its course," Gov. James M. Curley refused today to commute the death sentences of Abraham Faber and Irving and Merton Miller for the murder of a policeman. It is probable they will be electrocuted tomorrow night.

MISSOURI RIVER FLOOD SPREADS IN ST. LOUIS COUNTY

Levee at Monarch Goes Out After Long Fight to Save
It—Another Fails in St.
Charles County.

WATER CONTINUES TO RISE STEADILY

Further Inundation in This Area Feared, Due to Heavy Flow of the Kaw at Kansas City.

Flow of swift, muddy water in the flooded Missouri River, rising higher than had been anticipated, clear across the State, swept over the tops of important levees in St. Louis and St. Charles counties, inundating thousands of acres of additional acres of rich farm land.

The emergency barrier of earth and earth-filled bags broke under the great flow of the Marais river at Monarch, St. Louis county, at 11 o'clock last night,
and several hundred workers had been engaged for more than four days in a back-breaking effort to plug the farm.

swept over the top of the Marais levee at Monarch, St. Louis county, at 11 o'clock last night,
and several hundred workers had
been engaged for more than four days in a back-breaking effort to plug the farm.

The Missouri steadily climbed to the highest level of 1903, in the western end of the State, residents of the lowlands Government engineers relief workers and others watched anxiously for word of the flood from Kansas City. There, the Kaw River was sweeping in with great volume.

city this morning was only a few feet below flood mark.

was rising slowly in the upper reaches. The rise, he said, would have become stationary at Booneville tomorrow if it were not for the rice coming out of the Kansas River. He said there would be a rise tomorrow at Waverly which would extend down the river with a diminishing effect. He estimated that this rise would only add slightly to the crest estimated yesterday at various points along the river.

The rise in the Mississippi River,
he said, would be over at Grafton, Ill., on Thursday but would continue at St. Louis and lower points two or three days.

Heavy rain clouds in the west at dusk last night discouraged the farmers, Civilian Conservation Corps, youths, county highway employees and others strung out along the St. Louis County shore from Centaur to the terminus of Olive Street road. A brisk shower as darkness fell added to their troubles, but they continued their struggle to hold back the river, under the glare of acetylene lamps.

Midway between Centaur and Monarch, where ordinarily there is only a slough, a workman cried, at 9 o'clock, "It's coming over!" as the rushing brown water found a weak spot on top of the emergency barrier. There was great excitement among 150 workers at this point. Some of them hurried away to warn residents of the countryside or to save their own effects.

Half an hour later, a truck arrived with more sacks, and 200 highway workmen stopped this work. Work continued all along the line. The flood was a big, brown trickle down stream, another small trickle over the top began. In a few moments it had widened to a 30-foot breach. The fight was over:
the river won. Up and down the levee, 300 or more tired men hurried to take away a big, brown drag-line, several tractors and many automobiles. Farmers began driving away livestock by lantern light.

County Farm Agent Meier estimated that at least 5000 acres of cultivated land would be inundated by this breach. The area spreads from the Wild Horse ridge to the river north of Olive Street road and east to Chesterfield and Howard's Bend. Some farmers have feared 10,000 acres would be submerged.

This morning the river was running over Monarch road in a steady widening path, just north of the store of William E. Sutton, who was there June 3, 1903, when the community lost another fight against the river. South of the store, sandbags were being placed to protect the Rock Island Railroad track. The railroad was still operating, although its trains had to go through 18 inches of water to the east, where Creve Coeur Lake and the Missouri have joined in a sheet of water possibly four miles wide.

submerged several hundred acres of farm lands.

In Western St. Charles County, from Augusta to a point two miles below Defiance, including the Kiondike and Matson regions, the area of cultivated land that has been flooded was estimated by County Farm Agent E. A. Langenbacher at 10,000 acres. There were 100 to 150 farm houses flooded in this section.
The river has reached as far as the M-K-T track.

Flight Over Flood Area.
Capt. B. M. Harloe, army engineer in charge of the St. Louis river district, flew over the lower Missouri yesterday. He estimated there were 45,000 acres of cultivated land under water in the 95-mile stretch from the mouth to Hermann. The valley between main bluffs varies from four to five miles wide; he thought 60 per cent of the land in the valley was under water yesterday and that 75 per cent would be today. From the air the effect was of a huge lake and in places the channel could not be discerned. Persons familiar with this region have estimated the loss to farmers there at $1,000,000.

A fleet of Government boats has virtually completed removal of stranded persons, livestock and goods which could be reached by low Hermann. The boatmen found many instances where only two or three feet of the tops of silos, barns and houses protruded above water.
The current in the channel has increased from three and a half miles an hour to six or seven, but there has been negligible current in the backwater.

Dispatches reported more than 20,000 acres of corn land inundated in Warren County, where much livestock was drowned. There the water stretched over low places as much as 10 miles, it was estimated.
The river had gone knee-deep across grounds of the St. Louis County Water Co. pumping plant at Howard's Bend today and communication between buildings was by boat. The main pumping plant and reservoir were above danger and an auxiliary pumping plant was protected against a further rise by sandbags. Roads around the plant were submerged to a depth of from 15 inches to nine feet. The nearby city waterworks remained dry, on somewhat higher ground, as did the Chain of Rocks plant on the Mississippi.

At Alton, the Mississippi has flooded about 65 homes in East End Place. Some of the 250 residents have not departed, but wade back and forth. Clerks at a grocery, wearing hipboots, served customers in a street. Furniture has been moved to a big tent in a baseball park, where tents will be offered to refugees.

Flood conditions in the Osage and the Grand rivers, two principal tributaries of the Missouri, apparently have begun to abate. The Osage has begun to fall below Bagdad dam; the Grand did not change at Chillicothe since yesterday. The flooded Illinois River has continued to fall.

Government construction work on the Missouri has been halted for some time by the high water.

MME. LEBRUN SEES THE SIGHTS IN WASHINGTON

French President's Wife Whisked From Place to Place—Regrets She Can't Stay Longer.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 5.—In one
Paris costume after another, Mme.
Albert Lebrun, wife of the President of France, was whisked from place to place today as fast as she could go.

"We are in such a hurry," she said, expressing regret that she could not linger and see more.
A visit to Mount Vernon was on her early morning program after yesterday's state dinner at the White House and intimate reception at the French Embassy.

This afternoon she had to depart for New York for more festivities, notably a big ball tonight aboard her "god child," the liner Normandie.

Call on Mrs. Roosevelt.
While wings surrounded a small white hat matching the white applied left lapel of her sheer dark blue afternoon gown when she went calling on Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at the White House yesterday.

All the Ambassadors and their wives, plus a few other officials, were introduced to a gray georgettegowned Mme. Lebrun in a big black hat at the French Embassy. Her ornaments were simple—pearl earrings, a plain gold wrist watch, and old-fashioned wedding and engagement rings.

Among those invited were Representative Caroline O'Day and Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, both evidently objects of special interest to the wife of the French President when their work was explained to her by Mme. de Laboulaye, wife of the French Ambassador.

Interview With Press.
Mme. Lebrun sat on a divan at the Embassy and let woman reporters fire questions at her.
"I am never interviewed in France," she said. "It is not the fashion. In France I am nozzling official—I am nozzling but the wife of the President."

"New York is very curious," said Mme. Lebrun. "Washington is very charming."

"What do you mean by curious?"
she was asked.
"It is like nozzling else," was her apt answer. "All zoe buildings seem like minarets."

She had seen, she said, the Empire State Building, Central Park and Broadway at night.

What was the experience on her trip on the Normandie?

"The entrance in New York—oh, it was splendid! All the people crying. Ah, it was extraordinary!"
Her interests at home?

No amount of questions would draw her into feminism or politics.
She had four grandchildren, and she named them: Ann Marie, Peter, and Helen, children of her daughter, and John Paul, son of her son. She had two charities, one religious mission work, the other a caterer for mothers.

Tea at White House.
Then Mme. Lebrun had to hasten to tea at the White House. She was Mrs. Roosevelt's guest at both tea and a state dinner where Mrs.
Woodrow Wilson, who visited France when she was a President's wife, was a guest.

It was an exquisitely appointed and formal dinner in which two puzzling problems of protocol popped up. Mrs. Wilson was placed ahead of the speaker and Mrs.
Byrns, the Secretary of State and Mrs. Hull, and the Secretary of Navy and Mrs. Swanson. William Bertrand and Mme. Bertrand were seated right below the French Ambassador and Mme. Le Laboulaye, exactly as would have happened if the French Cabinet in which he was Minister of Merchant Marine had not fallen again after he landed—after falling while he was at sea.

U. S. HIGHWAY NO. 40 CLOSED, DUE TO FLOOD, OPPOSITE ST. CHARLES

St. Charles road (United States Highway No. 40) was closed to traffic opposite St.
Charles today because of the Missouri River flood. Traffic was detoured to St. Charles by way of Lindbergh boulevard and State Highways Nos. 99 and 94. The latter, a gravel road, was under about two feet of water near West Alton, and a local detour past this spot was arranged, although it was doubtful how long it would remain available.

Back water began flowing over St. Charles road about a mile east of the St. Charles bridge last midnight. Traffic was maintained for a time, but the highway was closed this morning when the water continued to rise.

Drivers crossing the state were asked by the State Highway Department to use United States Highway No. 50.

REPUBLICANS BLOCK PASSAGE OF BILL IN ILLINOIS HOUSE

Interstate Compact for Oil and Gas Conservation Denounced as "Smacking" of NRA.
By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 5.—Republicans prevented passage of a bill in the Democratic-controlled Illinois House yesterday after it appeared to have passed by a vote of 77 to 57. The measure, passed by the Senate, provided for the ratification and approval of an interstate compact for conservation of oil and gas.
Elmer Schnackenberg, Chicago Republican, denounced the measure as "brain trust" legislation, asserting it was conceived by Rexford Tugwell, Undersecretary of Agriculture, and "smacked" of the unconstitutional NRA.

Democrats made a quick survey and decided they lacked the 77 votes needed for approval of the measure. Party leaders called a suspension in the roll call until they could muster full voting strength.

DRUNKEN DRIVER WHO FLED AFTER ACCIDENT FINED $250

William H. Eaton, Wellston, Pleads Guilty on Three Counts
Before Judge Veen.
William H. Eaton, 6139 Ridge avenue, Wellston, pleaded guilty of driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident and careless driving, and was fined $250 by Police Judge Veen yesterday.

After an automobile driven by Eaton collided with a parked car in the 3300 block of North Fourteenth street last Saturday, Eaton drove away. Police found his car parked in the 3300 block of North Eleventh street three days later and arrested him in an alley near by.

TWO HANGED FOR IOWA KILLING

Life of Elmer Brewer, Pat Griffin, Taken for Murder on Deputy.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
FORT MADISON, Ia., June 5.—
Saying "good-by" to each other,
Elmer Brewer and Pat Griffin were hanged at 5:26 a. m. today on the Fort Madison penitentiary gallows, for the murder of William Dilworth, Waterloo, Ia. deputy sheriff, in December, 1932.

Brewer, 40 years old and father of five children, told Sheriff H. T.
Wagner, who sprung the trap, "I want you to respect my children."

With his arms strapped at the elbows, Griffin shook his hands together in front of him as a boxer does to a crowd.

BOY, 2, HURT IN 18-FOOT FALL

Plunges Through Window; Both Legs are Broken.

Vito, two-year-old son of John Meuricio, 1913A O'Fallon street, fell from a chair through an open window at the Meuricio home yesterday afternoon and struck a concrete walk 18 feet below. Both legs were fractured. He was taken to City Hospital.

WEYERHAEUSER RANSOM BILL IS PASSED IN OREGON

Federal Agents Intensify Hunt for Kidnapers of Tacoma Boy After Development.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)
TACOMA, Wash., June 5.—Government agents intensified their efforts to capture the kidnapers of George Weyerhaeuser today after the appearance of one of the 20,000 bills of the $200,000 ransom in Eastern Oregon. One Department of Justice agent predicted the case would "break wide open" by tomorrow night.

A former Portland bootlegger was reported by Capt. Jack Keegan of the Portland detective force, to be sought on suspicion he might be the "pot-bellied man" described by the nine-year-old victim as one of his abductors.

Police were reported as interested in him because he has not been known to have been seen since the kidnaping, and a still of his recently was seized in the vicinity of Issaquah, Wash., where the boy was freed.

Description Fits Kidnapers.
Capt. Keegan said the man was a bootlegger and liquor runner familiar with all of the out-of-the-way roads of Oregon, Washington and Idaho. Police were understood to have been informed his description fitted that given by young Weyerhaeuser of one of his abductors.

The was a member of one of the last Pacific Northwest liquor running gangs to be broken up.
Several Federal agents made mysterious trips by automobile from their temporary headquarters here last night.

Belief that a development was near came from comments of a Department of Justice spokesman last yesterday. He asserted the case would "break wide open within 48 hours." He refused to indicate whether the break would be the arrest of a suspect. He indicated the kidnapers are believed to be a Pacific Northwest gang.

$20 Reserve Note Passed.
This was after the agents had learned a $20 San Francisco Federal Reserve note taken Sunday night at Huntington in Eastern Oregon was part of the $200,000 M.
and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser Jr. paid for the return of their son
Saturday morning.

The bill was identified by Blaine Coles, vice-president of the First National Bank in Portland, when arrived at the bank from Huntington. It had been sent in by T. C.
Hunter, Union Pacific System station agent, who said a man about 30 years old, smooth shaven and wearing a tan suit and brown hat, tendered it to C. E. Hannon, telegraph operator, in paying for a ticket to Salt Lake City. Hunter said the man boarded an eastbound train at 10:10 that night.

The Huntington description of the man who gave the ransom bill, did not fit closely the description of any of the three suspects broadcast in the hunt for the kidnapers.

CONSPIRACY CHARGE FAILS
Dismissal of Indictment of Illinois Ex-Official Upheld.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 5.—The Illinois Supreme Court today upheld the dismissal and indictment charging conspiracy to defraud against H. L. Williamson of Springfield, former State superintendent of printing.

It upheld the quashing of the "tourist guide" indictment by the Appellate Court.

RIVAL UNIONS IN DISPUTE OVER HIGHWAY WORK ON EAST SIDE

One Group Sets Up Picket Line at Maryville, Ill.; Deputy Sheriffs on Guard.

Two rival groups of union laborers, each consisting of about 100 men, gathered today at an over-pass under construction on Illinois Highway No. 159 at Maryville, four miles northeast of Collinsville.

One group represented American Federation of Labor members, who are employed on the job, while the others were from the Progressive Trades and Labor Union who desire the work. The Progressive group has instituted a picket line.

Six deputy sheriffs were on hand as the factions met and remained nearby as the two delegations combined in a general conference.

DRUG FIRM INCREASES WAGES

CLEVELAND, O., June 5.—Officials of the K-W Drug Co., announcing a 5 per cent wage increase for 75 employees today, said:
"This is in keeping with, and one step ahead of President Roosevelt's request that a high wage standard be maintained."

M. H. Klein, vice-president of the company which operates six stores in Cleveland, said the increase will restore the wages to a level slightly above that of 1929. There will be no change in the hours worked by the employees, Klein said, and they will receive vacations with pay.

Stamp Dispute Halls Mail.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 5.—
All mail was halted at the international border yesterday as a result of a Hungarian-Czechoslovakian postage stamp dispute. The Czech postoffice refuses to handle Hungarian mail bearing stamps with the slogan, "Justice for Hungary." Hungarian postal employes have been instructed to turn back all letters bearing Czech stamps of denominations equal to those rejected by Hungary.

18-Year-Old Girl Missing.

Police have been asked to search for Rosalie Ruffino, 18 years old, who has been missing from her home, 6412 Flyer avenue, since Monday night, when she told her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ruffino, that she was going to a neighborhood movie. The parents say she may have been taken away by an admirer.

TRAIN IS WRECKED BY DYNAMITE BLAST

Member of Train Crew Hurt Near Athens, Ill.; Mine Trouble Suspected as Cause.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 5.—A Chicago and Illinois Midland locomotive and several cars were overturned, the right-of-way was badly damaged and a member of the train crew injured slightly early today by an explosion railroad agents said they suspected was due to mine war troubles. The blast occurred near Athens and was felt by residents there.

The explosion tore up the earth for several feet in front of a southbound freight train carrying flour and general merchandise, causing the locomotive to pitch forward and then on its side. The engine dragged the foremost boxcars with it. The train originated at Peoria and was en route to Taylorville.

Apparently a dynamite charge was placed in the path of the train just before it reached the spot, which is near a bridge and in a wooded section. A handcar carrying railroad special agents had preceded the train, a precaution used regularly because of previous vandalism against the road, which is principally a coal line.

Whitney Sapp was the crew member injured. Several others in the cab were reported to have leaped to safety as the blast occurred.

John Glenn, a farmer, told railroad agents he saw several automobile loads of men in the vicinity of the explosion.

MELLON BANK ORDERED TO SHOW STOCK RECORDS

Union Trust of Pittsburgh, Pa., Directed to Produce Documents at Tax Hearing.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Mellon-controlled Union Trust Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., was ordered today, over the protests of its counsel, to produce before the Board of Tax Appeals certain documents showing the former Secretary of the Treasury's stock transactions.

E. H. Van Fossan, chairman of the division of the board hearing the case said those parts of the Government application for the subpoena relating to transactions in which R.
E. Mellon and the Union Trust Co. were not involved should be quashed.

However, the company will be required to produce documents which the Government says bear on actions of R. E. Mellon as agent for Andrew Mellon and as the participant and also to show the "corporate state of mind" of the Union Trust Co.

The subpoena was made returnable at the hearing here Friday morning. John G. Essner, attorney for the trust company, said he would report to the board tomorrow on the company's attitude toward the subpoena.

Acquitted in Kansas City Killing.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 5.— Charles Casciola was acquitted of murder yesterday at his second

COURT ORDERS MRS. HIGBEE WILL CONTEST RETRIED

State Supreme Tribunal Affirms Ruling of Trial Judge in Action of Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer.

$1,300,000 ESTATE INVOLVED IN SUIT

"Substantial Showing of Undue Influence," Opinion Says—Error in Instructions Cited.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 5.—An order of St. Louis Circuit Court granting Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer of St. Louis a new trial of her suit contesting the validity of the will of her aunt, Mrs. Fannie H. Higbee of St. Louis, was affirmed today by the Missouri Supreme Court en banc. The will in question disposes of an estate valued at about $1,300,000.

This was the second hearing before the court of an appeal by proponents of the will from the new trial order. Division No. 2 of the court in September, 1932, sustained the will, set aside the order for a new trial, and directed the Circuit Court to enter a final judgment upholding the will. However, the case then was transferred to the court en banc for a rehearing by the entire court.

In sustaining the order for a new trial the Supreme Court today ruled AMERICAN named by Ethiopia to the Italo-Ethiopian commission of conciliation which will hold its first meeting tomorrow in Milan, Italy. He is an author and educator.

the contestant's evidence "made more than a substantial showing that undue influence induced the execution of the will," and that the lower court had erred in an instruction given to the jury, at the request of the defense, defining soundness of mind.

What Plaintiffs Alleged.

The will contest, filed in January, 1928, was based on charges that Mrs. Higbee lacked mental capacity to make a will, at the time it was executed, and that the execution of the will was obtained through alleged undue influence of Benjamin G. Chapman Jr., of St. Louis, a nephew, and his mother, Mrs. Louisa Chapman Bowen, were the principal beneficiaries under the will. According to the court opinion these four beneficiaries would receive under the will approximately $1,200,000 of the estate, less taxes and administrative expenses.

The trial jury returned a verdict sustaining the will. The trial judge set the verdict aside and ordered a new trial, on the ground the verdict was against the weight of the evidence on the issue of undue influence, that error had been committed in giving the jury the instruction defining soundness of mind, and that error had been committed in refusing to give the jury an instruction offered by the contestant, on evidence concerning admission of the will to probate.

Provisions of Will.

Mrs. Higbee died in St. Louis on Jan. 18, 1927, at the age of 76. Her will, after certain other bequests, left $500,000 each to four nieces, Mrs. Laura Edgar Whittemore, Mrs. Ethel Allan, Mrs. Dorothy Edgar Bennett and Mrs. Pulitzer, all sisters. The residue was left to Mrs. Chapman and her three children.

Judge G. R. Ellison, who wrote the opinion, reviewed the evidence as to Benjamin G. Chapman's business relations with Mrs. Higbee and said this evidence, in his opinion, "was sufficient to show activity upon the part of the appellant Chapman in the execution of the contested will," within the meaning of the Court's decisions on the effect of confidential and fiduciary relationships.

"Considering all these facts in connection with the presumption arising from the fiduciary relation," Judge Ellison said, "we think the evidence most favorable to the contestant made more than a substantial showing that undue influence induced the execution of the will, though, of course, we do not attempt to pass on the weight of the evidence."

All of the other Judges of the court en banc concurred in the ruling, except Judge Walter D. Coles, who did not sit in the case.

MISSOURI ALLOTTED 6 MILLION OF WORKS FUND FOR ROADS

Same Amount Will Be Spent in State on Crossing Illinois Will Get 19 Million.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 5.—Apportionment of $200,000,000 for highways, roads and streets, and $200,000,000 for elimination of grade crossings, is announced by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Such sums, made under the works relief bill, included all states, the District of Columbia and Hawaii. They have been approved by the President. They include:

Missouri, $6,012,652 for roads, $6,142,153 for elimination of crossings; Illinois, $8,694,009 and $10,307,184; and Arkansas, $3,352,061 and $3,574,060.

Boy Takes It To Police, Saying It "Rained" From Sky.

By the Associated Press.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 5.—Fourteen-year-old Billy Castleberry received a reward Monday for a pocketbook that "rained" out of the sky.

Mrs. Thelma Young claimed the purse containing $6.10 after the boy had taken it to police and said it fell during a downpour of rain. Mrs. Young explained the pocketbook fell from her lap as she was enjoying an airplane ride. She gave Billy a reward.

NEWSPAPER MEN DEBATE POLICIES OF GUILD PAPER

Report of Editor Sent to Committee on Publications for Study.

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., June 5.—The American Newspaper Guild's Committee on Publications studied the report of Clyde Beals, editor of the Guild Reporter, today following a debate over the editorial policy of the paper.

Delegates to the Guild's national convention approved the report by a vote of 71½ to 57½ and sent it to the Committee on Publications, headed by Paul Y. Anderson of Washington, a St. Louis delegate. The debate came on the motion to approve the report when Harold T. Meek of St. Louis asked who determined the editorial policy of the paper. Beals, a New York delegate, said the source of "inspiration" for the editorials was "irregular." He said he talked with Jonathan Eddy, executive secretary, at times and with volunteer workers who helped get out the paper. These conversations determined the treatment of stories, he said. Meek said it appeared that a group of New York newspaper men controlled the Reporter. Roger E. Gibson of Philadelphia said "gibes" against local guilds should be left out of the paper.

A discussion of Eddy's influence was cut short by Heywood Brown.

Barricaded Fugitive Killed.

By the Associated Press.
ROCKFORD, Ill., June 5.—Clarence Wallin, 30 years old, a furniture worker, was shot and killed by police Monday when, they said, he threatened them with a rifle at his home where he fled after wounding a fellow worker at the factory. Factory officials said Wallin had been suffering recurring mental attacks and had been discharged Monday morning. He returned a short time later, they said, and fired a rifle through an open window, injuring a workman. He then ran home and barricaded himself.

"BRAIN TRUST" PLAN DIDN'T HELP FRISCO

Counsel for Road Says A. A.
Berle Jr. Never Appeared to Explain Formula.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The failure of a plan, attributed to A.
A. Berle Jr., an original "brain trust," to solve the financial troubles of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co., was discussed today before the Federal Securities Commission.The "Berle formula," as outlined by Robert T. Swaine, New York attorney, who formerly served as general counsel for the Frisco, called for a reduction of about $9,000,000 annually in fixed charges.The "Berle formula," Swaine testified, "was not sound in the light of the earnings then of the Frisco."
It would, he said, necessitate the borrowing of about $5,000,000 annually.Swaine said that three bondholders' committees considered the "Berle formula," adding: "We never could get Mr. Berle to join in the negotiations and it's hard to play Hamlet without Hamlet."The witness testified that he mentioned Berle's proposal to Jesse Jones, Reconstruction Finance Commission chairman, in September, 1933, and Jones said he "never heard of it," adding that the Frisco could not rely on the RFC to put up its deficit.Jones suggested, Swaine said, that the readjustment managers "sit tight" with the reorganization plan of July, 1932, which was not definitely abandoned until late in December, 1933.The readjustment managers voted, 9 to 1, to abandon the plan.
Edward N. Brown, New York, chairman of the Frisco board, dissenting "on advice of counsel."Swaine said the advice was not from him, since he felt the readjustment managers had kept their pledge to the RFC, Railroad Credit Corporation and Interstate Commerce Commission to use their "best efforts" to put the plan into effect.Berle represented the RFC in some of the negotiations with officials of the Frisco.Much of Swaine's testimony today dealt with unsuccessful efforts to work out a consolidation plan with the Rock Island, or have the Frisco be taken over by the Santa Fe or the Southern Pacific.

BOMBS FOUND IN PACKING PLANT AFTER WORKERS STRIKE

Oklahoma Governor Suspects "Bad
Lot of Professional Agitators," Not Union.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., June 5.
—Gov. E. W. Marland disclosed the discovery of five bombs yesterday in the Wilson & Co. packing plant, where 375 union workers went on strike.Marland said: "I don't think the union has anything at all to do with it. It is a bad lot of professional agitators." The announcement followed a conference between the Governor and Stanley Rogers, Oklahoma County Sheriff, whose deputy, George Kerr, received a broken nose in a fight with Harry L. Carson, local union president.Referring to the bombs, Marland said, "that sort of thing has got to be stopped. A few agitators get in here and get the union men stirred up to strike. I am going to make it unhealthy for labor agitators coming in."

THREE NRA INJUNCTION SUITS IN ST. LOUIS TO BE DISMISSED

Coal Service Co., Ilmo Trucking
Co. and National Garment Co.
Are Defendants.An order for the dismissal of three NRA injunction suits, pending in United States District Court here, was received today by District Attorney Blanton, in a telegram from Attorney-General Cummings.The order is in pursuance of a nation-wide policy, adopted after the Supreme Court's adverse decision on NRA.The defendants in the three local cases were the Coal Service Co., Ilmo Trucking Co. and National Garment Co. In each case an order of court, requiring the company to comply with NRA code provisions, was asked.

ST. CHARLES RELIEF OFFICE CLOSED DUE TO PICKETING

State Officials Ordered Action, County Director Says; Field Worker Beaten.The St. Charles County Relief Association, which has been caring for about 500 families, was closed indefinitely today, Director Fred Jacoby announced, because of activities of persons who have been picketing the association's office at St. Charles. He said he had been ordered to close the office by State relief officials.For about a month the office has been picketed by persons who complained of discrimination in distribution of work relief. Yesterday several men attacked and pum-meled Marion Russell, a field worker, as he was returning to the office.

Prices Cut, Butcher Shops Reopen.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Many Jewish households had meat last night for the first time in 14 days, as some of the butcher shops picketed by striking housewives reduced prices and reopened. The strike was called off in the Brighton Beach and Coney Island sections of Brooklyn after the butchers reduced all prices except on poultry.

JUDGE DENIES $11,000 CLAIM OF LAWYERS

Fees Sought Totalled $13,000 of $15,000 Free Assets of Garage Company.

By the Associated Press.

When five lawyers sought allowances from Federal Judge Davis today for fees and expenses totaling more than $13,000 in connection with the reorganization of Associated Garages, Inc., the Court, informed that the company's free assets amounted to but $15,000, dismissed four of the claims, allowing $2000 to the attorney who had represented the company. The others represented bondholders' committees."The amended bankruptcy law seems to provide for a good many things in the Court's discretion," Judge Davis told the attorneys, "but I can't see that these committees, organized to protect their own interests, should be paid from this fund, which is already in critical shape. You'll have to convince me that the act provides for these payments before I'll approve them."Irl Rosenblum, who asked $5000 as counsel for a committee representing fee ownership certificates, recounted the work done to enable his committee to incorporate its ideas in the reorganization plan, which had been approved by the Court."Yes, but that was in the committee's own interests," Judge Davis replied. "I don't understand this situation. Several lawyers apparently represent identical interests and the Court did not appoint these committees."Thomas McPheeters, who had asked for expenses of $236 and a reasonable fee as attorney for a fee ownership committee in addition to $1000 for the committee and $346 for its expenses, said he did not think the committee should stand expenses as it had been drawn into the litigation by the company's petition for reorganization. Judge Davis said he held a different view.Turning to R. W. Chubb, attorney for the company, and for a second mortgage bondholders' committee, Judge Davis said: "You may draw an order for payment of $2000 for yourself (the amount Chubb sought) and omit all the rest of these fees.
If there is any more to be said in open court and not in my chambers."The other applications dismissed were those of Henry J. Kaltenbach Jr. for $4000 as attorney for a first mortgage bondholders' committee,
and of Noah Weinstein, who claimed $500 for a minority bondholders' committee in addition to his fee of $150 and expenses of $150 as attorney for the committee.

BRIDGE APPROACH BOND ISSUE BILL TO BE SUBMITTED

Aldermen to Vote on Presenting $800,000 Proposal at Election to Be Held Sept. 10.

TERMINAL FAILED TO MAKE GUARANTEE

PWA to Lend $769,100 for Work at Municipal Span and to Make Grant for Rest of $1,103,000 Cost.

An ordinance to submit a $800,000 bond election to the voters, to provide funds for the completion of four railroad approaches to the Municipal Bridge, will be drawn by Associate City Counselor Wayman and presented to the Board of Aldermen at its meeting Friday. If approved, the election will be held Sept. 10—when $7,500,000 in bonds for the Jefferson Memorial river front development program, also will be submitted to the voters.

Wayman was authorized to take the action by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which took the step to guarantee a PWA loan of $769,100 for the work. Under the original proposition offered by the PWA, the Terminal Railroad was asked to guarantee the loan. At a meeting of the Terminal's board of directors the vote was not unanimous in agreeing to the plan, and the Terminal advised the city the guarantee could not be made. Total cost of the work is $1,103,000. In addition to the loan, the PWA had agreed to make a grant of the remaining amount. Wayman said he expected the loan and the grant would be given if the bonds were approved.

Agreement of Terminal. Wayman said the City was proceeding with the bond issue plans on the assumption that the Terminal Railroad Association would carry out its agreement to pay annually a minimum of $500,000 for the use of the bridge and the approaches, when completed. The contract was made in September, 1929.

The work to be done includes completion of the Southern Valley Junction in East St. Louis, which will connect from Nineteenth street to the Valley Junction freight yards; on the west side of the bridge, a connection to the Terminal yards at Seventh and Gratiot streets which will provide access through the yards to the Union Station; a connection at Twelfth street with the Missouri Pacific and Frisco Railroads, and completion of the East St. Louis Union Station approach from the east span of the bridge.

Other Actions by Board. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment also approved yesterday ordinances appropriating $445,000 for the construction of the Arsenal Street Relief Sewer, and $55,000 for an extension of the Joint Relief Sewer, downtown. The money will come from 1934 bond issue funds. The Arsenal sewer will serve the section of the city south of Arsenal street and east of Grand boulevard. Engineers estimate it will take about two years to complete the job.

At the suggestion of Director of Public Welfare Darst, the board asked the Board of Public Safety to hold up plans for a new district police station at Arsenal street, west of the city sanitarium. Darst said construction of the building there would curtail the recreational space for women patients at the sanitarium.

More Help Desired Recorder. A bill introduced by Alderman Slav, which would appropriate $9540 to the Recorder of Deeds for the hiring of seven additional employees, was disapproved by the board, with the statement there was no need to add to the Recorder's staff.

The board, which has been designated as the administrative agency in St. Louis for the State old age pension law, requested the City Law Department for an opinion on its functions and responsibilities under the law.

CHICAGO ARCHDEACON HONORED

Former Elgin (Ill.) Pastor Receives Columbia University Medal.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The Rev. Winfred H. Ziegler, Episcopal Archdeacon of Chicago, was awarded the 1935 medal for excellence by the trustees of Columbia University during commencement exercises yesterday. The medal was conferred by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia, as a reward for outstanding service in Episcopal missionary fields.

Following his graduation from Columbia in 1911, Archdeacon Ziegler served in the missionary fields of Alaska several years. In 1923 he became rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Elgin, Ill., and served in that capacity until his present appointment, four years ago.

SUITS TO PREVENT LAW PRACTICE BY TWO ASSOCIATIONS

New Attorneys' Group Seeks to Restrain Automobile Club and Credit Men's Adjustment Bureau.

Suits to restrain the Automobile Club of Missouri and the Adjustment Bureau of the St. Louis Association of Credit Men from practicing law, charging they have done so without authority, were filed in Circuit Court yesterday by the new Lawyers' Association of the Eighth Judicial District of Missouri.

The petitions charged that both organizations advertised that they maintained legal departments, although they had "no right to carry on a law business," and asserted that their operations "tend to bring the legal profession and the administration of justice and law into bad repute."

The complaint alleged that through its legal department the Automobile Club has advised members in legal matters involving use of their cars, has represented members in court in cases involving minor infractions of traffic laws and has sought to collect property damages for members in collisions.

Club Hires Four Lawyers. Matt F. Morse, manager of the club, said it employed four lawyers on a full-time salary basis to serve members in "nuisance" cases, and that it did not furnish representation in personal injury matters or property claims involving more than $100. He said the club had voluntarily filed with the St. Louis Bar Association a schedule of its activities.

Gus Vahlkamp, general attorney for the club, said the suit would be contested, explaining that the legal department had been set up at the request of club members in 1920 to handle small matters in which the legal fee generally was higher than the amount involved. If the contention of the complainant that members of a voluntary association could not use such a plan was correct, he said, then the Lawyers' Association should devise a plan to protect motorists.

Clarence T. Case, chairman of the St. Louis Bar Association's Committee on Unauthorized Practice of Law, said his committee had considered the legal activities of both organizations and had concluded they were without authority, but had taken no action in view of the fact that representatives of both had expressed a willingness to cooperate in conforming to a suggested plan of operation. He added that the policy of his committee, mainly an investigating body, was to take no action on complaints without the approval of the State Supreme Court's Bar Committee of this district.

Credit Association Petition. The petition against the credit association alleged that through advertising it often received sufficient claims against insolvents to control selection of a trustee in bankruptcy or an assignee in common law and that sometimes it represented adverse interests. Through claims received the Adjustment Bureau was able in some instances to elect employees of the association as trustees in bankruptcy, the petition continued, with the result that the employee got a statutory fee out of the bankrupt estate and in addition a collection fee from the creditor it represented.

Today's starting, shifting and accelerating waste your money—if your gasoline hasn't these 3 Kinds of Power

IT is not difficult to make a gasoline that merely STARTS quickly... or one that PULLS HARD... or one that gives you more MILEAGE on steady running.

But your pocketbook would be hard hit if your gasoline did only ONE of these important jobs well.

The big engineering job is to make a gasoline that has ALL THREE of these kinds of power... and in PERFECT BALANCE!

Today such a gasoline has been perfected.

It is the FIRST truly balanced gasoline. It is called "Super-Shell."

It is another big achievement by the Shell engineers whose research helped to pave the way for the high-compression head principle used in 98% of today's cars.

Having 3 kinds of power in perfect balance, Super-Shell saves you money in 3 ways. That's a good reason to stop TODAY at one of the 30,000 neighborly Shell stations from Coast to Coast.

SAVES gasoline in 3 ways—

STARTING—With its even volatility, Super-Shell can save up to a cupful on every "cold" start. Even on sizzling days, your engine is relatively "cold" when not running.

SHIFTING—Super-Shell can save up to a cupful in 10 minutes of hard pulling, or rapid accelerating, or on hills.

RUNNING—With its abundant heat units, Super-Shell can save up to a cupful of gasoline in every hour of steady running, many motorists report.

PRESIDENT CLOSES FOREIGN TRADE OFFICE

George N. Peek, Its Head, Will Continue as President of Two Export-Import Banks.

WASHINGTON, June 5. — The White House has announced that the office of special adviser to the President on foreign trade, held by George N. Peek, will be terminated

June 10. Peek was placed in this position when he resigned as chief of the AAA after a controversy with Secretary Wallace and Dr. Rexford G.
Tugwell. Since then he has issued a series of letters to the President and made speeches attacking the foreign trade program undertaken by Secretary of State Hull.

In disclosing that the office would be terminated, Mr. Roosevelt said it was one of the agencies to be closed as a result of the Supreme Court's NRA decision. He said its work had been completed.
Peek will continue as president of the two export-import banks organized to assist in financing business with other nations.
In his capacity as trade adviser,
Peek has protested vigorously against the unconditional most-favored nation clause which Hull has made the cornerstone of trade negotiations. It provides that concessions granted any nation in trade pact are extended to all others which give equality of treatment to American goods.

COMPTROLLER ASSAILS SHIP DEAL WITH VINCENT ASTOR

At the formal opening of the War Department Exposition, the said he had not communicated with Washington in several days. It is thought he is now in San Francisco.
Asked if the matter of the Leviathan contract had been discussed with President Roosevelt, Peacock declined any comment. He added, however, that it was his recollection that the President had stated at a press conference, shortly after the announcement that the Leviathan would be laid up, that he was familiar with all details of the contract.

The President is a close friend of Vincent Astor. Several times since he has been in the White House he has gone fishing with Astor on the Astor yacht, the Nourmahal. Another of the President's fishing companions is Kenneth Roosevelt, who is a distant relative, is an officer

"Color Girl" Honors Midshipmen

MISS HILDA HAZARD of Baltimore, Md., presenting the colors to Midshipman Walter A. Moore Jr., of Port Arthur, Tex., at ceremonies during Commencement Week exercises at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., yesterday afternoon. Midshipman Moore selected Miss Hazard for presentation honors as a result of his company's winning the regimental flag competition.

company that had failed. This was originally a tri-party agreement, involving Pacific Coast steamship interests represented by R. Stanley Dollar and Kenneth D. Dawson and the International Mercantile Marine. According to Schell, the Dollar and Dawson groups are out and International Mercantile Marine has about a 90 per cent stock control of United States Lines.

The real financial stake is the profit in United States mail contracts. This is a disguised form of subsidy of the International Mercantile Marine, a report by Farley to the Senate committee investigating air and ocean mail contracts said.

"A thorough consideration of the operations of the International Mercantile Marine Co. leads one to the conviction that it is unwise and economically imprudent for this Government to pay out immense sums as aid for the building of an American Merchant Marine and then permit their control through a network of holding, subsidiary and affiliated companies, which may in any manner permit the dissipation of funds provided for ship construction and operation."

The report showed that the United States Lines had made a profit from Dec. 9, 1931, to Dec. 31, 1932, of $1,167,939 on 56 voyages. But it was after this report to Congress on the merchant marine that the Astor company obtained what is said to be an airtight agreement unloading the Leviathan. The Government had insisted the big liner be kept in operation to sustain national pride. Such ships are rarely profitable, but the losses to operating companies are compensated for by profitable Government contracts or subsidies.

New Interest in Big Liners.
Interest in super-liners is heightened by the arrival of the French Normandie, which was subsidized by the Government of France.

Several writers who described the triumphant entry of the Normandie into New York Harbor pointed to the contrast with the Leviathan, disused and rusting in its dock. Italy has subsidized the Rex, Germany the Bremen and the Europa, and England is soon to launch the Queen Mary in the international competition for first honors in the super-liner class.

The United States, it is shown by the Comptroller-General's ruling, has paid out between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000, only a small part of which has ever been repaid, to keep the Leviathan in the North Atlantic trade. A considerable part of this went in the form of subsidies to private companies.

In his ruling the Comptroller took occasion to call Roper's attention to amounts totaling more than $300,000 which should be recovered from the United States Lines Co. in addition to the amounts of deductions and waivers. Involved is a total of $68,338 in insurance premiums on the Leviathan which the Shipping Board Bureau paid. Also involved is an item of $16,416 which the Government paid to dredge out her berth at Hoboken when the Leviathan was laid up in 1933.

It is the argument of the Shipping Board Bureau, the Comptroller-General's ruling discloses, that construction of the new liner by United States Lines is a compensation to the Government for re-mitting the $1,720,000 in forfeit money. The ruling riddles this argument by pointing out that the company would have to build the new ship any way if it wanted to keep its ocean mail contracts.

"That being the case," the ruling states, "there would be a total lack of consideration to the United States in the proposed agreement and while this office is willing to co-operate with your department in the matter, an audit of the operations of the S. S. Leviathan would serve no useful purpose. The determination of the speculative gains or losses for the next two years would have no bearing on the damage suffered by the United States for failure to operate the S. S. Leviathan in accordance with the agreement of Oct. 30, 1931, for which failure liquidated damages are specifically provided."

The ruling also assails the argument that the United States Lines Co. would be impoverished by continued operation of the Leviathan under the terms of the contract, quoting from a letter of last Feb. 7 written to Farley by John M.
Franklin, one of the officers of the line:

"Furthermore, the balance sheets of the United States Lines Co. and of the International Mercantile Marine Co. make it abundantly clear that the United States Lines Co. possesses the financial ability to carry out its intention, in view of the absolute guarantee of their financial ability by the International Mercantile Marine Co.

"The balance sheet of the International Mercantile Marine Co., in addition to its steamers, real estate and investment, has approximately $8,500,000 in quick assets, most of which is in cash and Government bonds."

This was in regard to the proposed reconditioning of the steamships President Harding and President Roosevelt which the Astor company wanted to take from mail route 43 and place on mail route 41. They have Government contracts for both these routes. The new vessel would then be put in service on route 43 to replace the two reconditioned ships.

Scorn for Transaction.
Beneath the formal language of the Comptroller-General's ruling is a scorn for the whole transaction that is scarcely concealed. Of the new agreement between the Shipping Board Bureau and United States Lines, the Comptroller says:

"It does not appear that such an agreement would be binding upon the United States for the following reasons:

"1. The Merchant Marine Act—1920, as amended, does not require loans to be made to the full extent of 75 per cent of the construction or reconditioning costs of vessels, but stipulates such percentage as a limitation.

"2. Officers of the United States are not authorized to modify the terms of a contract which has been entered into, if such modification will be prejudicial to the interests of the United States. A contract otherwise proper and authorized is subject always to the elemental requirement that it be based upon a good and sufficient consideration—there must be always a quid pro quo."

Building of New Vessel.

The supplementary agreement provides that the Astor company must build the new vessel within six months of the date of its execution. But this time may be extended at the discretion of the Secretary of Commerce. This was put in, according to Schell, because Congress is now considering legislation which might take from the Shipping Board Bureau the right to make construction loans. Under this legislation it is proposed to create a new maritime authority but in setting up the officers and personnel of the authority preference would be given to those now running the Shipping Board Bureau. If Congress should pass this legislation, the agreement concerning the Leviathan specifies, the United States Lines could transfer their application for a construction loan to the new agency.

Furthermore, the contract provides that if through no fault of the company—through the declared policy of Congress in forbidding any loans, for example—it was prevented from building the new vessel, the company would be released from this requirement.

In most such contracts the Government requires that the private company put up its share of the cost of the new vessel and begin construction before the Government pays over its "loan." The contract retiring the Leviathan states that the "Secretary of Commerce" agrees to make advances on said loan simultaneously with the payment by the company" of its share of the cost of the boat.

The Leviathan was built in Germany in 1914 and launched as the Vaterland, the pride of the German fleet, the greatest ship of its day.
It was seized in New York harbor in April of 1917, shortly after the United States declared war. Subsequently the Government paid Germany more than $16,000,000 for the ship.

IRON WORKER HELD AFTER ROW WITH PICKETS IN MUSKOGEE, OK.

Union Has Him Arrested; 50 Employees Locked Out in Open Shop Dispute.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., June 5. — Ray Oxley, non-union welder, was arrested today on a charge of carrying concealed weapons after a fist fight with union pickets at the Muskoguee Iron Works. Fifty workers are out of jobs there as a result of S. M. McManus, president, ordering a "lockout" because "we don't want a union."

Oxley, released on his own recognizance, will get a hearing in Police Court tomorrow. Charges were based on a complaint signed by Claude Harris, president of the local union.

Police guards were placed around the plant after the fight.
"We don't want a union and we won't have one; the Supreme Court said we didn't have to have one," McManus asserted yesterday, after he learned the local union of the International Association of Structural, Bridge and Ornamental Iron Workers, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, had voted to strike Monday.
The men must sign new applications, work on an equal basis and consent to an open shop if they want to return, McManus said.
Breach of an NRA contract guaranteeing union recognition and seniority rights was charged by Harris.

State, Zoo Herpetologist Says.
R. Marlin Perkins, herpetologist at the Zoo, discussed venomous snakes before the St. Louis Medical Society last night, pointing out that there are but five types of poisonous snakes in Missouri.

In this State, he said, there are three types of rattlesnake, the of 2000 known species of serpents in the world, 250 are venomous, he said, while in the United States there are 290 species, 25 of which are venomous.

WAR MEMORIALPlans Approved by Three Groups—Decision to Begin Work Is Made to Assure PWA Grant.Plans for the construction of the War Memorial on the Plaza were approved yesterday by the Citizens' Bond Supervisory Committee, the Memorial Plaza Commission and the Military Committee, and funds were allotted for the building of the foundation.The decision to start work of the foundation was made, it was said, to assure PWA officials in Washington that the work would be carried out and to obtain a grant of approximately $300,000 from the Government for the building. The money was voted from a $75,000 fund already available for the payment of architects' fees.It was agreed that the building would cost not more than $1,100,000, which is $100,000 more than the amount recommended by the Military Committee. The additional amount will be used for the construction of a steam line from the municipal heating plant at Twelfth boulevard and Clark avenue, and for the cost of cutting the stone to be used in the Memorial as a relief project here.Funds for the War Memorial were approved at a bond election last year when an item for $1,900-000 was allocated for the construction of the Memorial and the development of the Plaza. It was announced that plans for the expenditure of the remaining $800,000 for the beautification of the Plaza would be submitted to the Board of Public Service through the Military Committee.The issuance of bonds to provide funds for the memorial has been held up by an opinion of Attorney-General McKittrick, who held that bonds issued by Missouri on its subdivisions were callable at any time regardless of maturity date. Because of this opinion, investment houses have refused to bid on the bonds. It is expected the Supreme Court will hand down a decision in the matter before September, the earliest date for starting work on the foundation.W. L. Hemmingsway, chairman of the Citizens' Supervisory Committee, was the only member to vote against the allocation of the funds for the foundation, stating that it was his opinion no work should be started until all funds needed for the construction were available.GRAND JURY TAKES NEW SLAP

RAILROAD EQUIPMENT SALES ONLY $5,500,000 ANNUALLY

Missouri-Pacific Publicity Man Says They Averaged $81,000,000 Five Years Ago.

Railroad equipment firms in St. Louis which formerly sold $81,000,000 of goods to railroads annually have averaged but $5,500,000 a year during the past five years. E. H. McReynolds, director of publicity for the Missouri-Pacific Railroad, told members of the Traffic Club last night.

Payrolls of 53 concerns had shrunk, McReynolds said, from $18,000,000 a year to $2,600,000. He spoke in behalf of Railroad week, beginning next Sunday, when attention will be directed to the problem of restoring the railroads to profitable operation.

Dan A. Noonan, newly elected president of the Traffic Club, and other officers were installed at last night's meeting.

MISTRIAL WHEN JUROR HEARS LAWYERS TALKING OVER CASE

He Walked in Waiting Room During Recess in Robbery Hearing at Belleville.

The overhearing by a juror of a conversation between State and defense attorneys during a recess in a robbery trial at Belleville yesterday caused Circuit Judge Riess to declare a mistrial.

Frank Boze and his nephew, Joseph Boze, both of East St. Louis, were charged with slugging Anton Swanson, a farmer, living near Caseyville, and robbing him of $3 after he left a saloon in Washington Park on March 27.

During the recess, one of the jurors, John A. Butler of Belleville, walked into a waiting room where the attorneys were talking over the case. The defense attorney asked for a mistrial immediately. The defendants will be tried again.

PASTOR IS CLEARED IN ALIENATION SUIT

Camden (N. J.) Jury Finds No Cause for $100,000 Action Against Him.

By the Associated Press.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 5.—A verdict of "no cause for action" was returned today in the $100,000 alienation of affections suit against the Rev. Neal Dow Kelley. The jury of 11 men and one woman brought in the verdict in favor of the 38-year-old minister after deliberating almost two hours.

John B. Cramer, plaintiff in the action, had charged the pastor, formerly connected with a Camden church, and now serving in Long Branch, had stolen the love of his 42-year-old wife, Hazel May.

The minister flatly denied the accusation and contended the only relation between himself and Mrs. Cramer was that of pastor and communicant.

In his final summation today, Walter S. Keown, Cramer's counsel, urged the jury to "teach this man that no man, particularly a minister of the Gospel, has the right to break up a home."

The attorney also referred to letters, introduced in the trial yesterday as having been written by Kelley to Cramer. One of them said: "I am a sinner. We have gone astray like sheep. We are beyond self-help."

Mrs. Cramer, 43-year-old mother of four children, had testified that she and the 36-year-old preacher had confessed their infatuation to her husband, and that the three had prayed together that he forgive them. Cramer also had told of the prayer and said that he had forgiven his wife but not the minister who "stabbed me in the back."

Mr. Kelley gave an entirely different account of the prayer. The minister is married and a father.

The Minister's Story.

He testified that after he moved to Long Branch, Cramer summoned him to an interview. He said that he went to the Cramer home but that the husband was not there and that he asked Mrs. Cramer what was wanted of him. He continued:

"She told me: 'My husband has been cold and indifferent to me. I wanted to make him jealous and I told him I had been unduly friendly with you. I mentioned your name because you were not in town. I told him your name only when he promised me not to do anything about it.'"

It was after that, he said, that he knelt in prayer with the Cramers, and he insisted that the prayer was that the husband forgive the wife for the story she had told.

Mrs. Kelley also testified, insisting there was no basis for the charge of alienation.

Cramer's counsel then read to the court 18 pages of notes taken by a stenographer hidden in the Cramer home one night in December, 1933, when the Cramers and Kelleys met there.

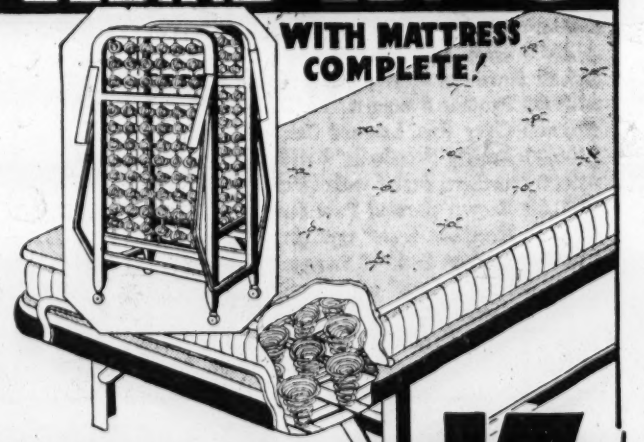

"I've Paid and Paid."

While the notes did not make clear the exact subject of the discussion, the minister was quoted as saying:

"I've paid and paid and paid. I've paid my penalty. I've asked for forgiveness. I want Mrs. Cramer to forgive and forget."

Cramer was quoted as remarking: "I don't want to see you in jail, Doctor. It would hurt Mrs. Kelley."

PARK'S TERMS ON FIRE INSURANCE RATES IGNORED

His Aids and Companies Going Ahead With Compromise Plan Despite Conditions He Imposed.

By BOYD F. CARROLL, Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 5.—The State Insurance Department and attorneys for the stock fire insurance companies are going ahead with their efforts to push through a compromise of suits over a 162-3 per cent increase in fire insurance rates, collected by the companies for five years, notwithstanding their failure so far to comply with two conditions imposed by Gov. Park as a preliminary to submitting the proposal to the courts.

The conditions were approval of the compromise plan, before it was presented to the Federal and State courts in which the rate suits are pending, by Attorney-General Roy McKittick and Judge Kimbrough Stone, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Judge Stone is presiding judge of a three-judge Federal court in Kansas City, before which are pending 137 separate injunction suits by as many companies to enforce the higher rates.

Gov. Park said today neither Judge Stone nor Attorney-General McKittick had approved the compromise proposal, although it had been presented to both of them.

In addition to insisting on approval of the proposal by Judge Stone and McKittick, the Governor has said he did not think the policyholders would receive enough under the plan agreed on between attorneys for the approximately 210 companies and State Insurance Superintendent R. E. O'Malley, and attorneys representing the Insurance Department in the suits.

Terms of Settlement.

As has been told, the settlement provides that the policyholders would get back only 20 per cent of about $11,000,000 in excess premiums, representing the increase, which has been impounded in the State and Federal courts during five years of litigation over the rates. The other 80 per cent would go to the companies, their agents, the lawyers for both the companies and the State, court costs and other expenses and disbursements, the nature of which has not been made public.

In addition the policyholders would continue to pay a rate increase. The 162-3 per cent increase was scaled down to 13.3 per cent, under an order issued last May 21 by O'Malley, as a part of the agreement. This would be cut down further at some time in the future, it was said, by a new rate schedule to be filed by the companies, after the courts approve the settlement, if they do, and by a reclassification of risks.

Gov. Park today admitted that neither of the conditions he had insisted on, in recent negotiations over the compromise, had been met. At that time he said these conditions must be complied with if the plan was to go through. Today he said he had not changed his position, but declined to comment on the situation.

McKittick Approval Withheld.

It is known that the compromise proposal has been laid before the Attorney-General at least twice, and that he has withheld approval of it. O'Malley conferred with McKittick this week, then said it had not been approved. McKittick has declined to comment.

The lawyers presented the compromise in Cole County Circuit Court last May 23, as an amended petition to a suit in which 73 companies not in the Federal cases sought review of an order by former State Insurance Superintendent Joseph B. Thompson in May, 1930, denying the 162-3 per cent increase. This action was taken by the array of attorneys in the rate cases before the plan had been submitted to Judge Stone, as directed by the Governor.

Circuit Judge Sevier, as has been told, immediately threw out the compromise, and decided the review case, holding for the policyholders and against the companies on every point involved. He denied the companies any increase and ordered immediate distribution to the policyholders of the $1,750,000 of excess premiums which have been impounded in his court. The companies appealed to the Missouri Supreme Court.

Attorneys representing the companies and the department then went to St. Paul on May 28, to lay the plan before Judge Stone. The Governor had stated he desired Judge Stone's approval of the proposal, in chambers, before it was formally presented before the three-judge court for formal approval. The other two judges are Federal District Judges Reeves and Otis, both of Kansas City.

Judge Stone told the visiting delegation, it was learned, that they could file whatever they wished in open court and it would be considered by the court. Gov. Park said Judge Stone did not give any indication that he would approve or disapprove it.

Going to U. S. Court.

Despite their rebuff in Circuit Court, the attorneys for the department and the companies now plan to submit the proposal to the three-judge Federal Court in Kansas City, on a date to be fixed by Judge

Stone. The time tentatively has been set for June 22. Attorneys for both sides who were here this week said there would be no substantial change in the plan to be submitted to Federal Court from that rejected by Circuit Judge Sevier.

As told in the Post-Dispatch last month, when the compromise was submitted to the Circuit Court, McKittick and the State for about $1,500,000 of the policyholders' funds would be paid out in lawyers' fees, if the plan is put through. Of this amount the State's attorneys would get $500,000 and counsel for the companies about $1,000,000.

The proposal calls for payment of 20 per cent of the impounded funds to the policyholders, under the supervision of O'Malley. Fifty per cent would be paid over to the companies, from which they would pay their agents' commissions, averaging from 22 to 25 per cent of the whole.

The other 30 per cent would be paid over to R. J. Polonie of Chicago, chief counsel for the companies, and Charles R. Street of Chicago, also representing the companies, as trustees. They would pay from this 30 per cent, or about $3,300,000, the $1,500,000 in legal fees, $200,000 to reimburse the State for expenses so far in the suit, and pay court costs and other expenses, and disbursements, the nature of which has not been publicly itemized so far, from the remaining approximately $1,600,000. They would account to the companies for their disbursements.

Under the proposed plan, none of the final distribution of the money, or payment of the various items in dividing up the policyholders' impounded funds, would be under the direct supervision of the courts now having jurisdiction of the funds.

JUDGE DENIES INJUNCTION AGAINST TAXICAB ORDINANCE

Writ Sought by Terminal and Black and White Companies Is Turned Down.

A permanent injunction, sought by the Black & White and Terminal taxicab companies to restrain the city from enforcing an ordinance for licensing and regulating cabs, was denied yesterday by Circuit Judge Baron.

The ordinance requires taxicab owners to post surety bonds or carry insurance of $2500 for one person, and $5000 for two or more, as protection for passengers who might be injured as a result of negligence on the part of taxi drivers. It was passed last Dec. 6 as an amendment to a similar ordinance adopted in June, 1933. The Black & White company is an organization of owners operating 51 cabs, and the Terminal, four cabs. Attorneys for the companies contended the terms of the ordinance were unreasonable and arbitrary, and that the premiums for the insurance required were so excessive they could not be met.

SALES TAX IN NEW JERSEY

TRENTON, N. J., June 5.—The New Jersey Legislature on the Senate's vote yesterday enacted a two per cent retail sales tax to finance emergency relief.

Opponents declared an unfair burden was being imposed on the poor and said an opportunity to assess the rich with an income tax was ignored. Administration Republicans and three of the five Democratic minority Senators supported Gov. Hoffman. The tax, certain to be approved by the Governor, will become effective July 1. The House also passed the bill yesterday.

... Only NORGE has the ROLLATOR COMPRESSOR ...

The vital heart of any electric refrigerator is its compressor. Some employ the reciprocating type compressor, whose pistons, as in an automobile, pound up and down reversing their line of travel for each suction and discharge stroke, achieving volumetric efficiency between 65 and 75 per cent ordinarily. Others use conventional rotary compressors whose revolving parts, constantly rubbing at high speed, are subject to excessive wear. Only Norge has the simple, slow-moving Rollator compressor which develops a volumetric efficiency above 90 per cent. This is the vital and exclusive feature found solely in Norge which has won such amazing public preference. The Rollator's 3 moving parts (roller, shaft, and blade) move slowly in a permanent bath of protective oil, with no metal-to-metal contact, to produce more cold than will ever be needed, maintaining utmost efficiency through long years use.

● Norge, knowing the American housewife as a shrewd judge of home products, has built into all its products those genuine differences of a vital nature which give it plus values from the standpoint of economy, convenience, beauty and use.

● There's a super-powered Rollator in every Norge, always assuring you of an abundance of ice cubes and more cold than you will ever need.

NORGE REFRIGERATION

ALL THESE PLUS VALUES

1. SIMPLICITY
No pistons, rings, wrist pins, connecting rods, or rotary valves. Just 3 simple moving parts—a roller, blade and shaft. Result: More dependable, quiet, efficient, life-lasting refrigeration.

2. ROLLING MOTION
Double duty of less power and fewer strokes per stroke, compared with reciprocating motion. Result: Unusually high volumetric efficiency and enduring quiet operation.

3. LONG LIFE
Moving parts submerged in oil bath with no metal-to-metal contact. The roller rolls on the blade with a polishing rather than wearing action. Result: Wear reduced to a minimum.

4. EFFICIENCY
Charge and discharge strokes occur simultaneously producing better than 90 per cent volumetric efficiency with lower power requirements. Result: Life-lasting satisfaction at low operating cost.

5. SERVICE FREE
These slow-moving, long life parts positively lubricated with seal on the high side, well below oil level. Result: Service troubles practically eliminated.

6. MARATHON TEST
Faced Marathon test proves that efficiency is maintained under most exacting and lengthy operation. Result: Lifetime efficiency and economy of operation.

NO-TRUE BILL RETURNED IN AUTOMOBILE KILLING

Grand Jury Investigates Death of Eugene B. Wittich in Collision of Cars.

A no-true bill was returned by the grand jury yesterday after a hearing in the death of Eugene B. Wittich, a laborer, 3821 Garfield avenue, who died April 25 of injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

A coroner's jury had returned a verdict of criminal carelessness, naming Curt Prillwitz, a salesman of Chicago, after hearing testimony by Prillwitz struck one driven by Fred Vollmer, 2340 Wendover avenue, Overland, in which Wittich was riding at Vandeventer and Washington avenues.

FORMER GROCERY MANAGER INDICTED AS EMBEZZLER

F. D. McCann Accused of Taking $1151 From Kroger Store at Webster Groves.

An indictment charging Frederick D. McCann, former Kroger store manager, with embezzling $1151 from his employers was returned by the St. Louis County grand jury in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday.

McCann, who was manager of the Kroger store at 112 West Lookwood avenue, Webster Groves, went to company officers May 22 and confessed taking the money over a period of 10 days. He said he lost it in an East Side gambling resort. He is 33 years old and resides with his wife and two children at 2274 Yale avenue, Maplewood.

Text of President Roosevelt's Statement Abandoning NRA

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.

THE text of President Roosevelt's announcement at his press conference yesterday follows:

"In order to meet an immediate problem relating to the executive branch of the Government as a result of the Supreme Court decision, two steps have been discussed and agreed to by members of the administration and leaders of Congress.

"(A) Passage by the House of Representatives of the Senate Joint resolution extending the life of the National Recovery Administration only to April 1, 1936. The President has made this recommendation to the speaker, Chairman Doughton Cotton, the Work Assignment Board for Silk, and the Work Assignment Board for Wool.

"The President has, however, sent to the Speaker of the House of Representatives a supplemental estimate of appropriations for the Department of Labor for the coming fiscal year in the sum of $600,000. This will enable the Secretary of Labor to conduct additional mediation and conciliation activities and thus take over a small portion of the work of the boards which are abolished. It is worth noting, however, that the authority of the Department of Labor extends only to mediation and conciliation. The Wagner Labor bill, if enacted, would set up new tribunals which would substantially cover the functions heretofore exercised by the various boards above mentioned."

Useful in Contract Deals.

"(b) The other reason for continuing a skeleton organization of NRA is that such an organization will be useful in carrying out the proposed requirement that Government purchases and contracts be placed only with corporations or contractors who live up to certain minimum requirements.

"(c) If the House of Representatives approves the joint resolution passed by the Senate, that portion of the resolution which in effect relates to codes will, of course, be inoperative insofar as the old codes are concerned.

"(d) The extension of the National Recovery Administration would mean, without question, a very large cut in the officers and employees now attached to NRA, but would mean the retention of a substantial number of them.

"In this connection," the President said, "I want to record my deep appreciation and that of the country for the unselfish work which thousands of men and women employed under or in conjunction with the National Recovery Administration, have done in the past two years. I extend to them my sincere thanks; and I regret the circumstances under which the retirement of many of them from Government service becomes obligatory."

Enforcement Removed.

"It should not be assumed by any person that this proposed continuation of the National Recovery Administration, in skeletonized form, relates in any way to the enforcement of working conditions or fair trade practices formerly existing under the codes. All such requirements were eliminated by the Supreme Court decision.

"The other measure, which, like the first, must be considered as only a very partial stop-gap relates to Government contracts. Only a very small portion—probably not much over one cent of the industrial production of the country—is used in Government work. Nevertheless, the President feels that even though the percent is small, the Government should take a practical and definite step to show its good faith in maintaining the larger objectives sought by NRA. The proposed legislation would authorize a requirement that all persons engaged in the production of the supplies or in the carrying out of the contract shall be paid in accordance with minimum wage and maximum hour standards and that no person under the age of 16 years shall be employed. The same rule would apply to the use of Government loans or grants to States, municipalities or other local government agencies.

Co-Operation Hoped For.

"It is believed that this proposed bill carries out a moral responsibility of the Federal Government and it is hoped that such action will be followed as largely as possible by private industry in every one of its branches.

"This proposed measure, however, like the first, does not make much progress toward obtaining the ultimate objectives of national standards for the working population of America nor for national standards which seek to protect honorable employers against the unfair practices of less honorable competitors.

"The Supreme Court decision has affected a number of agencies which were set up in part or in whole under the authority of Title I of the National Industrial Recovery Act. A careful review of the effects of the Supreme Court decision has been made.

"(A) New legislation would be necessary for the continuance of the Federal alcohol control administration, for the electric home farm authority, for the petroleum administrative board and the central statistical board. Legislation to meet these four ends is now under consideration.

"(B) Two agencies can be continued by amendments to executive orders: The national emergency council and the national resources board. Both of them relate to planning for and execution of work relief and can, therefore, be continued under the work relief act.

"(C) Three agencies have completed their work and will be terminated.

INVERTED STOMACH SURGEON LOSES MEDICAL SOCIETY JOB

Doctor Who Was Vice-President Is Not Mentioned in New Nominations.

BOSTON, June 5.—The name of Dr. Philimon E. Truesdale, noted Fall River surgeon, who recently corrected the misplaced stomachs of Alyce Jane McHenry and several other children, was dropped from the list of officers of the Massachusetts Medical Society yesterday.

Dr. Truesdale, who served as vice-president during the last year, was not mentioned as a candidate for any post in the report of the Nominating Committee of 12 members.

Only recently a report by the Committee on Ethics and Discipline of the Massachusetts Medical Society on the publicity Dr. Truesdale received during the "upside down" stomach operations was printed in an edition of the New England Journal of Medicine. In the same issue appeared a statement by Dr. Truesdale.

The committee, headed by Dr. David Cheever, held that Truesdale might have been indiscreet in his relations with the press, but absolved him of any desire for publicity or of any attempts to exploit it unethically.

Settlement out of court has been effected in the civil suit of Nat Goldstone, theatrical agent, against Ginger Rogers, movie star, lawyers said yesterday. Goldstone sued for $2736 he alleged was due for his services as her manager. Miss Rogers filed a cross-suit, charging her agreement with Goldstone was void.

COMMITTEE SETS STAGE FOR OUSTER OF HANNEGAN

Votes to Consider Rules Change to Permit Election of New Chairman by a Majority.

GROUP WILL MEET AGAIN TOMORROW

City Democratic Organization Acts Despite Mayor's Threat to Fire Unfriendly Employees.

The Democratic City Committee paved the way yesterday afternoon to oust Robert E. Hannegan, supported by Mayor Dickmann, from the chairmanship of the committee by adopting a motion to consider changing the committee by-laws to permit the election of a new chairman by a majority vote. The by-laws now require 36 of the 56 members of the committee to vote such a change.

Under the motion adopted yesterday by a vote of 33 to 21, the committee will meet again at the Arcade Building late tomorrow afternoon to take up the proposed change in the rules, which, it is expected, will lead to the removal of Hannegan and the election of Recorder of Deeds John P. English to the chairmanship.

Supporters of English contend that under a decision of the Missouri Supreme Court in 1910, affecting a similar situation in the Republican City Committee here, a majority of a party committee can change its by-laws at any time.

Fight Directed at Mayor.
Defeat of Hannegan, who became chairman last summer when Dewey S. Godfrey resigned, would be a direct slap at the Mayor. Most of the committee members supporting English are not opposed to Hannegan personally, but believe Hannegan is "too close" to the Mayor, and are fighting the Mayor because they think he has made many appointments to city jobs without consulting committee members. Hannegan served as the city's lobbyist during

GEORGE WILLSON, ST. LOUIS, NAMED ON MISSOURI U. BOARD

Curators, After Two Meetings, Fail to Name Successor to President Williams, Resigned.

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 5.—Curators of the University of Missouri had reached no agreement on a successor to Dr. Walter Williams as president of the university, it was reported last night after meeting in both an afternoon and night session. He will relinquish his position July 1.

The curators elected the following officers:
F. M. McDavid, Springfield, president; John H. Lathrop, Kansas City, vice-president; R. B. Price, Columbia, treasurer; George Willson, St. Louis, member of the executive board, and H. W. Lenox, Rolla; James Potter, Jefferson City, and Charles Ward, Plattsburg, members of the executive committee.

Eugene Campbell of Rolla was elected treasurer of the School of Mines at Rolla.

the recent session of the State Legislature and received a $3000 fee and expenses.

In spite of the Mayor's warning Sunday that committee members and city employees sponsored by committee members opposing Hannegan might lose their jobs as a result of the fight, four committee members who are also city employees voted for the motion to proceed with amendment of the by-laws. These were John Eckel, deputy city marshal; Lilburn C. May, marshal; James J. Gallagher, chief clerk of the city courts, and Charles J. Hunt, a deputy city court clerk. Mrs. Agnes Cheely of the Twenty-fourth Ward, which English represents, also voted for the motion. She is pending dismissal was reported recently because of her opposition to Hannegan. However, Mayor Dickmann said complaints had been made that her work was inefficient. She has not been dismissed.

Two committee members who are deputy sheriffs also voted against Hannegan on the motion yesterday. These were James J. Fitzsimmons and Mrs. Anna Donegan. Mrs. Donegan has been a bitter opponent of the Mayor, stating that she did not receive an adequate amount of patronage after the Democratic victory in the municipal election in April, 1933.

J. J. Mestres Against Motion.
Joseph J. Mestres, superintendent of the excavation section of the street department, and Charles Conners, recently appointed city park superintendent, voted against the motion and with Hannegan. William Cullinane, whose uncle, Michael J. Cullinane, is City Register, and Deputy Coroner John J. Sweeney, whose job is not under control of the Mayor, both voted for the motion.

As a formality required by the rules of the committee, a notice was presented at yesterday's meeting informing Hannegan that a change in the by-laws would be sought at the next meeting. This was presented by Sweeney. Then Godfrey, former chairman, made the motion to meet again tomorrow.

If the anti-Dickmann forces win control of the committee, they could be a potent factor in preventing the re-nomination of Dickmann for Mayor in 1937, if he runs again. The Mayor, however, in the two remaining years of his present term, could harass the committee not only by discharging employees recommended for jobs by hostile committee members, but by refusing to consider applications for jobs made by them. Thus, the Mayor would hold the whip hand for two years, although the opposition of the committee might bring about the finish of his local political career unless independent voters became sufficiently aroused to support him.

Vote on the Motion.
For the motion (anti-Hannegan)—John Soy, First Ward; George Gray, Second Ward; James H. Miller and Mrs. Charlotte O'Connor, Fourth Ward; Mrs. Bessie Guenther, Sixth Ward; James J. Fitzsimmons and Mrs. Madie Wood, Eighth Ward; John Eckel, Tenth Ward; Harold Becker, Ninth Ward; Andrew Murray, Eleventh Ward; Miss Nell Dwyer, Twelfth Ward; George Murphy, Fifteenth Ward; Herbert Schmitt and Mrs. Lottie Walsh, Sixteenth Ward; Dewey S. Godfrey and Miss Ann Noonan, Seventeenth Ward; Tom Quinn and Miss Ann Jablonsky, Eighteenth Ward; William Cullinane and Mrs. Vera Callahan, Nineteenth Ward; James J. Gallagher and Miss Nell Meehan, Twentieth Ward; John Sweeney, Twenty-second Ward; Charles M. Reardon and Mrs. Charles Cornell, Twenty-third Ward; Harry J. Cartwell and Mrs. Anna Donegan, Twenty-fifth Ward; John P. English and Mrs. Agnes Cheely, Twenty-fourth Ward; Charles J. Hunt and Miss Addie O'Connell, Twenty-sixth Ward; L. May and Mrs. Catherine Roden, Twenty-seventh Ward. 33.

Against (Pro-Hannegan)—Mrs. Anna Clinton, First Ward; Mrs. Ann Brady, Second Ward; Proxy for State Senator Michael Kinney, Fifth Ward; Mrs. Charles Hahn, Fifth Ward; John J. Moroney, Sixth Ward; Joseph J. Mestres and Rose Diepenbrock, Seventh Ward; Mrs. Margaret Faith, Ninth Ward; Mrs. Lottie Meyers, Tenth Ward; Mrs. Mary Kelly, Eleventh Ward; Michael McGee, Twelfth Ward; James Stewart and Mrs. Maude Kaufman, Thirteenth Ward; Joseph A. Reis and Mrs. J. Edward Bates, Fourteenth Ward; Mrs. P. H. Hogan, Fifteenth Ward; Robert E. Hannegan and Mrs. Mary Whalen, Twenty-first Ward; Mrs. Lucille McQuade, Twenty-second Ward; Charles Conners and Mrs. L. Williams, Twenty-eighth Ward. 21.
Absent—State Senator Joseph Brogan, Third Ward.
Not voting—Mrs. Kate Spath, Third Ward.

WHITHEAD, CHICAGO ROOKIE, HANDED HIS FIRST 1935 DEFEAT

By James M. Gould

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, June 5.—Rogers Hornsby's Browns again defeated the Chicago White Sox this afternoon in the second game of a series of three.

The score was 2 to 0.

Jack Burns injured his thumb when he fell trying to avoid Jimmy Dykes in the seventh inning yesterday and was out of action. Heine Mueller subbing for him at first base.

Manager Jimmy Dykes of Chicago, now on the inactive list because of his sprained ankle, managed his club from the bench.

It is understood that the Chicago club is negotiating for Tony Piet, former Pirate and ex-Red, to fill in at second base while Manager Dykes is out of action. Piet now is with the Toronto club of the International League.

About 700 saw the game.

Ormsby and Geisel were the umpires.

FOR WATER GOLF CHAMPION MRS. KOHN, LOSES TO MRS. CAUGHEY

SARA GUTH IS 5-3 VICTOR IN DISTRICT MEET AT ALGONQUIN

89. She will face Miss Guth in the third round.

Mrs. Wallace advanced after a tussle with Mrs. Clayton Wolfe, Algonquin, 3 and 2. Mrs. Wallace was out in 43, and after having the first five holes she made the turn, three up. Mrs. Wolfe had a 46. Mrs. Wolfe cut the lead to one up on the next three holes, but she lost the thirteenth when she took a five on the short par three hole and the fourteenth to Mrs. Wallace's par four.

They halved the next two, then. After the match was over Mrs. Wallace got a birdie duce at the seventeenth and finished with a par 5 to give her another 43 and an 88 for the round.

Mrs. Schwab Advances.

Mrs. Laurence Schwab of Bellevue made a great comeback to win her second round match from Mrs. G. A. Bedell, one of Algonquin's title contenders, when she made up a deficit of four holes to win on the last hole, one up.

Mrs. Bedell was out with a steady 45 on the first nine, four strokes better than Mrs. Schwab, and was four up. Coming back, Mrs. Schwab's putts started dropping better and she birdied the eleventh, but lost the twelfth, then won four holes in succession to tie the match on the sixteenth green.

They halved the short seventeenth with four and Mrs. Schwab won the deciding hole with a six against seven.

Mrs. I. S. Hynes of Westborough, another former champion, scored a 5 and 5 victory over Mrs. Isaac Greenfield, Westwood. Mrs. Hynes had an approximate 85 and she, like Mrs. Wallace, scored a duce on the seventeenth after the match was over.

Mrs. H. C. Spalding, Westborough, defeated Mrs. C. C. Crossman, Algonquin, 2 and 1 in their second round match.

In the quarter finals tomorrow, Miss Guth plays Mrs. Scanlon and Mrs. Caughey opposes Mrs. Minton in the upper brackets, while in the lower half Mrs. Wallace meets Mrs. Schwab and Mrs. Hines plays Mrs. Spalding.

Mrs. H. Wilms, Normandie, defeated Mrs. F. R. Jennings, Algonquin, 1 up in 20 holes in the championship consolation, the first match to go beyond the regulation 18 holes in the tournament.

All of the favorites came through the first round yesterday without trouble. Miss Guth never lost a hole in defeating Mrs. V. A. Ramek, Algonquin, 3 and 2. Mrs. Wallace won from Mrs. J. F. Stickle, Meadowbrook, 6 and 4. Mrs. Hynes got a defeat from Mrs. R. B. Nelson, Westborough, who was called to California by the illness of her mother.

Mrs. Laurence Schwab, Bellevue, won over Mrs. L. C. Wetterer, Westborough, 4 and 3, and the newcomer to St. Louis golf, who won a tournament in Florida the past winter, came down considerably constipated by wearing a costume of shorts and a backless, sleeveless blouse.

Golf shorts have been worn here by women before, but perhaps due to the rather cool weather their first appearance of the 1935 season brought gasps from some of the galleries.

OTHER RESULTS

SPORTS

The Passing Show.

Now Stella says she'll gladly face Miss Helen Stephens in a race. Although somewhat belated, there's not a gal upon two feet. She says, that she's afraid to meet—When she has graduated.

Babe Ruth is now at liberty to meet the steamship Normandie. And all incoming liners. He craves a managerial berth. But there appears to be a dearth of big league pilot signers.

But shed no tears for Brother Ruth. He has everything but youth and life begins at fifty. For volutes that sniff around the do of Babe's palatial bungalow. The chances won't be nifty.

Now let's see, on well, there ain't no rush.

Though time upon us softly steals. A guy's no older than he feels. According to the clockers. As Babe is only forty-one. He still has nine more years to run. Around in knickerbockers.

"Thirteen" doesn't mean a thing to the Browns. Monday they beat the Indians on even terms for 13 innings and then blew up in the fourteenth.

It has been said that all Indians are bad Indians but the Browns found that the Cleveland Indians were even worse than they were painted.

Jimmy Bradock says the guy to whom he owes the most for his comeback is Corn Griffin. As Jimmy started his return parade by stretching him out like a carpet, Griffin will probably acknowledge the Corn. Even if it goes against the grain to do it.

Johnny Whitehead, the White Sox young pitching sensation, says it is easier to pitch in the majors than in the Texas League. Due to better fielding on the part of the big time boys, Texas Leaguers are the exception rather than the rule.

If the gift of gab counts for anything, Buck Newsom should have no trouble making good as a Senator.

The man on the sandbag says that NRA may have its faults but after all none of us is letter perfect.

It is being bruited around by Texas League players that Johnny Whitehead is not the pitcher he seems to be. However, if Johnny continues to fool the batters after he has fooled his critics, he will have nothing to worry about.

L. C. D.—Who ever would have thought that the coming in of a ship would mean the passing out of Babe Ruth—A. E. S.

Just another example of the uncertainties of baseball.

Four trees grew together 15 feet above the ground—Believe it or not.

One of those family trees, we take it.

Nice Work, Doc.

See where Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, is promoting a cemetery near Los Angeles. Is the old "Doc" going to be one in fact as well as in name?

AND IT'S ON A HILL. LOW GROUND IS A RISKY BUSINESS. VERY BAD.

SKATING BODY VOTES

DOWN ATTEMPT TO CENSURE SONJA HENIE

By the Associated Press. STOCKHOLM, June 5.—A move to censure Sonja Henie and other European skaters for alleged professionalism was rejected, 15 to 4, by the International Skating Union's congress yesterday.

English, Australian and Finnish delegates raised the complaints against Miss Henie and a number of other European skaters, charging that during the American exhibitions last year they received more money than was justified as expenses.

SWIMMING CLASSES AT ST. LOUIS UNIVERSITY

The schedule of swimming classes at St. Louis University was announced yesterday by Walter C. Eberhardt, chairman of the physical education department of St. Louis University. The university is again offering group instructions for beginners as well as recreational classes for girls, women, boys and men.

MARCHESE WINS FROM SNYDER IN FOUR-MILE RACE

By Harry McKenna.

Tudy Marchese, Milwaukee pilot, demonstrated the superiority of a four-cylinder automobile engine over an outboard motor in a distance race last night when he drove his Miller Special to victory in the four-mile Welcome Inn sweepstakes, the feature event of the second outdoor midget auto racing program at Walsh Stadium.

The race was a two-car affair between Marchese and Jimmy Snyder of Chicago, who was driving a car powered with an outboard motor, after Tony Willman of Milwaukee, Midwest champion, had been forced out by motor trouble on the third lap, while he was leading the lead.

Marchese, having the more powerful car, would leave Snyder behind on the straights, but Snyder, a more skillful and daring driver, would pick up ground on the curves.

Snyder grabbed the lead on the fifteenth lap, but the race was over when Marchese again went to the front and was never headed. Harold Shaw of Indianapolis, driving another Miller Special, was third. The time was 6 minutes 7.19 seconds.

Albert's Car Crashes.

Pete Alberts of East St. Louis, who has officiated as starter at previous racing programs, drove one of the midgets last night and furnished the big thrill of the evening when he crashed into the brick wall on the outer side of the stadium.

The eight-lap semifinal, and turned over. Spectators ran out on the track and lifted the car off Alberts and carried him to the stands. He was uninjured but his car was damaged, and he returned to his job as starter for the next race.

The race was won by Snyder, who gave one of his fine driving exhibitions with Willman second and Lewis third.

That St. Louis midget racing fans know when a driver is not trying was demonstrated in a five-lap match between Marchese and Shaw. They booed Shaw, who was lying back to let Marchese catch up with him. Shaw was given a 25-foot handicap at the start and because of his indifferent driving he lost to Marchese.

Despite the rain which fell before and during the program, the attendance was surprising, it being announced as 5100.

Martin's Car In Trouble.

Pat Warren of Chicago drove Pepper Martin's Redbird Special in an eight-lap qualifying heat, but was out of the race on the sixth lap with motor trouble, while he was leading. Art Foley of Chicago, driving Warren's own car, won the heat.

The main event had the crowd on its feet as Marchese and Snyder fought out their duel. It was the most exciting race since the sport was introduced in St. Louis.

Promoter Earl Relfow announced that the next outdoor program would be held at the Stadium next Tuesday night.

A change was made last night in lining up the cars in the eight-lap heats, and instead of the fastest cars being given the pole position, they were placed behind the slower cars. The change made for better-contested events.

THE RESULTS

TIME TRIALS (one-fifth mile)—Marshall Lewis, Milwaukee, 17.15 seconds; Pat Warren, Chicago, 17.20; Tony Willman, Milwaukee, 17.35; Tudy Marchese, Milwaukee, 17.54; Al Sherman, Los Angeles, 17.68; Pete Alberts, East St. Louis, 17.69; Jimmy Snyder, Chicago, 17.80; Harry McKenna, Indianapolis, 18.00; Harold Shaw, Indianapolis, 18.37; Pat Warren in Pepper Martin's Redbird, 18.38; Robert Rich, Port Wayne, 20.00; Walter Adams, Port Wayne, Ind., 20.43; Bill Slater, Chicago, 20.48.

EIGHT-LAP HEAT—Won by Marchese; Willman, second; Lewis, third. Time, 2m. 19.95s.

EIGHT-LAP HEAT—Won by Alberts; Snyder, second; Willman, third. Time, 2m. 21.53s.

EIGHT-LAP HEAT—Won by Art Foley; Lewis, second; Willman, third. Time, 2m. 32.56s.

TWELVE-LAP HEAT—Won by Snyder; Willman, second; Lewis, third. Time, 3m. 31.11s.

MATCH RACE THREE LAPS—Willman defeated Snyder. Time, 53.13s.

TWENTY-LAP MAIN EVENT—Won by Marchese; Snyder, second; Shaw, third. Time, 6m. 7.19s.

FIVE-LAP HANDICAP RACE—Marchese defeated Shaw. Time, 1m. 39.9s.

EAST ST. LOUIS NINES

IN TITLE GAME TODAY

East St. Louis and Central Catholic High Schools baseball teams will play for the baseball championship of East St. Louis this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Each team has won one game in the title series.

"Lefty" James, East St. Louis hurler and winner of the first game, will oppose Norbert Siekmann. The first game went to East St. Louis, 9 to 2, while Central Catholic took the second, 5 to 4.

Weightlifters Return.

The six weight-lifting champions of the Ozark A. A. U. returned from the National tournament held Sunday at Cincinnati without any title but several placed in the meet. Fred Wollenberg was fifth in the featherweight class; Harold Record and Bill Givens, fifth and sixth respectively in the welterweight; Ed Zercher, sixth in the middleweight; Steve Litwack, fifth-light-heavyweight; and Bill Brinkman, sixth, heavyweight.

Dizzy Dean Wants to Be Traded by Cardinals

game was postponed on account of rain and will be played as a part of a doubleheader later in the season.

Jess Haines, veteran right-hander, who was ready to pitch today's game, will hurl the final of the series tomorrow with the Pirates, a team that for years has been a jinx to the Redbirds in a city which always has had a strange sinister influence on a young right-handed pitcher named Jerome Herman Dean.

"You will be hustling in the next game for a man whose heart is of gold and whose every action is beyond reproach," Frisch told Dean. "I do not have to tell you to hustle. And I do not have to pat him on the back, chide him, warn him, or worry about him."

What reprieve for an anguished man? What solace for the sick heart? What a break for a manager it would be to have all pitchers with a heart like his.

Might Turn Out Well.

Frisch was still perturbed today over the Dizzy Dean exhibition of yesterday afternoon, but just as the Dean rebellion of last August crystallized Cardinal spirit and moulded the men on the squad into a fighting unit with a common purpose as the affair of yesterday may turn out to be just what the World Champions needed.

Dizzy became embroiled in a controversy with Gabby Street in Pittsburgh when the "Old Sergeant" was manager of the Redbirds and it was last summer that the team boys threatened to go on a strike because, as Dizzy explained it, Paul was not receiving compensation commensurate with his ability.

And yesterday afternoon, in this same city and at the same Forbes Field of the sinister influence, Dizzy figured in one of the most unusual and disgraceful exhibitions of childish temper that the writer has ever seen on a baseball diamond.

"I have been playing baseball for 17 years," Frisch told his men yesterday evening, after a five-lap race. "I have never seen anything like this before." It was a dramatic scene. As the players silently changed clothes, Dizzy Dean, fully dressed, sat on a bench, waiting.

Frisch disrobed, took a shower bath, put on socks and shoes, found a big black cigar and chewed it as he paced back and forth among his men, to calm himself, to prepare the words that he wanted to say.

"Don't a man leave this room," he ordered, between puffs. "There's going to be a meeting in here. When he finally had chewed what he wanted to say out of the cigar, he said it. "I've been playing baseball for 17 years and I never saw such a disgraceful exhibition."

Dean, I'm giving you this warning. The next time you ever go out on the field this afternoon it is going to cost you $5000 and suspension. Every man on this ball club last night hustled his head off so we could win and you can't come on our bench and tell these young fellows that they're lazy or that they're not hustling for me."

"I know when you're pitching you can be a great pitcher. But one more exhibition like that of this afternoon and home you go."

Losses Fifth Game.

Dizzy, whose temper also suffered his fifth defeat of the season. The Cardinals gave him a two-run lead over Cuyahoga in their half of the third inning. Dizzy quickly disposed of the first two Pirates in their third and then Lloyd Waner walked and Jimmy Dykes grounded into an unpropitiated and went for a single. Paul Waner drew a pass and bases were filled.

Dizzy pitched brilliantly to the dangerous Arky Vaughan and quickly had two strikes on him. Then Dizzy worked the corners. Vaughan fouling off several. The count was still two and nothing when Dizzy put over a slow ball that he and DeLancey thought cut through the corner of the plate. But Umpire Rigler called it ball one. Dizzy panted and complained, but of course it remained a ball. Then Vaughan hit a roller to the second base side of Whitehead's territory—Burgess was subbing for Frisch—and when Whitehead fired the ball, with an easy force play in front of him, L. Waner scored and the bases were still filled.

Young followed with a fly which fell safe in right, just out of the speeding Rothrock's reach for a double, scoring Jensen, P. Waner and Vaughan. And Dizzy's control of Jerome Herman Dean was gone with his lead.

Through most of his remaining innings on the hill, Dizzy merely lobbed the ball over the plate. DeLancey ran out half a dozen times and pleaded with Dizzy to bear down. Durocher halted the game to do the same thing. Rip Collins added his voice. But Dizzy was disgusted and he would not pitch Dean baseball.

In the fifth inning, while Rothrock was at bat, there was a row on the Cardinal bench. According to several of the players and Manager Frisch, Dizzy made a remark about the ability of the Cardinals' catcher to the statement and so did Medwick, and Medwick had a bat in his hand, ready to swing it, when Dizzy, charging toward him, was restrained by several players and persuaded to take a seat in the corner.

Medwick has been a hustler all season. He had a worse than mild case of the swelled head last year, but he is a different boy this year. He goes after every fly ball as though a World Series depended on it. And he gives all his base over to the Cardinals.

Last year he was a good hitter at times. This season he deserves to be classed with the great young ball players. And it was this young Hungarian game-cock, who braved grapefruit and pop bottles at Detroit last year, who called Dizzy for saying that the Cardinals were lacking in intestinal fortitude.

According to Dizzy, the trouble all started when Frisch and other players accused him of "not bearing down." However, last night he admitted that he had lost his temper and that that was probably the cause of all the trouble.

Can He "Take It?"

The whole trouble is that Dizzy has had so much of the sweet, as the darling of a hero-worshipping public, that he finds it difficult to assimilate the gall and wormwood that are the share of every hero when he slips, even if it is only a momentary slipping. Instead of shutting his ears to the boos that always greet the champion in any profession when he has a bad day or a bad minute, he takes them to heart. In the language of the trade, Dizzy "can't take it." And naturally there will be many bad minutes and days for this pitcher, with all the clubs striving their hardest for victory when he is their opponent on the hill.

Even the row on the bench didn't make Dizzy snap out of his angry mood. He merely lobbed the ball over the plate and you or I or Lefty the bat boy, could have hit what he was throwing up there. And in the fifth inning—by that time the delighted Pirates knew there really was a Santa Claus—Pie Traynor's men teed off. Jensen singled. Vaughan was hit by a pitched ball. Young singled. Goss and Durocher out of his slump with a triple and Thevenow singled to bring the Pirate total of runs to eight. In the sixth Jensen hit a home run on a soft pitch and then Frisch decided to get Dizzy out of the picture.

It was too late then, or too early. Frisch intimated that he was torn between a desire to keep Dizzy in there, to take the beating, and a thought that he ought to send him home, suspended, with a heavy fine. After thinking it over he decided to leave a warning. Frisch explained last night, "I knew that this would be a tough year for him. I knew the stands would boo him, if he had a bad inning or did something they didn't like. I pleaded with him to ignore the stands, to go out there and try to win each game. And I told him if he did that he would have another great year. I patted him on the back in close games and kept telling him to bear down, we'd get him some runs. We overcame a lead against the Pirates and pulled a game out of the fire in the last inning. The team won that day for him, as they won most of his games for him last year. Nobody resents his profit from his fame, but after all it was a team victory. And he is not going to be permitted to walk into our dugout and tell those fine boys that they are yellow and lousy. We were hitting Blanton hard and we wound up with five runs. We could have won for him, despite that unfortunate third inning, if he had pitched all the way as he knows how to pitch."

LITTLE'S PARENTS ARE ON WAY TO ENGLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—Col. and Mrs. William Lawson Little were on their way today to England to see their son, Lawson Little Jr., two-time British amateur golf champion, play in the British open tournament.

Unable to stand the strain any longer of following their son's progress in the new year's cables, the proud parents left here last night.

Iowa Track Captain Named.

IOWA CITY, Ia., June 5.—Francis Cretzmeier of Emmetsburg will captain the University of Iowa 1936 track and field team, Coach George T. Bresnahan announced yesterday.

"I'D RATHER CRASH HEADLONG INTO THE BLEACHERS THAN HAVE ANOTHER BLOW-OUT"

says AL SIMMONS Chicago White Sox

"PLENTY of ball players have been badly hurt crashing into grandstands, bleacher walls and fences. I've had a few bumps myself. But at least you can judge a fly ball. That's more than you can say about a blow-out. I was speeding along about 40 miles an hour in Arizona when one of my tires blew out. My car shot off the road. Right then and there my ball playing days nearly ended. You'll find Goodrich Silvertowns on my car now."

At speeds of 40, 50, 60 miles an hour the heat generated inside the tire is terrific. That's why Goodrich engineers invented the Life-Saver Golden Ply and put it into every new Goodrich Safety Silvertown. It was needed to resist internal heat—to keep rubber and fabric from separating. Thus, blisters don't form inside the tire. The great, unseen cause of high-speed blow-outs is prevented.

Why take chances? Put Golden Ply Silvertowns on your car. Remember, Silvertowns cost no more than other standard tires and give you months of extra "trouble-free" mileage in the bargain.

"Fargo Express" Gives Equipment To Young Boxer

By the Associated Press.

DULUTH, Minn., June 5. YOUNG FRANKIE SAGLIO, Chicago lightweight, was officially crowned the successor to the Fargo Express here yesterday by none other than Billy Petrolle himself.

Petrolle performed the official "crowning" act when he turned over all his fighting equipment that he had during his dozen colorful years in the ring, to Saglio. The equipment included headgear, gloves, trunks, sweatshirts, punching bag and skipping rope. Saglio is managed by Jack Hurley.

Petrolle retained one article as a reminder of his fighting days—the old dirty Indian blanket that always draped over his shoulders when he slouched into the ring for battle.

MRS. MOODY TO PLAY MARY HARDWICKE IN QUARTERFINAL ROUND

By the Associated Press.

WEYBRIDGE, England, June 5.—Helen Wilms Moody, having defeated her first two opponents in the St. George's Hill tournament, enjoyed a day's respite today before facing the first real test of her comeback campaign.

It was Derby day, and she was expected to join the throng at Epsom Downs.

Playing languidly yesterday, she overcame Miss P. N. Morrison, 6-1, 6-0, using her tactical knowledge rather than power and speed to win without exerting herself. Yesterday's match was a duplication of the day before when she ran up an easy victory over 18-year-old Jill Notley.

In the quarter finals tomorrow she has as an opponent, Mary Hardwicke, one of the most promising of the younger crop of British stars. Earlier in the season Miss Hardwicke defeated Mrs. Fearnley Whittingstall, the former Eileen Bennett, England's eighth ranking player.

CAMPBELL TO ATTEMPT TO SET NEW RECORD AT SALT LAKE IN JULY

By the Associated Press.
 LONDON, June 5.—Sir Malcolm Campbell, British sportsman, will attempt to better his own world's automobile speed record at Salt Lake City in July, he announced today.
 Speaking before an Advertising Club luncheon gathering, Campbell said he would leave for Utah in July for a new record attempt that month. He held the record to 278.316 miles per hour at Daytona Beach March 7.
 "It's impossible to rely in the future on the beach if you wish to do anything in the region of 300 miles an hour," the sportsman said. "You must have 100 per cent perfect conditions for high speed. We now are carrying out further tests for our attempt in July."

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL CAMP OPENS AUGUST 19

Jimmy Conzelman, head football coach of Washington University, will open his annual football school for high school players, Aug. 19, at Gasconade Lodge, near Richmond, Mo. The school will close Aug. 29. A thorough training in fundamentals and the finer points of football will be given.
 Coach Harvey Selvidge of Paseo High School, Kansas City, will assist Conzelman this year in conducting the school.

CHICAGO U. WRESTLERS PLAN TO TOUR JAPAN

CHICAGO, June 5.—Jay Berwanger, University of Chicago football star and field man on the track team, and Quintin Johnston, broad jumper and quarter-mile, today were named co-captains of the 1938 Maroon track team. The athletic department announced the university's wrestling team will tour Japan this summer. Details of the month and a half trip were not yet available.

Zachary Still Going Strong.
 Tom Zachary, staging a pitching comeback with the Dodgers, wasn't good enough for the Browns eight years ago. Washington got him on waivers.

Eastern Tourney, July 1-6.
 The Eastern intercollegiate tennis championships will be played at the Richmond Country Club of Donagan Hills, N. Y., July 1 to 6.

Columbus Snaps Losing Streak

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Losing streaks are getting as common this year as winning streaks were last year for the Columbus Red Birds, little world's champions, but the latest one was ended today.

After losing five in a row, the Red Birds, imbedded in second division, came from behind yesterday and then pushed over two runs in the eighth inning to defeat Louisville, 5 to 3. Hits by Hassett, Fullis, Ogdowski and Cullop accounted for the winning runs. The Colonels got 10 hits off Bud Tinning but had 10 runners stranded to only four for Columbus.

Led by Brubaker and Alexander, the Kansas City Blues scored

VOIDING LIFE INSURANCE POLICY STUDIED

Supreme Court Decision in Case of Woman Who Didn't Know Condition When Insured.

INDUSTRIAL POLICY, NO EXAMINATION

Suit by Husband as Administrator of the Estate of His Wife.

A decision of the Missouri Supreme Court, holding a life insurance policy invalid because the policyholder died of a disease from which she suffered, unknowingly, when the policy was issued, is being studied with interest by attorneys who have protested insurance companies in litigation.

The case involved an industrial life insurance policy, issued without medical examination. There was evidence that the policyholder knew at the time it was issued, that the policyholder suffered from the disease which later led to her death. The policy contained the usual clause that it was issued under no obligation unless the insured was "alive and in sound health" at the time it was issued.

The decision of the court hinged on its interpretation of the Missouri statute which provides that a misrepresentation made in obtaining a policy of life insurance shall be deemed material or render the policy void, unless the matter misrepresented shall have actually contributed to the contingency or event on which the policy is to be paid.

Commissioner's View. It was the opinion of Commissioner James A. Cooley, concurred by Commissioners Westhues and Boring, and unanimously adopted by the Supreme Court last Jan. 5, that if the representations made by the insured, whether innocently or fraudulently, were in fact false, and the facts misrepresented contributed to the death of the policyholder, the insurance company could not be held liable.

The statute makes no distinction between innocent and fraudulent misrepresentation, especially when the misrepresentation applied to a "sound health" condition in the policy itself. The insurer agreed to assume liability only upon the condition that the insured should be, and not merely believe herself to be, in sound health when the policy was issued and the premium was fixed. Had the insurer known that the applicant for insurance was afflicted with a disease that probably would, as it did, not cause her death, doubtless it would not have issued the policy.

Policyholder in Dark. The matter immediately before the court was an industrial insurance policy, a type issued annually to thousands of a few hundred dollars. More expensive than other policies it is sold most often to persons of limited means who find it convenient to pay the premiums in small sums weekly or at other frequent intervals, rather than be obliged to make a larger lump sum payment annually or semi-annually.

Since no medical examination is required by companies which write industrial insurance policies, attorneys pointed out, the question of whether a policyholder was "in sound health" when it was issued was which may be redetermined after the death of the insured, and view of the circumstances of her death. Consequently, they said, a policyholder has no means of knowing during his lifetime, whether the beneficiaries will receive the amount of the insurance contracted for or merely a return of the premium paid.

Death From Tuberculosis. The case in which the court made its ruling was a suit against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. by Mary A. Kirk of Grundy County, Mo., as administrator of the estate of her wife. She took out three industrial life insurance policies, totaling $10,000, on July 23, 1923, and on following Dec. 11, lacking a few months of five months later, died of tuberculosis.

Proof of claim filed with the insurance company by the beneficiary was denied that Mrs. Kirk had been in "sound health" before her death. One physician testified that she had tuberculosis for years before her death. Another testified that he concluded, from her history supplied to him, that she had the disease for years. The testimony was, however, that she herself did not know of her condition until the August before her death.

The court of Grundy County found against the insurance company, but the Appellate Court affirmed the case to the Supreme Court. The Appellate Court decision was necessary for the insurance company, to avoid paying, show that the insured was not in sound health, or must, under the facts and circumstances, Opponent Finally Gets Busy With Appeal for Votes on Election Day, and Wins, 68-51.

By the Associated Press.

GLENVILLE, W. Va., June 5.—Full returns last night showed that Mrs. Amanda Thompson, housewife and candidate for Mayor of Glenville, failed to unseat Mayor A. L. Cottrill. He was re-elected, 68 votes to 51.

Neighborhood women, who had waged a militant "Mandy for Mayor" campaign, abandoned celebration plans which called for a "square dance." Mrs. Thompson could not be immediately reached for comment, nor could her husband, Roy, who himself had been a mayoralty candidate. He withdrew in favor of Mandy on the eve of the election, saying, "One interest in the family is enough."

It was believed this action came only after a number of family caucuses in one of which his daughter, Virginia, advised, "You'd better let mamma run; she'll win."

Mayor Cottrill, who, before yesterday, had taken no part in the campaign, was fired to action by the activities of the housewives, who postponed a scheduled "sun bonnet" parade so as to "get out the vote for Mandy." He stripped off his coat and, walking the streets of the village of 700 persons, appealed for support.

ST. LOUIS AIR MAIL INCREASED

Amount Received Last Month Up 204 Per Cent Over May, 1934.

Air mail received at St. Louis last month increased 204 per cent over the amount received in May, 1934, and air mail dispatched increased 134.5 per cent, it was announced yesterday by Postmaster Jackson.

Last month, 8277 pounds of air mail was received here and 8260 pounds sent out as compared to 2719 pounds received and 3521 dispatched in May, 1934.

Trainmen Denounce Hearst Paper.

CLEVELAND, O., June 5.—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, in convention here yesterday, adopted a resolution describing all publications of William Randolph Hearst as "repugnant to the best interests of this brotherhood, contrary to the general welfare of the American people and constituting a serious threat to American democracy."

Brotherhood men said the adoption of the resolution was inspired by an editorial in the Los Angeles Examiner of April 20, praising Gov. Frank F. Merriam for vetoing a bill limiting trains to 70 cars.

ILLINOIS ARMY DETACHMENTS PARTICIPATE IN WAR GAMES

Fort Sheridan Artillery Unit and Scott Field Aircraft in Maneuvers.

By the Associated Press.

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., June 5.—Nine searchlights of the Sixty-first Coast Artillery swept the skies above Traverse City Monday night, seeking the "enemy" air fleet. The searchlights were brought into play as part of the war games being conducted in this area by a coast artillery regiment from Fort Sheridan, Ill., and the aircraft detachments from Scott Field, Ill. Six hundred troops are taking part in the games.

Commanding officers abandoned plans for extensive night maneuvers at this port late Monday and decided to move to Muskegon, where greater facilities for night landings will be available. The removal began yesterday and the war games at Muskegon will be started tomorrow.

Lieutenant-Colonel Charles B. Meyer, commanding the coast artillery unit, moved his command to Northport yesterday for machine-gun firing in connection with the simulated attack of 14 planes commanded by Maj. William Goldsborough.

TWA HEAD SAYS LINDBERGH IS STILL CONNECTED WITH LINE

Flyer Has Taken No Retainer Fees For Several Months, Due to Press of Personal Affairs.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, at his own request, has not received a retainer for his services as adviser to Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., for the last several months, it was disclosed today by Henry B. du Pont, chairman of the board of directors of TWA.

In a statement, du Pont said: "Col. Lindbergh has not severed his connections with Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc. His relationship with the company is substantially the same as it has been since he surveyed the Transcontinental route in 1926. During the last several months Col. Lindbergh has found it necessary to devote most of his time to his personal affairs, and, at his own request, he has received no retainer from the company during this period."

STEP UP TO BEAUTY
in these new cars with the solid steel "Turret Top"★ BODY by FISHER

The "Turret Top" body is warm in winter as well as cool in summer. This is due to the highly effective insulating material under the solid steel roof.

Here is the newest, the smartest style in lower-priced cars—the brilliantly beautiful Master De Luxe Chevrolet. And the crown of its beauty is its Body by Fisher, so handsomely appointed interiorly as it is distinctive exteriorly. The first feature, of course to catch admiring eyes will be the sweeping smoothness of roof line which identifies its solid steel "Turret Top."

JUST for its smartness, its brilliant style, its trim and eye-filling fleetness of line, any car with Body by Fisher commands admiring glances anywhere.

But there is more than beauty—much more—to recommend that you ride in General Motors cars with Body by Fisher this year.

On the new 1935 Chevrolet (Master De Luxe series) pictured here—on the Pontiac, Oldsmobile and La Salle—you will find safety such as no car has ever successfully provided before—the safety of solid, seamless steel over your head.

That new safety is yours because of the "Turret

Top"—arched and formed like the battleship turret from which it takes its name.

This protective roof is welded to the steel side panels, the steel rear panels—even the steel windshield panels—so that the whole structure of the body is a super-rigid, shock-proof, weave-proof unit. Generously insulated against sound and sun—this solid steel "Turret Top" makes a Body by Fisher not only safer, but restfully quiet and cool as well.

How cool—even under the blazing Key West sun—was conclusively proved under the official sanction and supervision of the American Automobile Association, in tests using cars with "Turret Top" and conventional style tops side by side.

And close to two million car owners can testify, now, to the year round comfort of another great Fisher advantage—Fisher No Draft Ventilation, which, like the solid steel "Turret Top," is found only on General Motors cars.

MISS SARAH SIMMONS DIES AT AGE OF 100

Insisted on Reading During Illness of Five Days—Funeral Tomorrow Morning.

Miss Sarah E. Simmons, who was 100 years old last Feb. 26, died of infirmities of age yesterday at her home, 4361 Washington boulevard.

Miss Simmons had been confined to her bed less than a week, and even then insisted on reading daily newspapers and publications of the Presbyterian Church. She was the oldest member of the Second Presbyterian Church, which she joined in 1869 when it was at Fifth and Walnut streets, and the second oldest in length of membership. She was active in its affairs until four years ago.

With her three sisters, one of whom survives, Miss Simmons came to St. Louis in 1866 from Lycoming County, Pennsylvania. None of the sisters married. Col. Samuel Simmons, had returned from the Civil War, having served as commissary chief for the Federal Army of the Cumberland, and established a home for his sisters at Broadway and Locust street. Later they resided at 2927 Lucas avenue and in 1893 he built the Washington boulevard residence. He died in 1902.

Miss Emma Simmons, who retired in 1915 after teaching Latin in St. Louis schools for many years, died in 1930, leaving an estate appraised at $318,098 to Miss Sarah and Miss Susan Simmons, most of which had been inherited from their brother. Another sister, Miss Margaret Simmons, died in 1904. Miss Susan Simmons, formerly a kindergarten teacher, has been an invalid at the Washington boulevard home for several years.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning with interment in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

ACQUITTED OF SERUM FRAUD

Two Set Free by Instruction of Pennsylvania Judge.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 5.—Dr. E. K. Tingley and Roy G. Miller were acquitted yesterday of conspiring to defraud the State through distribution of out-dated diphtheria anti-toxin serum after Judge William Hargest told the jury there was insufficient evidence.

Tingley, president of a Marietta laboratory firm, supplied serum to the State since 1906. Miller had been a State Health Department employe for 28 years.

YOUTH STUDYING MEDICINE IN ATTEMPT TO SAVE LIFE

Young Man, 20, Has Calicetosis, Rare Disease Which Is Slowly Turning Him to Stone.

BERKELEY, Cal., June 5.—Sixteen hours a day of study and work are dedicated by Albert Hagedorn Jr., 20 years old, to his fight against calicetosis, a rare disease which is slowly turning him to stone.

The University of California student devotes every waking minute toward acquiring a medical education by which he hopes he may save himself, or at least others, from death. Hagedorn says only a miracle of science can save him but he remains determinedly hopeful. Only 28 sufferers from the disease are known. Hagedorn's body began slowly turning to calcium carbonate seven years ago.

His day is divided between his studies and work at a grocery store to earn funds to carry on his education. Almost all of the earnings of his father as a night watchman also are devoted to the youth's studies.

JERITZA CONFIRMS REPORT SHE IS DIVORCING BARON

Denies Any Engagement, Saying Career Is Her Only Interest; Has Movie Contracts Pending.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 5.—Maria Jeritza, Austrian prima donna, confirmed a report last night that she is divorcing Baron Leopold Poepper de Podbrag, but denied she is engaged.

The divorce will become final in Vienna within three or four weeks, the singer said, adding that she has several contracts pending with motion picture companies and was interested only in her career.

"Rumors of my engagement to three different men, one a prince, one a count and one a publisher, which have been circulated in the last three days, are not true. I am interested only in following my career," she declared.

Madame Jeritza declined to discuss details of the divorce.

FREED OF CHARGE IN MURDER OF ADVERTISING EXECUTIVE

Defendant in Eli Daiches Case at Chicago Released When Witness Refuses to Testify.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, June 5.—Arthur Embelen of Gary, Ind., was freed yesterday of a charge of conspiracy to murder after an alleged co-conspirator in the killing of Eli Daiches refused to testify against Embelen and prosecutors not pressed the case before Judge Grover C. Niemeyer.

Embelen had refused to testify in a recent trial which resulted in a life sentence for Irving Weitzman, bakery executive who was convicted as the man who directed the murder of Daiches, wealthy advertising executive. Weitzman's appeal is pending.

Walter Murphy, who testified at the trial of Weitzman, refused to be a witness yesterday against Embelen, telling prosecutors he had "fulfilled his bargain" by testifying against Weitzman. Murphy is awaiting trial for the murder.

Prosecutors, unable to proceed without Murphy's testimony, asked the Court to quash the charge against Embelen. Then a warrant was issued against Embelen, alleging assault with intent to kill.

Daiches was the victim of a shotgun assassin as he sat in his automobile near a busy boulevard in March, 1934.

HERRIOT REFUSES TO ORGANIZE NEW FRENCH CABINET

President Lebrun Then Picks Francois Pietri, Ex-Finance Minister Who Accepts Tentatively.

LAVAL ALSO FAILS IN THE EFFORT Group Smashes Windows of Newspaper "Le Petit Journal," Which Urged Currency Devaluation.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.) PARIS, June 5.—Francois Pietri, former Minister of Finance and Minister of Navy in the last two cabinets, tonight tentatively accepted the offer of Premier Herriot to form a new cabinet.

Pietri was summoned to Elysee Palace shortly after Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radical Socialist party, refused the office, and undertook to form a cabinet to succeed the fallen government of Fernand Bouisson.

Herriot, who is leader of the Radical Socialist party and an advocate of payment by France of the war debts to the United States, was selected for the task after Pierre Laval, Foreign Minister, had failed in an effort to form a new cabinet.

Laval Gives Up. Bouisson had lasted in office only three days and 20 hours, resigning after accepting the commission of President Lebrun, tried for nearly 24 hours to gather together ministers for a cabinet but, at the end of that time, he was forced to resign.

Laval undertook the formation of a cabinet against his own inclination. Only last night he rejected the suggestion that he accept the Presidency of the Council.

Herriot, 65-year-old former president of the Chamber of Deputies, declined to attempt to form a new government. He contended that the chamber's refusal to concede full powers he sought to fight for the franc eliminated him as a possibility.

Gold Outflow Resumed. The drain on the gold reserves of the Bank of France, checked by the formation of the Bouisson Cabinet, was resumed today. Gold bars were still offered to all who demanded them, but authorities said the demand was moderate. Small buyers, however, alarmed at the developments, stood in line in the bank courtyard waiting to turn their paper francs into gold.

One man bought a basket in which were 100 franc bills. Others came with small packages, baskets and handbags filled with currency. The cabinet difficulty caused a wave of government securities in the Bourse as traders sought to purchase stocks. Government bonds opened weak and dropped steadily.

Threat by War Veterans. The unsettled political situation brought from the National Federation of War Veterans, representing most of France's 3,500,000 ex-soldiers, a threat to take action unless an end were made to "despair" and "loss of confidence." The organization described the political stalemate in the repeated efforts of successive cabinets.

A band of 50 persons this evening smashed the windows of Raymond Poincaré's newspaper "Le Petit Journal," which has advocated currency devaluation. The group also destroyed the windows of the headquarters of French politicians, who have been accused by the Rightist Parties of exercising "occult influence" in politics.

The hand then fled. Today's outbreak was almost the first since the current financial and political crisis. At about the same time 200 Royalist "Kilts" clashed with police on the boulevards. The demonstration was dispersed after 10 minutes.

The tense situation created by developments of the last week was reflected in a strike of shopkeepers against tax burdens, and a fight last night between gendarmes and several hundred members of the nationalist "Solidarité Française." The demonstration was arranged as a protest against seizure of the organization's newspaper, which had urged mass protests against the Bouisson government.

Nazi Censorship Tightens Down Drastically on Editors, Readers, And Even Curbs Radio Listeners

Book Dealer Gets Year for Having Dutch Journal — Worker's Discharge Approved Because He Tuned in on Russian Station.

(Copyright, 1935.)

BERLIN, June 5.—History does repeat itself sometimes. In 1820 an Austrian named Prince Clemens Metternich, through the notorious Karlsbad decrees, established his yoke for 30 years over Germany, abolishing the freedom of the press and speech as well as academic freedom. Somewhat more than a hundred years later, another Austrian, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, has forged a similar dictatorship over Germany, making free expression of thought and opinion impossible.

Even a casual reading of the German press these days tells the story. Here from Nuremberg, the city of meetings, comes the news of August Baer, book-dealer, who has been sentenced to a year's penal servitude for possessing and reading a foreign newspaper. He was convicted, according to the Bavarian press, for having a Dutch newspaper, "containing more lying foreign press reports concerning the Reichstag fire," and using it to support his views in a beer hall argument.

In the Ruhr town of Herne a young man got six months' imprisonment for the crime of having a "treasonable circular" in his possession. His offense was not that he had anything to do with the authorship or distribution of this handbill, but merely that he hadn't delivered it over to the authorities upon receiving it.

Editors Must Watch Out. Editors, in particular, must watch their Ps and Qs these days. The slightest misstep, no matter how innocent, may cost them their liberty. Two editors of the "Essener Volkszeitung" were sentenced by a summary court of Essen to three months' imprisonment each for publishing an erroneous report that a man sentenced to death on a charge of murder had been reprieved and his sentence commuted to imprisonment for life. The court, holding that the two editors had carelessly violated their professional obligations by having failed to investigate the correctness of such important news, punished them on the ground that publication of the report had created unrest and a feeling of insecurity among the population.

From Marlowwerder, ancient stronghold of the Teutonic knights in West Prussia, comes news that an employee in a shoe factory has been dismissed without notice and his discharge sanctioned by the court on the ground that he had been in the habit periodically of listening in to the Moscow stations on his radio. The Nazi judge ruled that "deliberate listening in on such transmissions has so shaken the basis of trust subsisting between him and the leader of the factory that his further employment cannot be answered for."

lution of the chamber and new elections as a solution. Editorial Comment on French Situation by German Press Barred. BERLIN, June 5.—The propaganda Minister today declined to permit the press to comment on the French Cabinet difficulty.

Orders were issued prohibiting editorial writers from charging on news dispatches from Paris in an antagonistic way. Big headlines, however, displayed the facts of the situation with subtle thrusts at "the futility" of the parliamentary system.

Editorials written prior to the prohibition said the situation was not only French but applied to all countries still clinging to Parliamentary government.

SIX AIR BASES PROVIDED IN BILL PASSED BY HOUSE Alaska and Panama Canal Among Places to Be Guarded; Increase in Corps Approved. WASHINGTON, June 5.—A bill to authorize construction of half a dozen key army air bases to guard Alaska, the Panama Canal and the nation's frontiers against any enemy attacks was passed today by the House and sent to the Senate.

The measure recently was the center of international reverberations when it was disclosed an officer of the army high command had told the House Military Committee it contained a camouflaged provision for an air base on the Canadian border. In establishing the new bases, the War Department is directed to consider sites in the Atlantic Northeast, Atlantic South and Caribbean, Southeastern states, Alaska, Pacific Northwest, and Rocky Mountains.

A measure to fill the army air corps to its authorized officer strength was passed earlier by the House. The bill, by Representative Thompson (Dem., Texas), would authorize the President to commission enough reserve officers graduated by the army air corps training center near San Antonio, Tex., to fill 381 existing vacancies. To permit this, the bill would boost from 12,000 to 12,400 the authorized officer strength of the entire army.

The German Supreme Court has decided that insulting the Fuehrer is valid ground for divorce, since "it must seriously wound the feelings of the other partner." The Hamburg District Court has granted a wife a divorce because her husband was a Communist.

Two Berlin political cabarets, "Katakomben" and "Tingel-Tangel," have recently been closed by the secret police on orders from Dr. Joseph Paul Goebbels and some performers were sent to a concentration camp. The official explanation stated that in these cabarets "it was found that the military and party uniforms were vilified, the party was made ridiculous and compulsory military service was dragged in the mud."

The only vent for the opposition criticism these days is the manufacture of thousands and thousands of jokes about the Nazi party and its leaders, which are furtively circulated in private gatherings and in the more secluded corners of cafes, where the humorists think they are safe from the prying ears of the "Gestapo."

Hitler and Frederick. Dr. Alfred Rosenberg recently tried to justify this system in a talk to the foreign correspondents here by pointing out that Sir Stafford Cripps, British Labor leader, had recently had to retract certain charges he made against the King. Dr. Rosenberg overlooked the fact that the constitutional position of a King and a Fuehrer is entirely different. The King reigns but does not rule—he is head of the state and is not head of the Government.

On the other hand, Hitler rules as well as reigns, and so far from being kept out of the political battle he is at once head of the Government and head of the state.

Furthermore, Cripps was not put in a concentration camp or sent to prison for his criticism of royalty. Dr. Rosenberg has apparently never heard of the famous place in London called Hyde Park where every Sunday criticism of every man and every institution under the sun can be freely vented.

Dr. Rosenberg, having been born and educated in Czarist Russia, can hardly perhaps be expected to know intimately British political life. What is more astonishing is that he does not appear to be familiar with the liberal attitude towards public criticism of Prussia's great King, the second Frederick. Probably every German schoolboy knows the story, how Frederick, riding in the streets of Berlin one day, came across a placard grossly insulting him.

"Hang it lower so that everybody can read it," he said to his entourage.

WALLACE ON CONSTITUTION: TOO FIRMLY FIXED, HE IMPLIES Secretary of Agriculture Previously Has Proposed Amendment by Popular Referendum. By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 5.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace implied in a speech here yesterday that he thought the Constitution was too "firmly fixed." Several months ago he proposed that the Constitution be made amendable at any time by popular referendum.

Speaking at Columbia University commencement exercises, Wallace asked whether it was not "commencement time for the United States."

"The time comes when the consciousness must be enormously heightened to perceive the changes in trend," he said. "Incidentally, a certain phase of the problem was thrown into unusually sharp relief by the statement of nine distinguished gentlemen only a few days ago."

"When a nation shifts as quickly as the United States has from a debtor to a creditor nation, it has suddenly forced upon it the responsibility for furnishing leadership in directing currents of world investment and world trade."

"With regard to adopting a definite policy on matters of this sort it seems that the United States, with a Constitution as firmly fixed in the past as has now been demonstrated, must perhaps remain for some little time in a state of adolescent flux before she can preserve either herself or neighboring nations from harm."

SENATE RENEWS UTILITY HOLDING COMPANY FIGHT

Hastings Again Argues Wheeler's Measure Is Unconstitutional — He Agrees to Reword It.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A new attack on the Wheeler-Rayburn bill to abolish public utility holding companies was launched in the Senate today—again from both sides of the chamber.

From the Republican side, Senator Hastings of Delaware resumed the speech he began yesterday, contending the measure was unconstitutional.

Senator Bailey of North Carolina, on the Democratic side, offered 41 amendments by which he said he sought to accomplish the "declared purpose" of the bill, that of regulating the power interests, without attempting to destroy holding companies.

Hastings contended the drafters of the bill sought authority through the mail laws and the Interstate Commerce Commission to regulate business within the states, and drew from Senator Wheeler (Dem., Montana), agreement to reword the bill to clarify it.

Clashing Predictions. The fight surrounding the bill led to clashing predictions as to its chances of being passed. Senators Tydings, McKellar (Dem., Tennessee), and Clark (Dem., Missouri), conferred with Wheeler yesterday at the end of the fourth day of debate, urging that the bill be revised.

Tydings said afterward he had asked Wheeler to split the bill, permitting the regulatory features to pass as a separate measure, but deferring to another Congress the provisions for abolishing or reorganizing holding companies by 1942. He asserted that in the meantime a resolution could be passed for a study of the abolition section so the 1936 session could be advised upon it.

Called Unconstitutional. Wheeler did not share Tydings' view that the bill would not pass, although he conceded it had lost some strength under the attack by Senators Hastings and Dieterich (Dem., Illinois), both of whom called it unconstitutional. They said it would subject the power industry to unforeseen control by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Senator Clark said he would vote to have the bill sent back to committee to revise certain sections of it, particularly the one authorizing the commission to begin recovery proceedings against any companies it deemed unsound. The bill makes it mandatory for the courts to appoint the commission as receiver of any companies adjudged in need of reorganization.

"With that section," Clark said, "the commission could take over the nation's power industry." Wheeler declared it carried no such danger.

Senator Borah's Position. Senator Borah of Idaho who has said no reason why Congress could not eliminate holding companies if they were found to be a burden on interstate commerce. He expressed the belief the bill's intent "is to regulate only those companies engaged in interstate commerce."

Senator Hastings contended that the bill "goes farther" than that. He contended the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution was being used "solely as an excuse in order that Congress may get jurisdiction."

ILLINOIS SENATE PASSES BILL TO ABOLISH RELIEF BOARD Measure Would Replace Commission With Director; Vote Is 29 to 4. By the Associated Press. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 5.—Despite the opposition of administration spokesmen, the Senate passed today the Hickman bill to replace the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission with a State Director of Relief.

The vote was 29 to 4, but the sending of the bill to the House was held up by the House. G. Ward, leader of the Chicago Democrats, served notice that he would ask for reconsideration.

GERMANY WANTS NAVY NEARLY AS BIG AS FRANCE'S

First Draft at London Conference Calls for 35 Pct. of English and 85 Pct. of French Tonnage.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 5.—Germany's reported plans for a 400,000-ton navy apparently created a serious issue today in naval talks with Great Britain, since such a fleet would exceed Great Britain's home defense sea forces.

British representatives, it was understood, will attempt to whittle down the program Berlin plans. The English fleet in home waters will total but 351,000 tons, including prospective increases.

A preliminary draft of Adolf Hitler's plans was laid before the British by the German delegation. It calls for a navy equal in total tonnage of 35 per cent of Britain's and 85 per cent of France's.

Indicated Tonnage Limits. It was indicated that Germany would refuse to accept any limits on either the size or number of destroyers and submarines, but might accept limits of 35,000 tons for battleships and 10,000 tons for cruisers.

Building plans for the French and Italian navies may prove fatal to the British objectives in the present conference.

When Italy laid down two 35,000-ton battleships last October and France planned to match them, British hopes for a 25,000-ton international limit on capital warships were all but shattered.

Despite Germany's desire to concede all it can to the British in naval negotiations, informed sources said Hitler cannot overlook these moves on the continent.

Only Two Capital Ship Builders. France and Italy are the only nations to undertake the construction of capital ships since the Washington and London naval treaties were signed. France already has built two "Dunkerque" type battleships of 25,500 tons each to meet Germany's "pocket battleships."

Another issue which has made the outlook dark for any agreement here is Germany's submarine construction.

Indications are that the conversations will extend into next week. Britain hopes to persuade Germany to adopt a program which could be included in a world naval limitation agreement, as Britain is resolved this world conference must be held this year.

CUT RELIEF, WIND UP RFC AND PWA, SAYS DOUGLAS

Former Budget Director Gives Chicago Business Men His Views on Reducing Federal Expense.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Lewis W. Douglas, former Director of the National Budget in President Roosevelt's administration, asserted yesterday the "New Deal's" policy of spending threatened to overthrow the American democratic form of government and substitute a political and economic dictatorship.

Speaking before groups of Chicago business men, the Arizona Democrat said that only a "courageous effort to balance the budget" could prevent such an overthrow.

"We are spending a great people into poverty, a great middle class into destruction, and a great democracy into dictatorship," he said.

Douglas said the New Deal's plan of borrowing from the banks with Government bonds as security was fully as inflationary as the printing of greenbacks, "except that the psychological effect was delayed because of the temporary delay in public recognition of this fact."

He urged that the budget be balanced by slicing departmental expenditures for the next fiscal year, ending June 30, 1936, to $2,700,000,000 and cutting relief grants to states to $1,250,000,000. He said the total expenditures could be limited to $4,900,000,000.

"On the revenue side, convert the RFC into a liquidating agency," Douglas advised, "compel the Public Works Administration to liquidate its assets. In this way the budget could be brought to within $300,000,000 or $400,000,000 of balancing in the 1936 fiscal year, and in 1937, by the same procedure, could be brought into balance leaving $200,000,000 or $300,000,000 for debt retirement."

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Notes on the NRA Decision.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
OUR Constitution has served our needs adequately in peace and in war. Under it we have grown from an insignificant frontier nation to become the richest and most powerful country in the world. Despite a depression of unparalleled severity, our American standard of living and our material prosperity are the envy of the entire world.

We are now being told that our Constitution belongs to the horse-and-buggy era. We are informed that the invention of the automobile has abrogated the Constitution. We are told, what indeed all of us already knew, that ours is the only important nation in which the central government is one of limited and enumerated powers. We are asked to bemoan the fact that our President is subject to constitutional limitations that do not fetter Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini.

This peevish outburst comes as an anticlimax upon the failure of a bold attempt, by legislative fiat, to override the Constitution. The effort failed—our Supreme Court demonstrated that it could not be intimidated. If the Constitution is to be changed, it must be lawfully amended, not abrogated by fraudulent interpretation.

The confusion into which the country has been thrown may be ascribed not to the decision of the Supreme Court but to the unwarranted usurpation of authority which made such a decision necessary. The only uncertainty which attended the decision of the court did not concern the constitutionality of the New Deal but lay in whether the court would yield to political duress. To its everlasting credit, it did not.

We are now, let us hope, done with "hothead economics" and political nostrums. Behind the imposing facade of pretentious academic terminology, the New Deal economics is based upon three silly ideas:

1. That we can all become richer and richer by producing less and less to sell for more and more.
2. That if we cripple business by confiscatory taxation and then put it into the straitjacket of code regulation, business will hasten to re-employ those now idle in an effort to lose more money faster.
3. That we can create wealth by such dishonest devices as calling 59 cents a dollar.

The perfect epitome of the New Deal economics is found in the chain-letter craze. Its basic idea, that we can all grow wealthy by swapping dimes, is no sillier than the belief that we can become prosperous by destroying wealth, by killing little pigs and throwing them in the river, by plowing up cotton, by not growing this and not producing that.

Let us hope the Supreme Court decision will give pause to our potential Caesars.

The Insurance Surrender.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
AN official paid by the public tries to compromise suits filed by the State and thus to give 80 per cent of the people's money to those not entitled to it—the insurance companies. What is left goes to those from whom it was taken to be impounded.

Superintendent O'Malley says some may think his compromise favors the insurance companies; others may think it favors the State. I think it favors the insurance companies and the lawyers for the expense of the public. It is a raw deal, but Judge Sevier threw the monkey-wrench and damaged the machinery for a while, at least.

AN IMPOUNDED VICTIM.

For a Federal Incorporation Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
NRA would not be a dead dodo today if the Government had the necessary constitutional control over corporations. Corporations are necessary for the national economy. However, Federal authority over them is far remote from the intended purpose of the Constitution. Their activities are of such widespread significance that even Uncle Sam in the role of NRA was powerless to meet them on common ground.

The many conflicting and overlapping state incorporations have been fused into one Federal law. The emergency for such action has arrived. Experience has proved there is no place in our national economy for NRA under existing conditions.

Corporate activities had no place in our national economy 150 years ago. Since then, however, they have become decidedly national in their activities and as such they should be treated as a national factor.

A. E. K.

Cost of the New Postoffice.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WITH respect to the new Postoffice: The Government estimated the general work on the superstructure to cost $3,964,000; the low bidder says he can build it for $3,527,253. They call the difference a saving. There is only one place to make the difference up and that is on the men who do the work. Now these men have waited eight years to build the Postoffice, and I hope they are given a chance to work like human beings.

JAMES CASSIN JR.

IT IS TIME TO ACT.

Now that another legislative session has refused to reform criminal procedure in Missouri, it is time for the people to go to their own defense by way of the initiative.

There is no use in waiting longer. The Assembly which has just adjourned did not differ in kind from all those which have refused to perform this service for the people of the State. They have all had before them bills prepared by the bar associations and public-spirited bodies highly qualified to suggest how criminal procedure can be amended to meet the necessities of the time. They have all rejected virtually every proposal for reform and they have all refused for the same reason.

We have many times told what this reason is. Legislatures are largely made up of lawyers. They do not as a rule belong to that element of the bar which wants to reform criminal procedure. The lawyer in the Legislature is, in too many instances, himself engaged in criminal practice to some degree. He is, unfortunately, at times allied with that element in the bar which resists the reforms proposed by the bar associations and such spokesmen for the legal profession as the late President Taft. Mr. Taft said the roots of crime in the United States rest in our archaic criminal code. He told how the code can be reformed, and his advice has been responsible to a great degree for the widespread reform movement in the nation.

One of the opponents of the code bills before the recent Missouri Assembly asserted that the remedies proposed by the bar associations would invade the constitutional rights of accused persons. It is this exaggeration of the constitutional rights of accused persons that has all but broken down the defense of society against the underworld. It was never the design of the men who made the Constitution that it should become a sanctuary for kidnapers and gunmen, but this is precisely what has happened. The code bills scorned by the legislators at Jefferson City did not circumscribe the constitutional rights of accused persons. They merely interpreted them in the social as opposed to the unsocial sense.

An illustration in point is the desire of the bar associations to give State courts the right to comment upon evidence enjoyed by Federal courts. The Federal courts do not, by exercise of this right, jeopardize accused persons beyond the intentions of the Constitution. Upon the contrary, the inability of State courts to comment upon evidence is well known to give accused persons an advantage which has done great hurt to society. It has made justice difficult. The same thing is true of the reform in bail bonds, rejected at Jefferson City. There is no disposition to deprive an accused person of the right to bail. The reform is aimed at the abuse of this privilege. It undertakes to make the exercise of it genuine.

It is time for Missouri to take this situation in hand. There is only one way to do it. That is to resort to the initiative. The bar associations must lead the way. They can begin at once upon the preparation of a program which can be taken before the electorate. It can include all the meritorious suggestions that have been made for the reform of criminal procedure. It will be quite easy to secure sufficient signatures to place the program before the voters. The State has two admirable objectives to achieve in so doing:

1. It can bring criminal procedure in Missouri abreast of the times. It can place the underworld upon the defensive. It can attack kidnapping and gangsterism at the roots. It can break up the malpractice in law which has made a certain type of criminal lawyer as great a menace to society as the criminal himself.
2. It can rebuke the faithless Legislature. It can do for its own protection what the Legislature has refused to do for it through one session after another.

Ariste, Missouri!

IDAHO'S CHALLENGE TO ADVERTISERS.

A ruling that will both test and torture advertising writers has just been laid down by the Idaho State Liquor Control Board. On its face, it is a compromise between those who thought liquor advertising should be outlawed and those who saw no need of restricting it. The board now sanctions advertising, but with the proviso that "it must not be alluring." It defines this restraint thus: The ads must give no recipes for the use of liquor, contain no invitation to drink, mention none of the qualities the manufacturers claim for their products. Handing down these taboos, the board says in effect to the copy writers: "Go to it, boys! And if you can get in more than the name of the brand, you're good."

Radio advertising has an even weirder safeguard. No word about liquor may be loosed on the ether until after 9:30 p. m. By that time, the theory seems to be, the more susceptible younger generation will be in bed. By these strange thou-shalt-nots, the public of a great state is to be trained in temperance.

THOSE VULGAR BRITISH.

The notion that the British are a haughty and aristocratic people, superior in taste and culture to their vulgar American cousins, may not be dispelled on either side of the ocean by a single magazine article. But H. W. Seaman, an English journalist, writing in the American Mercury, has done his bit by insisting, after presenting a mountainous array of facts, that the British are our equals, if not our masters, in every form of vulgarity.

In burlesque shows, flea circuses, penny arcades, Coventry street is an ardent rival of Forty-second; for every movie star that lends her name and prestige to a brand of soap, mustard or lipstick, the British can provide a lady of nobility who does the same; if our imitation Chinese pagodas, Spanish missions, colonial and hybrid mansions are terrible, you should see Britain's fake Tudor inns, done-over castles with flood lighting added, gimcrack imitations of Ann Hathaway's cottage and the like.

Are American eyes forever assailed with the importunities of advertisers? In England, they plaster everything with ads. Our postoffices, for example, are relatively dignified; in England, the Government, for money, permits the walls of postoffices to be covered "with the announcements of local cinemas, dance teachers, undertakers, barbers and butchers." Worse, the Government sells vacant space on income-tax receipt forms and books of postage stamps.

Mr. Seaman counters Aimee McPherson with hymns displayed by searchlight in British skies; for Coney Island, he hands us an even more lurid British imitation; for our criminals who revel in showmanship, he presents the famous Rev. Mr. Davidson, fresh from his obscenity trial, exhibiting himself in a barrel at an English fair. His description of the interior of British cinema houses and what goes on there makes ours seem the essence of dignity.

All this and much more about his compatriots does Mr. Seaman unfold before shocked American eyes. Apparently, he is trying to force us to admit that we have been wrongly placed in an attitude of inferiority by a host of high-batters, from Charles Dickens, with his "American Notes," down to the latest British lecturer stunning us into submission with his terrific Oxonian accent. If so, we give in without a struggle.

BURYING THE NRA.

The decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Schechter case killed the NRA; the administration proposal of yesterday that it be extended in fragmentary form to April 1, 1936, gives it a slow burial.

Without the industrial codes, the NRA will be only a shadow of its former self. It will be, in fact, under the arrangement as outlined by the President, hardly more than a statistical organization, the main purpose of which appears to be to preserve for a time the jobs of a substantial proportion of NRA employees.

One of the functions of the new organization, it is announced, will be that of enforcing a requirement that contractors for the Government live up to wage and hour standards and refrain from the employment of child labor. These are desirable ends; as the President says, there is a moral responsibility upon the Government to set an example for private industry. The purpose of the Government in this respect could be carried out, of course, by regular Federal establishments, just as the gathering of statistics on the effects of the NRA could well be left to the established statistical agencies.

It had been suggested that the new NRA set-up should undertake the enforcement of codes limited to strictly interstate industries. The President's statement seems to mark the abandonment of this idea. Its demerits were obvious. It would have given a preferred competitive position to one section of industry as against another; it would have led to interminable conflict over the meaning of interstate commerce; it would have resulted inevitably in devices for evasion.

Finally, it would have been open to grave doubt as to its constitutionality. The decision of the Supreme Court, it is true, banned the codes because of their attempted regulation of intrastate commerce; it did not say that Congress might do in the regulation of interstate commerce. That Congress, under the commerce clause, could set up wage and hour and other working conditions for interstate industry is an inference which has been drawn from the decision—but an inference merely. The 5-to-4 decision of the Supreme Court in the railway pension case, where Mr. Justice Roberts, for the majority, ruled that the social end contemplated by the act could not be effected as an incident to the regulation of interstate commerce, shows how uncertain is the ground on which rests the contention that the commerce clause permits the regulation of wages and hours in interstate industry.

It is well, we believe, that the administration, by rejecting the suggestion of regulation in a limited field, has permitted the large issue—that which concerns the powers which the central Government should have in the whole field of industry—to remain clear. This is the issue on which the country awaits a definite statement from the administration.

The President, in his statement yesterday, gave inferential approval to the Wagner labor disputes bill. We remain unshaken in the belief that this bill—one that would take the Government far on the dangerous road of compulsory arbitration, that would deny collective bargaining rights to labor minorities—is a bill in the best interests of neither labor nor the public, and ought to be defeated.

JOHN REED, HARVARD '10.

Harvard is being criticized for hanging in one of its new residence units a portrait of John Reed, a graduate in the class of 1910, who left his post as a war correspondent to participate in the Russian revolution and be converted to Communism as a way of life. This is not surprising. Tolerance always has its opponents, as Harvard has seen so many times in its three centuries. In this instance, as in most others, the criticism arises from a failure to distinguish between adhering to the principle of freedom of thought and endorsing the exact nature of a thought itself.

Because Harvard accepts a painting of John Reed by a classmate and presented by a committee of alumni in memory of his graduation, it does not follow that the university subscribes to his political philosophy. It means that Harvard honors him as a brilliant student—he was Ivy orator, a Lampton editor and writer of lyrics for the Hasty Pudding shows—and as a spirited alumnus who gave his life at the age of 32 in a cause in which he believed. In hanging John Reed's portrait near those of Washington and Samuel Adams, Harvard holds true to our fundamental tradition of intellectual freedom in a time when every such example is greatly needed.

There was a President Roosevelt who advocated "recall of judicial decisions." His first name was Theodore.

WE'RE ALL TOO IMPORTANT TO SERVE ON JURIES.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

Amending the Constitution

WITHOUT any knowledge of what is in his mind, it is a fairly safe guess, it seems to me, that the President will not propose a constitutional amendment. The reason is that it is beyond the wit of man to write an amendment which would meet the situation.

If, following Senator Borah's factious suggestion, he sponsored an amendment vesting omnipotent legislative power in Congress, he would, of course, be proposing to destroy in one stroke the entire Federal Constitution. Obviously, that will not be considered.

If, on the other hand, he tries to write an amendment which vests more power but not all power in Congress, he will be attempting an impossible task. He will be trying to put into a few sentences that very distinction between interstate and intrastate commerce which the Supreme Court has never succeeded in defining conclusively. The court has written volumes on the subject and still, as the Chief Justice said last Monday, "the precise line can be drawn only as individual cases arise."

No one will ever be able to draw the precise line to cover all conceivable cases. For it is the very essence of a federal system such as ours, where the power is distributed as between the central and the state governments, that it is impossible to define exactly, in the abstract, and in advance, where one power ends and the other begins. No new amendment could do it.

The balance of powers is a living and changing balance, not one that can be defined once for all in a few sentences. The balance has to be defined and redefined again and again through the continual interplay of congressional law-making and judicial decision. There is no escape from this under a federal government.

If we remember that the question of what is interstate commerce is not now and can never be defined finally in the Constitution or in any decision, the events of the past week become intelligible. In effect, what happened was something like this: The NRA went before the court, having stretched the Federal power over commerce to a preposterous extreme. It was trying to argue that the wages paid for killing chickens in Philadelphia, if the NRA could regulate those wages, it could regulate the cook's wages or the tip to the bell boy.

The court, mindful of its fundamental task, which is to preserve a balance of Federal and state powers, said in substance: "If this sort of thing is allowed to stand, there would be virtually no limit to the Federal power." Then the Judges issued what amounted to a warning that "the authority of the Federal Government must not be pushed to such an extreme," and they backed up their warning by citing cases which they could use as precedents to stop almost any extension of the Federal power. They did not say they would stop it. They said, in fact, that "our growth and development have called for wide use of the commerce power of the Federal Government in its control over expanded activities of interstate commerce." But they made it very clear that they would not tolerate such extremes as the NRA had gone to.

Then came the President's press conference. In substance, what he said was that if the court went to the extreme, it could, according to the language of some very old precedents, deprive the Government of virtually all power over the national economy. He was, perhaps, thinking of the majority opinion in the railway pension case on May 6, an opinion which the Chief Justice denounced as reactionary in a very emphatic dissenting opinion. He may have been thinking of the extraordinary vehemence of Mr. Justice McReynolds' speech at the time the gold cases were decided. And he may have concluded that if the court was going to warn him not to go to extremes, it was necessary to remind the court not to go to extremes. Their reminder to him that they have precedents to destroy all his policies he matched with a reminder to them that he could appeal to the people on an issue which would greatly impair the authority of the court in the public mind.

What we have witnessed, in other words, is the spectacle of two co-ordinate branches of the Government warning each other not to go to extremes. Since a federal system depends upon not going to extremes, these reciprocal warnings may be regarded as salutary in preserving the effective balance of our federal system.

Those who might be inclined to think that all this is subversive and strange will do well to remember, as Louis Stark has pointed out, that Lincoln in the debates with Douglas repeatedly affirmed the right to discuss and to criticize the Dred Scott decision.

"The sacredness," he said, "which Judge Douglas throws around the decision is a degree of sacredness that has never before been thrown around any other decision. I have never heard of such a thing. Why, decisions apparently contrary to that decision, or that good lawyers thought were contrary to that decision, have been made by that very court before. It is the first of its kind; it is an astonisher in legal history. It is a new wonder of the world."

Lincoln's argument was that while he would, of course, oppose the decision as it affected the slave Dred Scott, he would "resist" the reasoning of the decision "as a political rule" to be followed by the voters, the Congress and the President.

It will be found, I believe, when the smoke clears away, that the court has laid down no political rule which throws us back to "the horse-and-buggy stage" of our national development. This court, as now constituted, will never do that by a unanimous verdict. It is far more likely that Senator Borah estimated the meaning of the decision correctly when he said that the court will find ample powers in the Constitution when Congress and the administration have the patience and the ability to frame a statute that shows some careful thought about what it is intended to do.

SEC and the NRA Upset

From Barron's Financial Weekly.

IN sharp contrast to the questioning attitude of the President at his press conference, officials at the Securities and Exchange Commission are not concerned over the decision of the Supreme Court declaring the NRA unlawful. The consensus is that nothing in the ruling could be used as a basis for determining the constitutionality of either the Securities Act of 1933 or the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, should someone decide to ask the court to pass upon their legality under the Constitution.

The fact that no one to date has attempted to test the constitutionality of either act, in their opinion, is the greatest assurance to the commission that it has in no way exceeded its authority. They also point out that the NRA was created under an emergency measure for only two years, while the SEC is a permanent body, comparable with the Interstate Commerce Commission, and is restricted to one subject, securities markets.

They place particular emphasis on that portion of the decision with reference to the delegation of power to the President. On that point, the ruling said, in part: "Such a sweeping delegation of legislative power finds no support in the decisions upon which the Government especially relies. By the Interstate Commerce Act, Congress has itself provided a code of laws regulating the activities of the common carriers subject to the act, in order to assure the performance of their services upon just and reasonable terms, with adequate facilities and without discrimination."

"That administrative agency, in dealing with particular cases, is required to act upon notice and hearing, and its orders must be supported by findings of fact which in turn are sustained by evidence. When the commission is authorized to issue, for the construction, extension or abandonment of lines, a certificate of 'public convenience and necessity,' or to permit the acquisition by one carrier of the control of another, if that is found to be 'in the public interest,' we have pointed out that these provisions are not left without standards to guide determination."

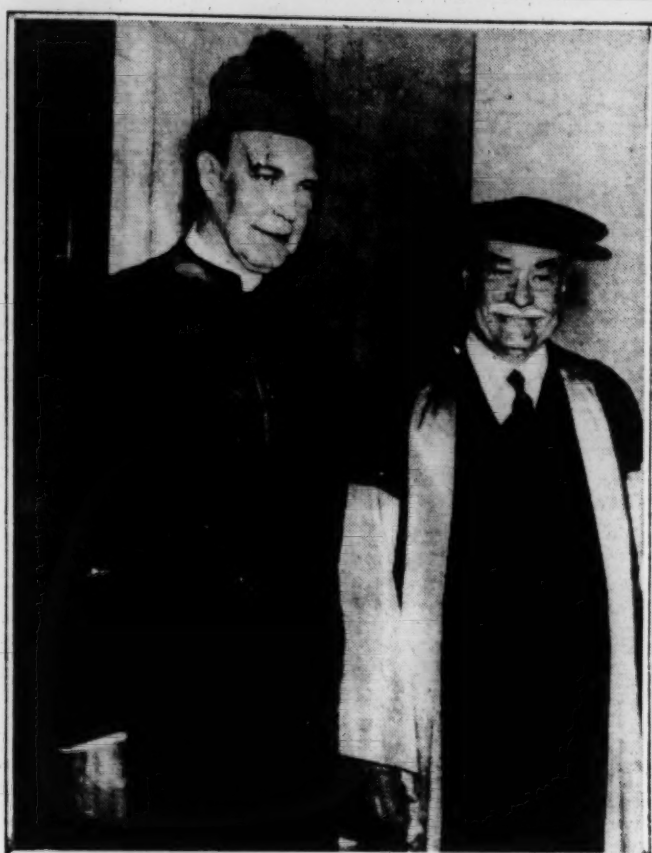

In the instance of the SEC, officials call attention to the analogy between the two bodies, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission. The SEC they assert, is an expert body, created by Congress to administer the laws they have prescribed in the manner which they have provided. In their opinion, the acts establish definite standards for the commission to follow.

The commission does not worry over the question of intrastate and interstate, because if a security is created within a state, sold within the state and remains within the state, they leave it alone. But when the security crosses the state line, thereby establishing interstate commerce, the commission takes charge.

FIVE CRIMINALS OVER 40.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.
"FIVE CRIMINALS over 40," an eminent psychiatrist stated in an address before the national association. "There are numerous obvious reasons. Youth is the adventurous age, lacking the experience to count the cost. The few who enter upon a criminal career after 40 are driven by desperate habits. By the time persons reach that age, habits are controlling. Finally, the mortality rate among criminals is high because of account of their physical risks and their mode of living. Nearly all of them die or are killed or locked up before they get into their thirties."

MARK TWAIN MEMORIAL CLUBWOMEN TO WORK FUND CAMPAIGN OPENS FOR NRA STANDARDS

International Society Seeks $32,000 in Movement to Erect Bronze Statue.

A permanent Mark Twain Memorial in St. Louis is the objective of a $32,000 subscription campaign started by a memorial committee, with headquarters in Room 610 Rialto Building. Isaac A. Hedges is chairman of the committee, of which Gov. Park, Senator Clark and Mayor Dickman are honorary chairmen, and W. L. Gregory is treasurer.

The movement for a memorial was launched by the International Mark Twain Society, of which Cyril Clemens, a great-grandson of the humorist, is president. The question of a site is undetermined. The triangular plot at Sixth and Market streets has been discussed, but a location on Memorial Plaza is also considered. Fletcher R. Harris is chairman of the site committee, with Henry W. Kiel and Elmer Lee Johnson as members.

State to Be Memorial. A bronze statue of Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) will be the memorial. Sculptors now living and working in Missouri will be eligible to compete. First prize will be the commission to design the statue; second award will be $300, and third, $200. The committee to select the winning design consists of Victor S. Holm of Washington, D. C., University School of Fine Arts, Paul Valenti, Louis LaReau, Jesse Henry and C. Edwin Hutchings.

Other members of the memorial committee are Rella Wells, the Rev. Dr. Arnold H. Lowe, J. Lionberger Davis, Arthur E. Bostwick, Henry J. Gerling, Lon O. BUSINESS ASKED TO HELP GRADUATES

George F. Zook, Former Commissioner of Education, Speaks at Missouri U.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 5.—Extended co-operation between educational institutions and business and industry to provide students an opportunity to "learn by doing" was urged here today by George F. Zook, president of the American Council of Education, in a commencement address before the 1935 University of Missouri graduating class.

Seven hundred and thirty graduates students with their parents and friends, heard the former United States Commissioner of Education speak.

"The educational system of this country from the elementary schools to the university," he said, "has had thrust upon it the responsibility of reproducing as far as it is possible the actual conditions of vocational and civic life."

"No greater problem faces the universities and colleges," Zook said, "than setting up co-operative arrangements with industry, agriculture, the professions and community life where young people while they are still in school or college may secure those personal revelations and values which come only out of actual work experience."

Provision of actual jobs for students to work at while they are still in school is the "responsibility of local industry and government," Zook continued.

"Employers should co-operate with school administrators in providing part-time jobs so that students may learn something of the mechanical and human relations requirements of the job."

In France the employer has the option of performing this plain social duty, Zook pointed out, or of paying a special tax for the upkeep of vocational schools.

"Not the Best Medium." University hospitals and dental clinics, engineering college shops, and teacher training institutions, Zook continued, "are not necessarily the best medium for students to secure actual experience toward their life work but until recently it has seemed about the only way."

"Not only do young people want the chance to participate in life as it is being lived in the shop, on the farm or in the profession, but they want that chance ardently."

"To deny that opportunity, to frustrate their fine motives, to refuse consideration relative to the aspirations of youth, to keep women as is now being done to an increasing degree, is not only unfair to the great army of youth but dangerous to the welfare of the whole country."

Doctors Overrule Williams. Dr. Walter Williams, president and dean of the School of Journalism, last night informed the board of curators he planned to appear in person at the commencement exercises. Fearful Dr. Williams' effort might prove fatal because of his illness, the curators called in Dr. Dudley S. Conley, dean of the School of Medicine, and Dr. Dan G. Stine, head of the Student Health Service, for consultation and they went to Dr. Williams' home to plead against his appearance.

Dr. Williams agreed to compromise on delivering his address at the commencement ceremonies by means of a telephone loud speaker hookup from his home.

Seventy-one years old, Dr. Williams is expected to retire as president this summer.

"You will permit me to recall that this is the last class of graduates under my presidency," said Dr. Williams. "As I must quit the stage in a brief moment, permit me to give my sincere and heartfelt benediction and God-speed to the members of the class."

Honorary degrees were bestowed on Judge Arba Seymour Van Valen, Kansas City, and on the United States Circuit Court of Appeals; Henry J. Haskell, editor of the Kansas City Star; Tom K. Smith, president of the Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis; and Edward Everett Wall, director of public utilities for the city of St. Louis.

ELECTION OF CATHOLIC UNION Brother of Bishop Winkelmann Renamed President.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., June 5.—Ernest A. Winkelmann of St. Louis, brother of Bishop Winkelmann, was elected president of the Catholic Union for a fifth term at the conclusion of its three-day convention here yesterday.

Louis A. Gassner of St. Louis was elected president of the young men's division, and Mrs. Theresa Meinert of St. Louis president of the women's division. Resolutions were adopted condemning the alleged persecution of the Catholic Church in Mexico.

Dental Society Election. Dr. C. E. Seibert has been elected president of the St. Louis Dental Society for 1935. Other officers: Dr. L. R. Main, Dr. J. A. Jacobs-meyer and Dr. L. N. Kallenbach, vice-presidents, and Dr. Val H. Frederich, secretary-treasurer. They will be installed next December.

Reginald Denny's Daughter to Wed. HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 5.—The engagement of Barbara Denny, daughter of Reginald Denny, motion picture actor, to Hubert Grayson, son of Lady Mullenbach Grayson of London, was announced by Mrs. Irene Denny here last night.

Miss Denny was studying in Germany when she met Grayson. The wedding probably will take place in October.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made in Boston by Admiral William S. Sims, U. S. N., and Mrs. Sims, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Anne Hitchcock Sims, to Elting E. Morison, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Abbott Morison, Peterboro, N. H., and Milwaukee. The news is of much interest here. Mrs. Sims, for whom her daughter was named, lived here until her marriage. She is a sister of Mrs. John F. Shepley, 4540 Lindell boulevard, and a first cousin of Judge George C. Hitchcock, 5363 Waterman avenue. Miss Margaret Shepley, Ethan Allen Hitchcock Shepley and John Rutledge Shepley are her niece and nephews.

Miss Sims is also a niece of Mrs. James Caverly Newlin of Haverford, Pa., where her father's family lives. She is a graduate of the Masters School, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and was introduced to society in 1932. At present she is a student at Radcliffe College. She is a member of the Junior League and Varsity Club of Boston. Admiral and Mrs. Sims and their family have spent the past few winters in Newport, R. I., where the wedding will take place early this summer.

Mr. Morison is a graduate of the Loomis Institute and from Harvard, class of 1932, and is a master of St. Mark's School, Southboro, Mass. He is a member of the Signet Club.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Margaret Halliwell Condie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Douglas Condie of Kinghurst, Ferguson, and Samuel Taylor Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harper Woods of Webster Groves. The betrothal was made known at a tea given by Miss Condie at her parents' home yesterday in honor of Mrs. Nathaniel Dyke Jr. of Fort Smith, Ark., formerly Miss Frances Crandall of Los Angeles, Cal., and a classmate of Miss Condie at an Eastern school.

Miss Condie is a graduate of Hosmer Hall and Pine Manor, Wellesley, Mass. She traveled extensively in Europe and on her return attended the St. Louis School of Fine Arts. She was a maid of honor at the Velled Prophet hall several years ago and is a member of the Junior League.

Mr. Woods attended Washington University and is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. No date has been set for the wedding but it will take place in the fall.

Miss Virginia Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. McCune, 37 Kingsbury place, will remain in the East for the marriage of her cousin, Cyrus H. Loutrel Jr., and Miss Helen Loraine Vail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Loutrel of East Orange, N. J. The ceremony will take place Friday, June 14, at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at the bride's home and will be followed by a reception.

Miss Vail attended Mlle. Fontaine's School in Cannes, France, and is a member of the Junior League. Her great-grandfather founded Robert College in Istanbul and her great-uncle founded Blair Academy. Mr. Loutrel, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Loutrel of South Orange, N. J., is a graduate of Deerfield Academy in Deerfield, Mass., and attended Union College. He is a member of Alpha Delta Phi fraternity. He is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. McCune of St. Louis. At the wedding of his sister, the former Miss Harriet Loutrel, and Gordon Zug, April 26, Miss McCune was a bridesmaid. She has been in the East since then, visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher C. Baldwin of New York. She will probably return to St. Louis immediately after the wedding and will remain here until she goes with her family to open their summer home in Westport, Mich., about the first of July.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Clark, 4955 Pershing avenue, and their niece, Miss Martha Love, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Love, 44 Westmoreland place, will sail today aboard the California from New York to spend the summer in Ireland and England.

HAS LEADING ROLE

MISS JEANNE BUTLER, DAUGHTER OF Mrs. Thomas B. Butler, 6204 Waterman avenue, who will play the leading part in "Nothing But the Truth," to be presented at the Little Theater tonight and tomorrow night by the dramatic society of St. Roch's Church.

Miss Ruth Gruner and her sister, Miss Anne Gruner, will go to the Gruner summer home at Point Lookout on Saginaw Bay, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Gruner will join them later.

Miss Jane Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Jordan of Mayton and McKnight roads, will wear Kate Greenway frocks, one pink and one blue, to match the taffeta of the bridesmaids' gowns. Their dresses are made with full skirts which sweep the floor, square necks, and a high waistline marked with wide fringed sashes. In their hair they will wear garlands of sweetheart rosebuds and they will carry formal bouquets of corn flowers and pink roses.

The bride's mother will be gowned in pastel rose satin, with which she will wear a shoulder corsage of lavender orchids. Mrs. Peper will wear a blue net gown and a corsage of violets, and Mrs. Baird will be attired in black lace. Her flowers will be lavender orchids.

Mr. Peper will be attended by Lawrence Chappell Kingsland Jr., brother of the bride, as best man. His other attendants will be John Coleman Boyd and Robert Chenault Kingsland, younger brother of the bride.

The bride and bridegroom will kneel at an improvised altar of white satin set before the fireplace in the living room of the home. White seasonal flowers and greenery will conceal the mantel and form a backdrop for the altar which will be lighted by cathedral pinks in tall stands.

Pink roses and candles will decorate the table in the dining room where the wedding cake will be served at the reception which will follow the ceremony.

Among the guests who have come from out of town for the wedding are Mrs. Charlton Rogers of Nashville, Tenn., sister of Mrs. Kingsland, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Richardson of Chicago, whose small daughter is in the wedding party.

Mr. Peper and his bride will depart on a short honeymoon to an unannounced destination but will return in time for him to be graduated Tuesday from Washington University Law School with high honors. After that they plan an extended wedding trip. The bride comes of a family, which on her father's side, dates back to early colonial days in New York and Philadelphia. Through her mother she is related to an old French family from Kentucky and Tennessee. She is a graduate of Mary Institute, class of 1927, and for a year attended Washington University where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She was graduated from Radcliffe College in 1932.

Mr. Peper's family has long been prominent in St. Louis. He is named for his great grandfather. He received his A. B. degree at Harvard in 1922 and at Washington University was admitted to Phi Delta Phi, honorary legal fraternity. He plans to practice law in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Gruner, 3 Aberdeen place, with their daughter, Miss Ruth Gruner, drove to Annapolis, Md., to attend the commencement exercises at the United States Naval Academy, where their son, Philip W. Gruner Jr., will be graduated.

Miss Ruth Gruner will be graduated this month from John Burroughs School which her brother, Charles, also attended. Next fall she will enter Mills College, Oakland, Cal., having received a trustees' scholarship. After a short visit in the East

DIAMOND JUBILEE CELEBRATED AT AUGUSTANA COMMENCEMENT

70 Graduates and 12 of Theological Seminary Receive Degrees at School in Rock Island.

By the Associated Press. ROCK ISLAND, Ill., June 5.—Seventy graduates of Augustana College and 12 of the Theological Seminary yesterday received degrees at the seventy-fifth commencement exercises with Dr. Gustav Andreen, president of the institution, presiding.

Honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws were conferred upon President T. H. McMichael of Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., and L. M. Larson, University of Illinois. The Doctor of Divinity degree was conferred on the Rev. J. A. Benander, Rockford, Ill.

The college exercises were held in connection with the diamond jubilee of Augustana College and Theological Seminary and of the Lutheran Augustana Synod which controls the institution. In his commencement address Dr. Charles M. Jacobs, president of Mount Airy Lutheran Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, made a plea for a Christian philosophy of life as the only solution of the ills of mankind. Dr. Howard Hanson, director of the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y., received an honorary doctor of music degree at the exercises yesterday.

ANTI-NAZI PASTORS DISCUSS PLACING ISSUE BEFORE WORLD Synodical Meeting at Augsburg Charges Government Persecutes

AUGSBURG, Germany, June 5.—A synodical meeting of opposition pastors of the German Evangelical Church considered last night where it should place before the world its charge that their church is Government-persecuted.

During the conflict with the Nazis hundreds of pastors have been arrested and sent to concentration camps or denounced for their demands for religious freedom. An announcement that all pastors in concentration camps had been released was received skeptically by the 170 accredited delegates to the synod and 1700 members of Augsburg Protestant congregations attending the sessions here.

Dr. George N. Gaboury Dies. SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 5.—Dr. George N. Gaboury, who had an international reputation as a mathematician and physicist, died at his home here yesterday at the age of 54. A practicing physician, he made a hobby of the study of mathematics and physics and was the author of several textbooks on the subjects.

● Come out to Glacier National Park this summer and see the Rockies at their mightiest. Sightseeing motors under government supervision now take you over new highways to wonder places hitherto inaccessible. Splendid big hotels and invitingly snug chalets cater to your modern needs.

And you adventurous ones. Recall that many of Glacier's mountain peaks remain without even names. Much of its area is virtually untrod. A challenge to your pioneering spirit. Your chance to experience the explorer's stirring joys by going horseback or afoot over the switch-back trails up to the living glaciers; up to the haunts of the mountain goat. There's a million miles of free climbing for those who want to tackle it. And some of the finest trout fishing in the world.

The rail fare from St. Louis is only $50.10 for a round trip ticket good 16 days. Expenses for meals and lodging in the park, for motor transportation or the use of a good horse, are very modest. Hundreds of Glacier visitors with stout legs and carefree hearts hit the trail afoot. Your rail ticket can be routed through Colorado including Denver and Colorado Springs (and alongside the Black Hills of South Dakota) at no additional fare. Transportation to Yellowstone Park included for only $2.15 more.

Air-conditioned trains GO BURLINGTON to Glacier Park swiftly, economically and safely—and this year with the added luxury of completely air-conditioned equipment.

Whether you travel independently or prefer to join a congenial group on an all-expense Excorted Tour, "Go Burlington" for the best travel value.

LOWDEN TO SPEAK AT G. O. P. RALLY, TALKS TO HOOVER

Ex-President's Former Rival Chosen to Address "Grass Roots" Convention at Springfield.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, who has been in virtual political retirement for several years, had a talk with former President Hoover yesterday and went to work today on his address to be delivered at Springfield, Ill., Monday before the Republican "grass roots" convention.

The announcement of Lowden's selection as the principal speaker at the Springfield rally followed Hoover's visit to Lowden's estate, Hoover's Farm, at Oregon, Ill. In Chicago, Hoover issued a statement saying Mr. Lowden and I discussed the effect on the future of America of the administration proposals to change the United States to a European form of government.

The former President put aside questions about Fascism with the remark "I won't go into that." He also said he had no plans for next year.

Lowden said he and Hoover discussed the proposed changes in the form of the American Government and the changes emanating from Washington and regarded them as a major issue of the 1936 presidential campaign.

Lowden, who was Hoover's principal rival in the pre-convention campaign in 1928, invited the former President to visit him and in an interview that the "change of government" charges would be a major issue in the next presidential campaign.

Asked whether his address would concern the NRA, the AAA and other New Deal agencies, Lowden said he had not had sufficient time to outline his speech. "Of course," he added, "I will talk on the Constitution."

Lowden withdrew his candidacy at the 1928 Republican convention in Kansas City, disappointed because the party platform failed to approve the farm equalization fee plan. Despite his withdrawal, he received the second largest vote for the presidential nomination, although Hoover was named on the first ballot.

During the Hoover administration, Lowden refrained from open criticism, but was known to hold the view that the Hoover farm policy was headed in the wrong direction.

Republicans in charge of the "grass roots" rally have emphasized that no candidates are to be considered and that potential candidates are not wanted.

Justice Johnson, Illinois State chairman, said, "The conference aims to get a cross section of opinion among the midwest range and for of the party. The whole effort of the campaign to the Lincoln shrine will be directed to the matter of national questions and issues. Republicans from nine states will attend."

Republicans Putting Up Political Rhetoric, Speaker Byrns Says.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Commenting on former President Hoover's statement in Chicago, Speaker Joseph W. Byrns said last night: "There is no proposed change in the form of Government. Of course they (the Republicans) are trying to put up this political rhetoric for which they have been railing around since the election."

BODIES OF 114 FLOOD VICTIMS ARE IDENTIFIED IN MEXICO

Others May Never Be Found; Death Toll Put at 400 in Official Estimates.

MEXICO, D. F., June 5.—The bodies of 114 victims of the floods which swept down on the nearby village of San Pedro and surrounding communities have been identified.

Searchers turned to the mud-encrusted wreckage in the hope of recovering additional bodies, but officials said there was little prospect that the exact number of persons who perished in Monday's disaster ever would be known.

Many bodies were taken from the ruins of San Pedro's church, where the greatest death toll occurred, and buried before the official check was begun. Others were thought to have been covered so deeply with debris and mud that they never can be found.

Official estimates placed the number of dead at 400.

President Cardenas visited the stricken area and ordered that provision be made for the widowed and orphaned survivors of the disaster. Diplomats of Central American countries and Colombia opened a fund to aid the inhabitants of the flooded villages, most of whom are Indians.

"The NRA code very effectively took care of the situation in the live poultry industry," Cannon said, "but since the Supreme Court's decision, racketeering now is worse than ever."

Cannon introduced a similar bill before the NRA live poultry code was formed. He abandoned it, he said, because the code corrected the evils at which his measure was directed. The Department of Agriculture approved the original Cannon bill.

Gale Blows Down Circus Tent

DETROIT, Mich., June 5.—A 35-mile gale which lasted only 10 minutes and dropped temperatures 17 degrees in that time, blew down the big top of the Curtis Fashion Plate Circus here yesterday. Several hundred women and children escaped from the tent before it collapsed. The wind, which blew over trees and wrecked small buildings about the city, was accompanied by a heavy rain which turned the Detroit race track into a quagmire.

When athletes agree upon one cigarette, its mildness is placed beyond question. For they must be sure about mildness!

Pete Desjardins says: "Camels are so mild that I can smoke as many as I like and still keep my wind in perfect condition."

Pepper Martin, fleet-footed St. Louis Cardinal, says: "Camels are mild—don't cut down on my speed or wind." And Pepper is backed by Leo Sexton, Olympic shot-put record holder; Craig Wood, the golf star; Reggie McNamara, the "bike" racer;

Susan Vilas, of swimming fame—to name only a few of the outstanding athletes who say they smoke Camels all they please, without disturbing their wind or nerves.

More enjoyment for you in this mild cigarette!

You'll find you can smoke Camels all you want! They are gentle on the throat. And athletes say that Camel's costlier tobaccos don't tire their taste—don't upset their nerves or get their "wind."

YOU'LL LIKE THEIR MILDNESS TOO!

IT'S JUST AS IMPORTANT TO YOU to keep "in condition" as it is to any champion. Smoke Camels all you wish. Athletes say Camels never upset the nerves, never get the wind.

SO MILD! YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT!

SECOND TRIP INTO TANK CAR COSTS ILLINOIS YOUTH HIS LIFE

Clyde McKinnis, 23, at Duquoin, Expressed Knowledge of Danger From Fumes.

DUQUOIN, Ill., June 5.—A second trip Sunday into a railroad tank car to obtain gasoline for his automobile was fatal to Clyde McKinnis, 23 years old. The youth was overcome by fumes.

McKinnis entered the tank car, which was standing in the north yard here, twice Sunday through the ventilator. His first trip was successful, but he told bystanders the fumes from the gasoline were very strong and "he had no business going down again."

He did, however, and was overcome and fell to the bottom of the car. James Mitchell, an employee of a local gasoline company, entered the car and brought the youth out. A rescue squad worked over him for an hour without avail.

Miss Feder obtained her A. B. degree from Mount Holyoke College in 1917. Dr. James Rowland Angell, president of Yale University, delivered the commencement address to nearly 100 graduates.

8562 FEWER FAMILIES ON RELIEF IN MISSOURI

5.9 Pct. Decrease in State While Drop for Nation Was 3.6
Pct. in March.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 5.—The number of Missouri families receiving relief decreased from 144,407 to 135,845, or 5.9 per cent, from March to April, according to figures released by Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins. Obligations incurred for emergency relief in Missouri dropped from $4,810,188 to $4,578,744, or 4.8 per cent.

In both respects, the Missouri figures were more favorable than for those for the nation as a whole. The decrease for the nation in the number of families on relief was 3.6 per cent, while obligations incurred increased seven-tenths of 1 per cent.

8 CATALAN REBEL LEADERS GET 30-YEAR PRISON TERMS

Luis Companys and Aids Sentenced for Insurrection That Cost Several Hundred Lives.

By the Associated Press.
MADRID, June 5.—Spain's highest court, sitting in its full strength of 21 members, voted life terms today for Luis Companys and his seven Ministers as a penalty for their attempt last Oct. 6 to set up an independent Federal State in Catalonia. Under the new Spanish penal code, a life term means 30 years of imprisonment.

Juan Dencas, former Minister of the Interior of Catalonia, fled to France following the insurrection and was convicted by default. Companys, the former President of the State of Catalonia, was arrested by loyal Government forces which put down the insurrection in which several hundred persons were killed.

Father of Kidnaped Boy Made Two Trips With $200,000 Ransom, First One a Test by Abductors

Weyerhaeuser in Delivering Money Was Directed From Spot to Spot by Three Notes, Then Forced to Give Up Auto.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TACOMA, Wash., June 5.—John P. Weyerhaeuser, bearing a suitcase filled with $200,000 in ransom currency, had to meet a heart-breaking test before the kidnapers of his nine-year-old son would trust him and release the boy.

Following their instructions, he found two signal notes on roadside posts, then drove to a third designated place. He stepped from his car and searched in vain for a third signal, the third note that might possibly be the instrument by which the child would be returned.

The father passed several hours retracing his steps, in a frantic search for the note that might lead him to his son, George. Daylight came and Weyerhaeuser started home, his mind filled with tragic conjectures.

He entered his home. He didn't have to tell his young wife, Helen, she read the answer in his red-rimmed eyes. The parents felt they had been betrayed. They didn't want to believe that which they feared. And that was—the kidnapers were unable to return George.

Early the following evening a telephone call came to the Weyerhaeuser home on the hill overlooking Puget Sound. A throaty voice asked:

"Mr. Weyerhaeuser?" The father answered "Yes." "We watched you last night and you did fine," the voice went on. "Have you my boy—is he all right?" "Yes—we have him—and he's fine."

Weyerhaeuser pleaded: "Then why didn't you let me have the third message for me last night? You haven't done anything to him? Please take care of him, for God's sake."

The kidnaper explained: "He's all right."

"You're not double-crossing us?" "No. Last night we wanted to make sure that you weren't being followed. You did just right. That's why we didn't leave the third note."

And there over the telephone arrangements were made for the father to look again for the series of three notes that would tell him the child could be recovered.

Starts Out Second Time.
Early Friday night, Weyerhaeuser using the Pontiac sedan of F. Rodman Titcomb, his brother-in-law, as had been ordered—drove away from his home. On the back seat of the car was the suitcase containing ransom. He drove in the direction of Seattle, using back roads specified by the kidnappers. Along the seldom-traveled lanes, routes over which loads of liquor moved during prohibition days.

FIVE BOYS ESCAPE FROM ST. CLAIR DETENTION HOME

They Break Through Wall to Get Out; Were to Go to St. Charles (Ill.) School.

Five boys, three of them Negroes, escaped late yesterday afternoon from the St. Clair County Detention Home in Belleville, where they were being held awaiting transportation to the St. Charles School for Boys at St. Charles, Ill.

According to John Lubus, superintendent of the home, the boys made their escape by breaking through a plaster wall into an empty room and then forcing a lock on a door leading to the fire escape. They had changed into their street clothes and some took with them the overalls and blue shirt given them at the home.

BILL TO LEGALIZE BARS

Illinois Senate Passes Measure to Allow Use for Drinking.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 5.—A bill to legalize bars for drinking as well as serving was passed by the Senate yesterday. Bars, except for service, were forbidden in the State Liquor Control Act adopted a year ago last February. The prohibition, according to Senator Harold G. Ward of Chicago, failed in its purpose and "bars are everywhere in use."

About 100 members of the Young Democratic Club of St. Louis, headed by Alfred Fleischman, president, will attend the rally.

GEORGE H. MOORE TO TAKE U. S. JUDGESHIP TOMORROW

F. A. Thompson to Be Chief Speaker at Installation Ceremony in Federal Building.

United States Judge Charles B. Davis will administer the oath when George H. Moore is sworn in at 10 a. m. tomorrow as United States Judge for the Eastern District of Missouri, it was announced today. Frank A. Thompson, special assistant to the Attorney-General of the United States and former Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, will deliver the chief address.

The installation ceremonies will take place in Courtroom No. 1, in the southeast corner of the third floor of the Federal Building. Moore will succeed Judge Charles B. Davis, who was elevated to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Speeches limited to three minutes each will be made by these attorneys: Roscoe Anderson, Probate Judge Glendy B. Arnold, Harry C. Barker, Jesse W. Barrett, United States Attorney Harry Blanton, Judge John H. Bradley of Jefferson City, Robert B. Caldwell of Kansas City, Clarence T. Case, Boyle G. Clark of Columbia, Mo., James F. Conran, State Senator Russell S. Dearmont of Cape Girardeau, Circuit Judge James Douglas, Irvin H. Gamble, Ben E. Hulse of Jefferson City, William T. Jones, John S. Leahy, Charles P. Williams, Sam B. Jeffries and Ernest Green.

Judge Moore will respond, and an informal reception then will be held in the courtroom. There will be no docket tomorrow. Because of a report that Moore would be installed today, flowers were delivered to the courtroom but were sent back to florists for redelivery tomorrow.

RAIL LINE PERMIT REFUSED

I. C. C. Won't Approve New Road Across Missouri.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 5.—Because the territory through which it would run is served by existing railroads, the examiner, C. P. Howard, recommended to the Interstate Commerce Commission today that it refuse the St. Louis-Kansas City Short Line Railroad Co. a permit to construct a railroad across Missouri.

The company asked for permission to build a 236-mile line which would be considerably shorter than the existing route operating between the two cities.

Howard said also the company had not submitted a balance sheet showing its assets available or actual. The company admits, he said, that funds to complete the financing are not available from the general money market, but that it hopes to finance construction of the road by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to be secured by bonds which it would issue.

Motorman Stabbed, Accuses Negro.
John Cravens, 45-year-old street car motorman, was taken to City Hospital last night suffering from a stab wound of the abdomen, which he said was suffered in a fight with a Negro at Illinois avenue and Miami street. Police arrested Wade Frierson, 46-year-old Negro, 3223A Franklin avenue, who admitted the stabbing. Both men said they argued over a trivial matter. Cravens resides at 4001 South Broadway.

EDITH M'CORMICK HEIRS SUE Creditors Threaten to Foreclose on Chicago House.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Foreclosure on the home of Edith Rockefeller McCormick was threatened in a suit filed in Circuit Court yesterday by creditors.

Defendants in the suit, brought by the Metropolitan Trust Co. holders of a $500,000 trust deed, were Fowler and Fifi Stillman McCormick; Muriel McCormick Hubbard and her husband Elisha Dyer Hubbard; Matilde McCormick Oser and her husband, Max Oser; Edwin D. Krenn; Edward Dato and his wife, Minnie Noon Dato. The petition charged that there was $100,000 in delinquent taxes and penalties owing and asked the court to order the defendants to pay that amount.

GROUP DEMANDS GOV. HORNER ACT IN POWER STRIKE

250 Business Men and Officials From 50 Illinois Towns Call on Him at Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 5.—Protesting against the disruption of power and gas service in more than 50 Illinois communities, 250 business men and town officials marched around the State House here yesterday and presented a demand to Gov. Horner for definite action to settle the strike of the Illinois Power and Light Co. electricians. They also asked for immediate restoration of service, disrupted since the strike began April 2.

Gov. Horner told the delegation that service could be restored if public sentiment would demand that Mayor and Sheriffs furnish protection for repair crews.

Three of four points unsettled. He said that utility and labor officials have almost finished their negotiations with three of four points unsettled. The conferees, representing the company and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, have been negotiating for two weeks.

"I am willing to do anything possible to help you," the Governor told the delegation, "but there is no law which permits the chief executive to step in and compel arbitration."

The Illinois Commerce Commission had ordered restoration of service by the company, which could not comply because workers, hired to replace strikers, were not given police protection, Gov. Horner said.

"It is up to you people to support your Mayors, police and Sheriffs and see that vandalism is stopped and workers protected."

Town Officials' Explanation. Town officials have said they refused to give police protection to the newly-hired workers for fear such a step would precipitate violence with the strikers.

Spokesmen for the delegation, led by Mayor M. E. Kirkpatrick of Granite City, told Gov. Horner that the strike was crippling industry and retail business in their towns, had thrown about $600 or more persons out of work, and that 200,000 persons were without power conveniences in their homes. Flood conditions threatened and public health was menaced because of the power shut-down, they complained.

Badges worn by the delegates said: "We Want Lights."

Answering the demand of the delegates for strike settlement, Gov. Horner said: "Only a compulsory arbitration law, which we do not have, would give me power to force a settlement. I do believe if your representative sponsored it, the General Assembly would pass any such legislation asked to help in this situation."

State Representative Schaefer of Alton suggested that if service was not restored within a few days the delegation would consider a move to petition for a receiver for the company.

After the conference with the Governor, a committee, headed by Harry Anderson, president of the Granite City Commercial Club, was chosen to confer with utility and labor officers. Anderson said they were assured that a strike settlement would be reached shortly. He said that if negotiations failed and power was not restored by Friday, a committee would be chosen to apply for a receiver through shareholders so that service might be resumed under court action.

Hopeful of Settlement. In a circular letter sent to companies yesterday, John H. Mitchell of East St. Louis, district manager of the power company, said that "all parties" in the Springfield strike settlement conference "fully expect that from the negotiations a plan will result whereby service will be restored."

He characterized as "an absolute falsehood" a charge made recently at a Belleville meeting of town officials that the company was refusing to settle the strike so as to force itself into reorganization or liquidation and thereby avoid full financial responsibility to small shareholders. He pointed out that the area affected by the strike is only a small portion of the Illinois territory served by the company.

The strike began in the Central Illinois District of the company with an attempt to organize the employees there into the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Negotiations with the Utility Operators' Association, which had employed workers in the Central District, failed, and 132 electricians in the Southern District, working under a closed shop contract, joined in the strike. Gas mains have been broken, transmission lines disabled, and poles topped with dynamite.

Found Wounded, Pistol Nearby. John Buchanan, a night watchman, in serious condition at City Hospital with a bullet wound of the head suffered yesterday afternoon at his home, 432 Page boulevard. Buchanan, a widower, was found unconscious in his bedroom by his mother, Mrs. Clara Buchanan, with whom he made his home. His revolver was on the floor nearby. Relatives think the murder was discharged accidentally.

20 CATHOLIC EDITORS FIRED BILL TO PROTECT SOURCES OF REPORTERS INFORMATION

Had Asked for Objective Attitude Trial of Nuns by Nazis. BERLIN, June 5.—Twenty Catholic editors, including those of the publications Germania and the Maerkische Volkszeitung, lost their jobs today for requesting an objective attitude in the trial of monks and nuns charged with violation of the foreign exchange laws.

These editors commented on or reprinted a statement by the German senior Catholic Cardinal, Adolf Bertram. The churchman observed that: "The church also disapproves of violations of the foreign exchange laws. It is regrettable, however, that the violations often gave rise to attacks against the church. It must remain for a later period to pronounce a quiet dispassionate judgment over the violations in their entirety."

MARTIN PROMISES TO CUT ILLINOIS RELIEF COSTS

New Head of Emergency Commission Says Case Loads Will Be Rigidly Controlled.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Reductions in relief expenditures and the cost of running the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission were promised Monday by John C. Martin, new IERG chairman. In a formal statement, Martin said:

"It is encouraging to note that we are able at present to look forward to definite reductions in the State's relief load which will be accompanied by proportionate reductions in relief costs."

"We are acutely conscious of our responsibilities to the people of Illinois and will take advantage of every opportunity that presents itself to reduce the costs of relief by rigid control over case loads and by maintaining an efficient administrative setup which can be adjusted to meet changing conditions." All county relief offices, Martin said, were under scrutiny for possible economies.

FAIR TRADE BILL INDORSED

Illinois Liquor Men Think State Act Will Serve in Lieu of NRA.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Representatives of the liquor industry indorsed the Fair Trade Practice Act now pending in the Illinois Legislature when they met yesterday at a conference of the Illinois Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association.

"We feel that in view of the Supreme Court's code decision," said Joseph Triner, president of the association, "it behooves us engaged in the liquor industry in this State to take the necessary steps to protect the industry. It is our opinion that the fair trade practice act will accomplish what the Supreme Court did away with."

HITCH-HIKING SOLDIER GETS WEST POINT APPOINTMENT

Private From Aurora, Mo., Passed Examination After Trip From Kansas to Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The soldiers at Fort Riley, Kan., laughed when Private Charles E. Oglesby told them he was going to hitch-hike to Washington to get an appointment to West Point.

Oglesby is back at Fort Riley, via the hitch-hiking route, but the boys aren't laughing at him now. In a few days he'll start packing up to leave for West Point, where he'll become Cadet Oglesby on July 1.

Representative Short (Rep.), Missouri, heard his plea and gave him one of the additional West Point appointments Congress approved for each Congressman to boost the army's officer strength. Oglesby, passed the mental and physical examination. Oglesby, now 20 years old, joined the army when he finished High School at Aurora, Mo.

NEW TEACHING IDEAS AT SCHOOL RUN BY TVA

Pupils at Norris Relate Studies to Practical Problems; Attendance Voluntary.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Government school at Norris, Tenn., where TVA is putting to test new social theories, is completing its first year.

There will be no failures among the 318 students. No one will have to retrace a whole grade next fall because he failed to make passing marks this year. Each student will simply progress from the point at which he stopped.

No pupil was scolded during the year for being absent, and no one was "kept after school." Attendance was completely voluntary, but the attendance record was 93 per cent.

There are no stiff rows of classroom seats with the teacher on a raised dais. The children pull their combination desk-chairs into groups and the teachers sit among them.

When a child is ill he is away from school. He is told he may give his gold or fever to someone else, so he stays home to protect his schoolmates.

Morgan Explains Theory. The theory of the new teaching system at Norris was stated by Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the TVA board, as follows:

"Education ought to be a process of getting acquainted with the world we live in. Instead, it has become book learning largely unassociated with living."

So the Norris school stresses living, and in learning to live, the students "learn to learn." For instance, they were given a four-acre tract to develop as a farm. They issued 500 stocks and bonds at 10 cents apiece under the guidance of the social science teacher, who taught them business organization.

The bonds are to pay 3 per cent interest, so a selling and advertising campaign was organized. In writing the advertisements the children turned for help to the English teacher who told them about letter writing, sentence structure and punctuation.

When it came to planting the four acres the science teacher advised on fertilizer, seed beds and the care of plants.

The young accountants who keep the records of the 50 they raised on the bond issue are learning practical mathematics from the "math" teacher.

School Weather Forecasts. In the High School the students are competing with the nearby Government weather station by making their own weather forecasts. In order to make them the children study physical geography, astronomy, barometric pressure, rainfall and temperatures with the aid of the science teacher.

Boys and girls in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades give instruction for the homes they plan to own some day.

Both boys and girls study cooking, and both boys and girls are taught auto repairs, woodwork and electricity.

The students are housed in a new brick building which includes an auditorium, music room and library.

Their eyes are protected by a photo-electric unit which automatically turns on lights when the daylight falls below a certain standard. Heating is done by electricity, and an air-moistening system prevents extreme dryness.

As school closes only the teaching staff will know what the office record says about the student. The parents will receive letters, as they have occasionally during the year, telling them in what subjects their children are doing well, and in which they need some help.

FRENCH SENATOR ON TRIAL FOR GOING TO STAVISKY'S AID

Rene Renoult, Former Minister of Justice, Accused of Selling Political Influence.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 5.—Senator Rene Renoult, a former Minister of Justice, went on trial today charged with selling his influence to keep the late Sarge Stavisky out of jail. Once the head of all France's legal machinery, Renoult is the first important political figure to go on trial as a result of the fall of Stavisky's Bayonne municipal pawnshop.

Renoult is conducting his own defense, with the aid of three other attorneys. He is accused of accepting 50,000 francs (about $3200) from Henri Hayotte, a friend of Stavisky, to intervene in the latter's behalf. Evidence was offered before the Chamber of Deputies investigating committee that he subsequently attempted unsuccessfully to persuade the Public Prosecutor to drop charges against Stavisky growing out of an alleged 1,146,000-franc swindle in 1926.

Renoult contends he acted merely as Stavisky's attorney and had not been retained until after he left the Cabinet of former Premier Aristide Briand. The prosecution insists, however, that he endeavored to use his political influence to "obtain an unjustified favor."

PIQUA, O., LEGION POST EXPELS PASTOR AS PACIFIST

Minister Who Served in Aviation Corps in War Tried by Jury of Members.

By the Associated Press.

PIQUA, O., June 5.—Expulsion of the Rev. R. H. Satterfield, pastor of First Baptist Church, from Paul Schnell Post No. 184, American Legion, "pacifist activities" was disclosed last night.

Walter Albough of Troy, who presided at a trial by a jury of post members, said the pastor was found guilty of encouraging "So-called peace" and "Spanish-American War demonstration," that he admitted being a pacifist, and that in a speech before the Piqua Rotary Club he said that he would rather drop bombs on munitions factories than on other countries in "another war."

"The whole issue," Albough said, "was his idea of principles of peace contrasting with those of the American Legion. After it was over he said he felt relieved because he had been carrying weight on both shoulders and now he could preach freely. He said he would not appeal to state headquarters."

The Rev. Mr. Satterfield, who served in the aviation corps in the World War, pleaded his own case at the trial, which lasted six hours. The pastor was a leader in the recent recall movement against the Commission form of government after City Manager L. G. Whisney had been ousted.

Fred L. Kerth Realty Co., Sued Over Sale of Farms. Woman and Daughter Sued $23,000 Damages in Deal Involving Conway Road Tract.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Mrs. Emelie K. Raucher and her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Langewich, against the Fred L. Kerth Realty Co., which represented them in the sale of a 52-acre tract on Conway road, St. Louis county, to Sydney M. Shoenberg, broker.

The suit asked $13,200 actual and $10,000 punitive damages from the realty firm and two of its salesmen, E. L. Bruns and Walter Eberwerth. Mrs. Raucher and her daughter stated that their property was worth $40,000, but they received only $17,900 cash and a 60-acre farm, St. Louis county, which Shoenberg paid out $32,500 for, of which $5500 went to Mrs. Amelia Schirmer, owner of the 65-acre tract involved in the transaction. The remaining $6045 was spent for commissions, taxes and incidental expenses. The value of the 65 acres is a point the court is asked to decide.

Fred L. Kerth, head of the real estate firm, declined to comment until he had studied the petition.

SIR JOSIAH STAMP ADVOCATES GOLD STANDARD FOR RECOVERY

British Economist Says It Must Be International, but U. S. Is Not Ready to Stabilize.

DETROIT, Mich., June 5.—Sir Josiah Stamp, British economist, said in an address here yesterday that an international standard of value "based on gold" is the framework on which to fashion world recovery.

"Great Britain," he said, "is ready to stabilize but you over here must put your own house in order. There is the question, 'Is the dollar out of business?' The answer most decidedly is 'No.'"

Sir Josiah, who has been in the United States two months "getting a student's background of the New Deal," explained that the picture had been impossible to do complete justice to it.

"I came over here this time," he said, "to study the Blue Eagle feather by feather. There was a tapping of wings and they showed me a chicken carte."

GRAIN PRICES

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE. June 5.—Grain futures moved over a narrow course today, wheat closing 1/4¢ lower and corn as much higher.

The failure of Liverpool to adequately respond to American upturn of previous day exerted influence. Winnipeg soon lost a shade better opening. The close was 1/2¢ net lower. Liverpool came unchanged to 1/2 higher in one cable after 1/4¢ higher start. The close was 1/4¢ net lower.

Wheat closes easy, corn unchanged to 1-8¢ higher. By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Prospects that the 1935 United States wheat harvest will be in excess of demand requirements do much to ease grain markets today.

Some wheat dealers' price statements by a trade authority that with a reduced supply of livestock and likelihood of average or better feed crops, it is probably decidedly less wheat will be needed to feed the country than was expected.

Wheat closed easy at the same as yesterday's finish but higher, 82 1/2¢. Corn unchanged to 1/4¢ higher, 82 1/2¢. Oats unchanged to 1/4¢ higher, 40 1/2¢. Rye unchanged to 1/4¢ higher, 40 1/2¢. Barley unchanged to 1/4¢ higher, 40 1/2¢.

Open grain interest. In grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade: Wheat, 23,640 contracts; corn, 22,420; oats, 22,420; rye, 22,420; barley, 22,420. Total, 114,500 contracts.

TWO TEXAS STUDENTS DIE OF WOOD ALCOHOL

13 Others Ill at Sherman — Youths Broke Into College Laboratory.

By the Associated Press
SHERMAN, Tex., June 5. — Two Austin College students are dead and 13 others are ill as a result of drinking wood alcohol taken from a school laboratory.

Durwood Newman, 19 years old, and James Garrett, 20, roommates of Athens, Tex., died yesterday.
Dr. E. B. Tucker, president of the college, said a group of students had admitted breaking into the chemistry building Sunday night and taking a quantity of methyl alcohol.

Physicians said they could have saved the lives of both boys had they known the nature of their illness. The stricken youths insisted food—not wood alcohol—was responsible.

Authorities said other students, whose names were not divulged, had been treated on the possibility they had partaken of the alcohol.
The Board of Regents, convening in annual session, promptly investigated the tragedy.

Newman and Garrett were sophomore and had played on freshman football and basketball teams last season. They became ill before the supper hour last night.

Their roommate, Wallace Johnson, said both refused medical aid.
Johnson nursed them for several hours, then called Bill Pierce, football coach. The youths were rushed to a hospital.

SAMPLE COUNTS OF JOBLESS TO BE TAKEN IN SIX STATES

Results to Determine Whether Full Census of Unemployment Shall Be Made.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, June 5.—Sample counts of the jobless in six states will be taken to determine whether a full census of unemployment throughout the country will be attempted, it was disclosed yesterday.

While formal approval has not yet been given by the Works Allotment Board and President Roosevelt, officials said the plan, to cost $455,000, had been worked out by a Cabinet committee and laid before the President informally, with approval expected.

The sample count would be taken in three urban and three rural areas. The urban districts decided on are Waterbury, Conn.; Evansville, Ind., and Sioux City and Woodbury County, Iowa. The rural census would be in McLennan County, Texas; Athens, Meigs and Vinton counties, Ohio, and Washington, Choctaw, Clarke and Monroe counties, Alabama.

Humpty-Dumpty NRA.
Killed in Church.
Not Until Judgment Day.
Many Damocles Swords.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1935.)

REFUSING to admit the resemblance between NRA and Humpty-Dumpty, that "all the king's horses and all the king's men could not put together again," Washington will gather up the pieces of NRA and try to reconstruct "something as good." The process may remind reconstructors of the boy who took his watch apart, put it together and proudly sold it to his friends, "not only have I put it together, but I have quite a number of pieces left over that I do not need."

At San Pedro, Actopan, Mexico, a timberland flood killed 310, a majority of them children. The greatest loss of life occurred in a church where the crowd had flocked to an annual religious festival. Waves of mud and sand rushed through the church, buried the worshippers. This disaster will be used by those that oppose belief in religion, and seek to discourage it.

There was a great diminution of religious faith after the Lisbon earthquake. Thousands who had crowded for divine protection into a great cathedral were crushed to death when the building collapsed.

Such argument is feeble, as it would hardly be supposed by anybody of slightest intelligence that the Power ruling this large universe, having made physical laws to govern it, would in one individual solar system, arbitrarily suspend the law of gravitation, which brings down shaken churches, or any other law.

Not until Judgment day, if then, will this earth know just what caused the depression. Walter H. Newton, once former President Hoover's secretary, co-operating with Prof. Meyers of Princeton University, writes a series of articles to prove that the depression was ending nicely in 1933, when President Roosevelt, with his bank holiday and his threat of tariff changes, that discouraged production, kept the depression growing. A letter written by President Hoover and hitherto unpublished, is offered as evidence.

If it is true, as scientists guarantee that this earth will last at least one million million years more, men of 1935 will wait a long time for Judgment day and the depression facts. By that time perhaps we shall not be interested. We may even have forgotten all about them.

The Weyerhaeuser kidnapers, however "hard boiled" they may be, must feel nervous when they hand out one of the $200,000 ransom bills, knowing that the number and series of every bill is in the possession of Government detectives. It will not make spending the money more agreeable to learn that the agents from the Attorney-General's office will devote their entire time to hunting for those bills and tracing the spenders of them. Two hundred thousand dollars' worth of Damocles' swords.

Greta Garbo, on her way to Sweden where she was born, had one tall, strong Negro and two other men to protect her from photographers. They did the work so well that no photographer took any picture, which was embarrassing. Thereupon Miss Greta Garbo, who is intelligent, posed for the photographers at the window of her taxi and elsewhere.

A good photographer is as important to actors and politicians, as a good poet to a hero. Alexander ended Achilles because Homer wrote about Achilles' exploits, and Alexander had no Homer. A good news photographer is to a "picture star" what Homer was to Achilles.

According to science, no great wisdom is needed for a man "to know his own father," if the Court will permit a blood test. Mary Schirr says George H. Hatch is the father of her 4-year-old child. He says no, and, to prove it, will consent to a blood test, such as has recently been approved by the Legislature. Certain "group" differences in the blood of the alleged father and son would prove to scientists that the two were not related and would enable Mr. Hatch's lawyer to say to Miss Schirr, who asks $10,000 for breach of promise, "You cannot have it."

Similar tests are made, in every case, before blood transfusion. It is interesting to know that the higher apes have blood groups similar to those of human beings, and totally different from those of lower apes. A chimpanzee's blood might be transferred to the veins of a man and save the man's life.

The GHOST on THE SQUARE

By Alexander Woolcott

THE black alleys off Chinatown in San Francisco, the crazy stairs of our own Cherry Hill—into these he had plunged cheerfully, in the pursuit of his trade. Indeed, he had never known what such a feeling was until he moved into Washington Square. Then he could not climb to his flat and put key into his lock without a vague apprehension that something in the dark on the other side of the door was waiting to mislead him. Furthermore, he would look up from his work 20 times a day because he was continuously plagued by the notion that someone was standing in the doorway watching him.

Finally, at 3 o'clock one morning, he was yanked out of a sound sleep by a sense of someone bending over him. It was an experience quite new to him, a feeling of horror, inexplicable, incommunicable, which left him rigid and clammy. Three mornings in succession, always at the same hour and always, mind you, without sight or sound of any visitor, he was thus awakened. The adventure began to unnerve his nerves. He could and did tell himself that the recurrent experience was doubtless some symptom of indigestion but, after all, it did, even so, play havoc with his sleep, and he needed his sleep. So he moved to a hotel. Then, after a week of such inconvenient exile, a kind of sheepishness brought him back to his flat. Now he tried sleeping with every gas jet in the place burning full tilt. The phenomenon recurred, but then and thereafter, with steadily lessening intensity. At last it dwindled to nothingness, and in time he forgot all about it.

Forgot about it, that is, until he returned to town one morning after an absence during which he had turned his flat over to James Hopper, his fellow-scriber, who had come on from the West to look over the editors. On his return, Irwin found that fiery particle smoldering with resentment. Had he been uncomfortable? Had he? Mr. Hopper repeated the incident with a bitterness made more acrid by recent loss of sleep. Then, in reply, he poured out a story which varied from Irwin's own experience in only one particular. On the second night of the invisible visitation, Hopper—manipulated by the fearsome darkness, had stood up in his nightgown and brandished a fist into space, bidding the ghost, if ghost it were, come out in the open and fight. The challenge was not accepted.

Finally, when Irwin was taking a holiday at Stinson, two women, who were his neighbors at that New England spa, borrowed the key of his flat for their own use during a week's visit to New York. On the morning after their arrival in Washington Square, they were to have breakfast at the Brevoort with an old friend, who promised to call for them at 8 o'clock and escort them to a ghost story. When he kept his word, he found them waiting on the steps with their valises packed. They had been sitting there firmly since 4 o'clock that morning and they expressed an intention to spend the rest of their visit at some quiet hotel. Mr. Irwin could keep his old flat.

As a matter of fact, he didn't keep it. When October came around, he surrendered his lease and so passed out of a ghost story that is, I must admit, quite painfully lacking in such essential as banishes wallings and the dread blink of chains in the darkness. None of those who had bad nights at No. 59 will tell you they ever saw or heard anything at all and they become merely incoherent when they try to describe what did befell them when they slept under its troubled roof.

There is one more witness. He was an old, old man, who two or three years after Irwin's time, came on from California for one last look at the Square where he had looked his hoop as a boy. No one of his day was still alive for him to talk to, so he had to get into conversation with nursemaids in the walks and hums on the benches and the policeman at the corner. He strayed into this story at all only because, still wistfully in quest of someone to talk to about the old days, he went into a shop—to be frank, I am afraid it was a shoppe—which was kept on the south side of the Square by a friend of Irwin's. He told her all about the days when the Square was enclosed with a pretty picket fence and the Problems of Social Usage For Weddings

There Is Seldom Both a Breakfast and Reception.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: ONE of our friends asked me, "Are you invited to the wedding reception?" and I answered that I was not, but to the wedding breakfast. This friend claimed that one is the same as the other, and then the dispute started as to what the breakfast meant and why it is that a wedding invitation never reads afternoon tea or dinner, but it does invite to breakfast at a morning hour? It is all so confusing.

Answer: Your friend was right, there is seldom a breakfast and a reception. If there is, the reception would be general and the breakfast small so that those asked to breakfast would certainly be at the reception. In the fashionable world invitations to the reception at the house are always called breakfast if not later than 1:00 o'clock. After 1:00 o'clock the gathering at the house is called a reception. Whether in communities where evening weddings are fashionable the reception is called a dinner or supper. I don't know. Perhaps some of my readers will ask me. The only evening invitations I have ever seen were worded "wedding reception."

Dear Mrs. Post: I wish I lived a mile from the church because my problem would be simpler to solve. As it is, we don't know whether it would be proper for us to walk to the church, which is across the street, and then walk back home afterwards for the reception. It seems very silly to me to ride across the street?

Answer: Unless you live in a street that is a very busy thoroughfare, it would be very simple to ask that a policeman or village constable hold up the traffic so that you and your bridesmaids can walk across to the church. Otherwise you ought to drive around the block, or down the street, and come up on the opposite side in front of the church, since it would be very unsuitable for you to wait on the sidewalk for a full in traffic.

Dear Mrs. Post: Are muffs of flowers proper only for winter and frost? This idea has been carried out in summer when flowers are more plentiful? And what can the bridesmaids do with these at the reception?

Answer: Although muffs do suggest winter, flowers are suitable at every season and their arrangement is certainly not limited to bouquets or sheaves. Merely as a suggestion, you might have deep cuffs of flowers on the bridesmaids' wide sleeves, which would, when they clasp their hands, give the effect of muffs, and yet leave their hands free. I am afraid artificial flowers would be more practical for this idea, so perhaps it is not such a good one after all.

Poor Housekeeping

It is poor economy to have only one paring knife in your kitchen drawer. Then even when you do have someone who is willing to help prepare the meal, she is unable to do a thing, just for the lack of a 25-cent kitchen utensil.

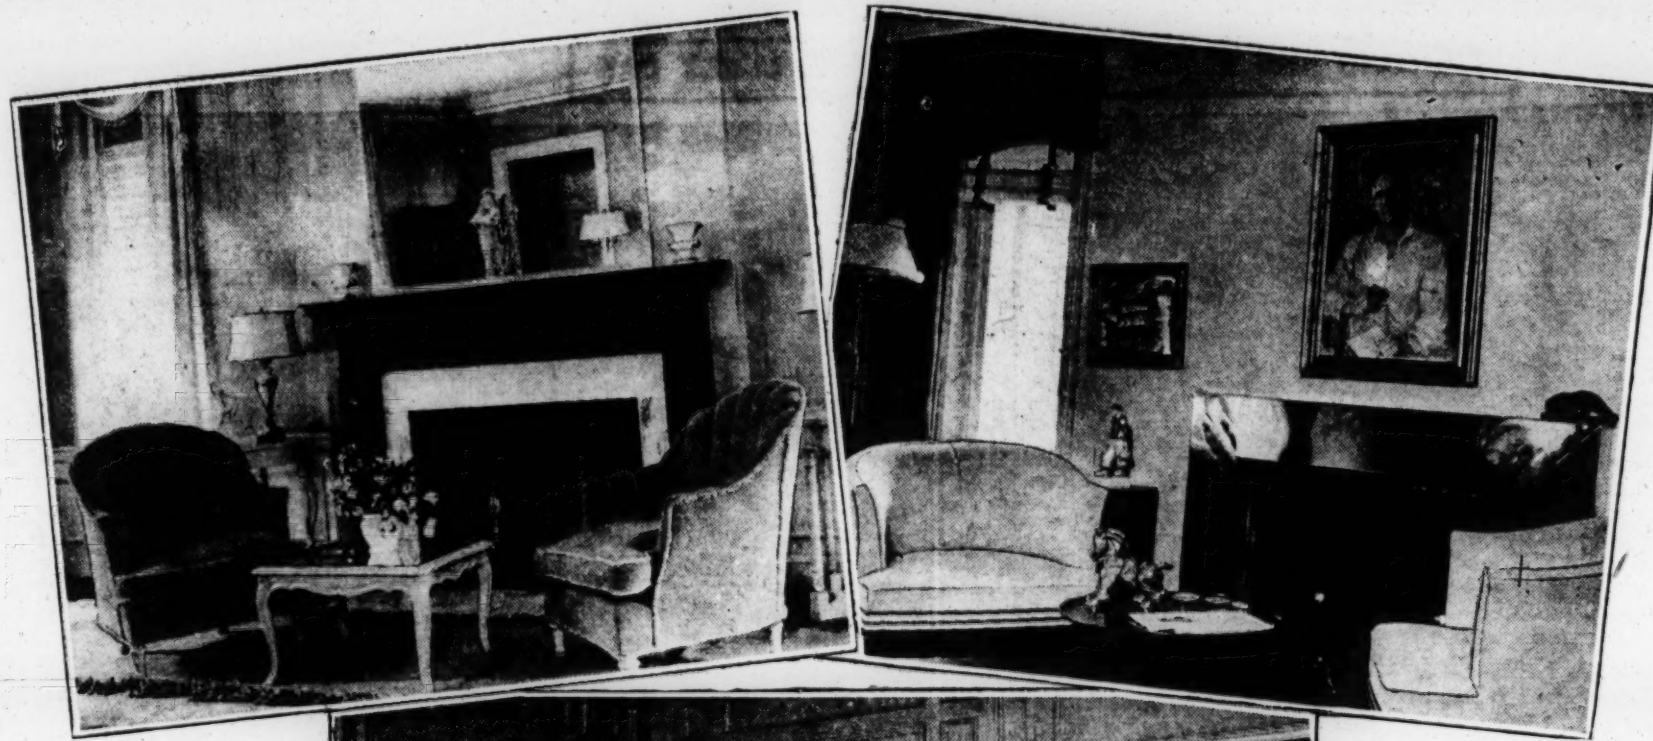

Seventh Regiment used to drill on the green. He told of old-timers who, when he was a lad, remembered when Washington Square had been the Potter's Field and when the gallows had stood where the Arch stands now.

"And that house there," said the old man, pointing to No. 59, "that used to be the Morgue."

MODERNIZING a Traditional ENGLISH HOME

Charming Interior Decorations in Residence of Otto Spaeth

The fireplace grouping in Mrs. Spaeth's bedroom.

By Josephine Walter

THERE has been a great deal of talk recently in the decorating field about the modernizing of interiors; that is to say taking houses or furniture of traditional design and, by the introduction of color, texture and design obtaining a completely contemporary feeling.

In the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Spaeth in the St. Louis Country Club grounds this has been done charmingly as well as cleverly and adroitly.

In selecting this house, Mrs. Spaeth purposely chose one that was typically English in feeling, for she wanted to see if it was possible to change the spirit without in any way changing the structure of the house. And just how successfully she has lightened the atmosphere of this house and given it a thoroughly modern feeling is apparent from the photographs and descriptions of the rooms.

The hallway is essentially a dignified English entrance-way with white plaster walls and English oak paneling and stairway, but its furnishings indicate what the treatment of the house is to be. At either side of the hall are placed low stools in modern Chinese style, covered in a beige herringbone material piped down in brown. Across the front of the hall are a series of doors and windows hung with rust colored sheer curtains veiling the screened terrace beyond. Incidentally, this little terrace is a charming spot with its white iron furniture covered in beige, brown and bright blue upholstery.

To one side of the hall is placed a tiny powder room, which can only be described by the word "adorable." Walls, here, are of a glistening green metallic paper above a white wood dado fluted like a column. The floor is finished in a shiny black lacquer tone with a rug of soft white. The dressing table, of a dull-finished silver metal with mirrored top, is placed before the window which is hung with white rough crepe with a swag of white moiré edged with glass ball fringe. The round dressing table stool is also covered with this white moiré with the top tufted with tiny yellow tassels. On either side of the long mirror, which is placed on one wall are tall stands made of glass rods with bowls of shell flowers placed on top. Small chairs done in the white and yellows of the room and a charming little table for fresh flowers complete the furnishings.

To the right of the hall is the living-room, of dignified proportions with walls of small oaken paneling and a dark rug in the center of the room in a dignified manner. However, Mrs. Spaeth has very adroitly had all the stain rubbed off and finished the wood in a cork color, which immediately lightens the atmosphere. Hangings of yellow damask bring out the golden tone of the wood and an Oriental rug adds pattern to the room.

Due to its splendid proportions, Mrs. Spaeth has found it possible to divide the room into two groupings by placing two large couches back to back in the center of the room. These couches are in modern Chinese Chippendale design, upholstered in beige chenille and bound in brown corduroy. One couch faces the mantel piece and forms a conversational grouping with the two small chairs which are placed at either side of the fireplace. The other one helps to form the music end of the living room with a very interesting inlaid piano which has been rubbed down so that it matches the tone of the walls. In addition, there is a square bay lined with windows under which is placed a continuous window seat, another charming spot for conversation. The furniture in this room is a mixture of English, French and Italian pieces so that there is no definite period style and the color combination of yellow, beige, rust and Empire blue is modern so the entire room has a contemporary feeling.

The dining room, on the other side of the hall, is done in the classic modern style; a style inspired by the Empire and Directoire periods, but again treated in a modern manner. In other words, the furniture of this room has been designed after the Empire made with the table in natural wood and the rest of the pieces in antique white with touches of black and gold, but the color scheme, of white, gray and charcoal is modern in conception. Walls and hangings are of gray and the rug and chair seats of charcoal. The fabric for the hangings is truly exquisite and was especially designed for Mrs. Spaeth. It is of gray silk gauze, hand painted in silver stripes. Added interest is given the room by two wall niches, painted a soft grayed terra cotta tone, which contain white pottery figures done by Gineri.

On the second floor are Mr. and Mrs. Spaeth's bedrooms, excellent examples of the fact that there may be as much difference between two modern rooms as between two period ones. Mrs. Spaeth's room is pure modern in treatment while Mr. Spaeth's is classic modern. The latter is perfectly suited to the masculine taste.

Mrs. Spaeth's room is done in tones of ice blue, coral and off white. Walls are of blue spun glass in a shaded stripe effect above a white dado; the spun glass giving a smooth, shiny effect to the walls. The rug is in the same blue tone with two bands of deep wool fringe dividing the center and running around the edge. On one wall is placed a mantel-piece, painted deep blue, before which are matching chairs upholstered in coral chenille bound with white silk fringe. On the opposite side is the bed, placed lengthwise to the wall and especially designed for Mrs. Spaeth with curved white wood ends upholstered in off-white moiré to match the spread and bolsters. Other pieces in the room are a white desk and console and bookcases, painted deep blue to match the fireplace. The curtains are of an interesting cross-barred crepe in off-white with edging of crystal ball fringe.

MR. SPAETH's bath is most attractive and unusual. Walls are of gray white tone with a ceiling of silver tea box paper, and floor of black linoleum. A very interesting dressing table has a top of chromium and base made of rods of crystal bound together with chromium wreaths. The mirror has been designed to match with the top ornamented at either side with plumes of glass. The stool which is also made of crystal rods has the top covered in white silk. Aluminum Venetian blinds at the window carry out the metallic feeling of the room.

Mr. Spaeth's bedroom, as has already been stated, is typically masculine in feeling. The original English mantel-piece has been removed and a very simple one made entirely of copper replaces it. Copper, too, has been used for the drawer pulls on the cherry and ebony furniture and for the monograms on the beige duvetyne bedspreads. Two huge chairs of modern design covered in beige chenille are placed at either side of the mantel with a low table between. Curtains are of a modern woven fabric in a rust tone with an edging of thick beige moss fringe.

This house, could in truth, almost serve as an exhibition of what is good in modern decoration for it is not only well done but incorporates the various trends of the contemporary style. The living room shows how period pieces may be treated in a modern manner, the dining room and Mrs. Spaeth's bedroom are classic modern in feeling and Mr. Spaeth's bedroom is pure modern. And above all this house proves how much more alive and suitable to our way of life is a house done in the spirit of our times rather than one which is a slavish imitation of the past.

Walter C. Teagle, head of Standard Oil of New Jersey, who has a big payroll and pays men well, tells his stockholders: "I will promise the employees of our company that there will be no salary cuts and no increase in the hours of employment." That seems a good way to deal with possible strikes.

Stamp Exhibit And Convention For St. Louis

Society of Philatelic Americans to Meet Here August 22-24.

THE annual convention of the Society of Philatelic Americans will be held here Aug. 22, 23 and 24 at the Melbourne Hotel in St. Louis under the auspices of the Mound City Stamp Club. The plans include an exhibition, all day boat ride on the Mississippi, baseball game or opera and a visit to the Lindbergh tropic exhibit.

For those desiring to exhibit the entrance fee is $2 per frame, but not more than 10 frames will be available to each exhibitor. Personally owned frames of the proper size, 24x36 inches, can be entered at 50 cents per frame. This size frame will hold eight 4x6 inch album pages. For further information as to the exhibition classifications write Henry O. Nouse (SPA 6426), 3828 Dover place, St. Louis. All exhibits should also be sent to Nouse.

The Convention Committee has decided to issue a poster stamp on a souvenir sheet. The exhibit will open four days in advance of the convention, on Aug. 18, 1935.

The first day sales of the San Diego Exposition stamps were $10,266.06, a total of 342,292 stamps. The number of first-day covers canceled was 201,900. This is one of the smallest first-day sales of any of the recent commemoratives. The additional plate numbers for the exhibition stamps are 21407, 21408, 21409 and 21410.

The Postoffice Department throughout the country has been notified to cease selling the migratory bird hunting stamps of the present issue at the close of business Saturday, June 29. The unsold stamps are to be held for further instructions.

At a three-day Bourse held in London for stamp dealers of the world almost $400,000 worth of stamps changed hands. This includes thousands of stamps in sheets, packets and single items. A greater number of the dealers came from the United States.

At the tenth sale of the Hind collection, in which Asian and African stamps were sold, a total of only $10,000 was realized, but it was expected that approximately $60,000 will be realized in the next sale. One of the items sold was a China deep red unused 3-cent 1887 issue with a dollar overprint which brought the highest price of the sale, $850. The total amount realized at all ten sales is nearly $600,000.

NEW ISSUES.

JUGO-SLAVIA—A total of 1,000,000 commemorative stamps will be issued portraying Peter Petrovich-Jegos, famous poet. The stamps will bear a surtax of 1 dinar, which will go towards the erection of a monument.

NEW GUINEA—Two new values in the Bird of Paradise type have been issued. They are 2 1/2d and 3d. In the near future 2 and 5 pound values will be issued for payment of postage on gold shipments.

SPAIN—Imperforate copies of the 30c brown issue picturing Ramon Cajal have appeared without the control number.

URUGUAY—New values in the Pegasus type have been issued. The values are 50c green blue, 32c blue, 57c blue green and 62c olive green.

IT'S A QUEER WORLD

BY VIRGINIA IRWIN

AN eyelash lives only about 150 days. "Alice in Wonderland" was once barred by Chinese censors and Anderson's "Fairy Tales" was outlawed by Russian guardians-of-morals. It has been estimated that if one-half the progeny of a single housefly survived, in 40 days there would be 3,500,000 flies. A tansorial artist insists that that good old-fashioned shampoo, a raw egg, is of no value, says "oil can be added by other means than egg yolks," and adds that "well-used axle grease would be more desirable." There are 110 varieties of fish available in the markets of the United States. Economy note: You get 32 times as much popcorn for a nickel if you pop it yourself instead of buying it popped. In Tibet, rheumatism, pain in the joints, etc., are treated by branding the affected parts with a red hot iron.

I propose three cheers for the philosophic lady who, when asked what to do with white hair, promptly responded, "admire it." . . . And speaking of hair: The School of Salerno, great health center of the Middle Ages, recommended the somewhat anti-social procedure of applying onion to the scalp for baldness. . . . Stop me if you've heard this one: Home is where part of the family waits until the others are through with the family auto. . . . Just a warning: A Los Angeles eugenist advises "the home-aid, hopeful of selecting a husband to make her choice before she is 21." Says "If she waits, at 31 she will have virtually no choice at all." He's telling us! . . . Every week day during the year, somebody has figured out, there are an estimated half-million persons in this country who bet on a horse race they do not see. . . . And somebody else has figured out that our yearly consumption of eggs is 270 per capita, with a total of 32 billion eggs for the entire population. . . . The first patent issued in the U. S. was in 1790, to one Samuel Hopkins, for a method of making "pot and pearl ashes." That's what they called live in those days. . . . Mary Astor goes in for corn beef and cabbage, boiled potatoes and draught beer, and doesn't have to give her figure a second thought. . . . I got this out of a health mag: In the human body there is found to be not less than 107 rudimentary organs which now serve no physiologic purpose. . . . And this from an insurance company report: The population is becoming older, says their expert: In 1880 there will be 25,500,000 people more than 65.

A Chicago woman recently sued another for alienation of her husband's affections and asked for a lot of dough to use as a poultice to heal her broken heart. All she got was one buck and a lecture from the Judge, who seemed to be of the opinion that love lost has no value and affections that go astray really aren't worth getting excited about. . . . An Egyptologist says that a favorite maxim of schoolmasters under Pharaohs was: "The way to the brain of a boy is through the rest of his pants." A Spokane (Wash.) woman, convicted of grand larceny, was sentenced to one to 15 years in the hoosegow, whereupon she turned to the Court Clerk and asked for the loan of a dollar; and

A DOCTOR TALKS OF HEALTH

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

WE have been speaking this week of chronic forms of poisoning, most of which can be prevented or treated at leisure after they have occurred. All too often it happens that a domestic accident gives rise to an acute poisoning emergency. Some body in the household swallows something by mistake or, in a few tragic instances, for suicidal purposes.

What should be done before the doctor arrives? Is there anything helpful that can be instituted?

Procedure.

First, an attempt should be made to eliminate the poison from the body as rapidly as possible. This is done by inducing vomiting, either by having the victim tickle the back of his throat with his fingers, or by giving such easily obtained substances in the household which induce vomiting, as mustard and common salt in hot water. An emetic may be given, and after the vomiting has emptied the stomach, plenty of water to wash all the poison out of the intestinal tract and dilute it in the blood stream.

Most poisons depress the heart, and the circulation should be supported by wrapping the patient in blankets, with hot water bags, giving brandy, or tea or coffee, hot. Good household antidotes which cover a great many things, are milk, white of an egg, starch with a few drops of tincture of iodine in it, epsom or Glauber salts.

A very important thing to find out before the doctor gets there is what was the poison and how much of it was swallowed, and whether it was actually swallowed or not.

The commonest forms of household poisoning are, first, from eating bichloride of mercury tablets. This form, however, is not so frequent as it used to be when these tablets were freely dispensed. The commonest form of poisoning in children today is strychnine poisoning from eating a number of candy-coated cathartic tablets which contain strychnine. Every household should have a child in it should be certain that if there is a bottle of these pills around, it should be out of reach of the youngsters.

Insect powders and rat powders and pastes are sometimes sources of accidental poisoning.

Carbon Monoxide.

Under the heading of inhalation household poisoning, the most important is carbon monoxide, which is found in the exhaust gas from an automobile. Poisoning usually occurs when the engine is left running, with the garage doors shut, with somebody inside. The question of whether there is any danger in streets which have a number of automobiles can be answered in the negative. According to studies made by Haldane, the percentage of carbon monoxide of 0.02 per cent results in a mild frontal headache. In the London underground railway the air was found to have 0.01 per cent and in the vehicular tunnel between New York and New Jersey as much as 0.04. Danger of death does not occur until the exhaust rises to about 0.116. The exhaust gas from an automobile contains from 3 1/2 to 7 per cent.

The treatment of this form of poisoning is the immediate induction of artificial respiration. The victim should be dragged into the open air, laid flat on his stomach with the head resting on the arms so air can get in and out. The operator then straddles him, presses against the sides of the chest and releases pressure alternately at the rate of about 20 times a minute. This method of respiration should be continued for at least two hours before abandoning hope of recovery.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a 3-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Steve Tries a Dangerous Expedient to Get the Better of Business Opposition—Hannah Makes Plans.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

THE lower deck had been filled, the crew was at work on the upper, the place was hot and stuffy. The ventilators, it was explained, could not function until the ship was under way; then they would be turned into the wind. Deterioration was most rapid during the loading and the first couple of days thereafter, the foreman told him. Once the heat and the impure air created by the respiration of the cargo had been cleared out the danger was over. The time was soon to come, of course, when refrigerating machinery would do away with this hazard and other improvements in practice and equipment would vastly quicken and simplify the trade, but not even Marchand had the vision to look that far ahead.

Steve came out of the hold sweating; after a while he went ashore without advising Dan and walked into Capachino's saloon to find Reggie Montgomery at the bar. The man had been drinking heavily, he welcomed Pentecost with slightly more than his usual warmth. When they were seated at a rear table he drawled:

"I say, General, I have you to thank for a genuine treat. This is my first trip out in years."

"How'd you like a taste of real civilization?"

Montgomery waved an affable gesture. "I'm doing finely. The liquor here is surprisingly good."

"It's better in New Orleans. You're due for a vacation."

"Can't afford it, really."

"When were you in Cortez last?"

"It must be—three years."

"Seen anybody you know?"

"Not a bally soul, aside from some of our blacks."

"Good! I'm sending you out on the Roatan, as a passenger. The skipper's a Scot and the champion two-fisted drinker of the Tiber fleet."

"Why not one of our own ships?"

"Because the company is in a jam. That means you, and me, too. Tibbler's gang killed Wetzel; they're gunning for all of us. We're in a fight. Montgomery, a dirty fight. No holds barred, winner take all."

"Good! I'm sending you out on the Roatan, as a passenger. The skipper's a Scot and the champion two-fisted drinker of the Tiber fleet."

"Is it that kind of a trip?"

Montgomery inquired, mildly.

"Good! I'm sending you out on the Roatan, as a passenger. The skipper's a Scot and the champion two-fisted drinker of the Tiber fleet."

"Why, naturally."

"I'd go myself, but I'm too well known. Your principal job will be to show that sea captain how a gentleman can really drink."

"The listener brightened at this. 'Sounds interesting. Now for the joker.'"

Steve gave him the details of his plan and he did not have to cover the ground twice for Montgomery's mind was quick.

"Dan mustn't know anything about this, understand? I'll handle your job at the plantation. Now get to bed before you're recognized. Tomorrow pick your men, do your stuff."

"Right!" said the Englishman. "But I shall feel like a blinkin' vagabond without my bags. No dinner suit! Not even my glass! I hope there are no ladies aboard."

"During the next afternoon and night the two Tibbler ships cleared; it was 36 hours later that the first of Marchand's boats pulled out into the Gulf of Honduras and crammed on full steam for a record run to New Orleans. The others followed soon thereafter."

STEVE returned post haste to the Motagua plantations and put Saunders in Montgomery's place then, after a few days, he hurried back to Cortez to learn the outcome of that plan he had outlined to the Englishman. Work on Hannah's new home had been started and upon his arrival she took him out to see it. He expected to find a crew of carpenters at work; instead he beheld a gang of laborers digging deep trenches and preparing to pour concrete.

Puckering his lips into a whistle he inquired with amazement, "What's this? Are you building a fort?"

"You said I could have my way."

"Of course you can. But this will be the first house on the Honduran Coast with solid cement under it."

"I want it to be solid," Hannah confessed. "It's my first home. I don't want to sink my roots deep. I want to build for the future."

"All right—but I hate delays. I can't bear to leave you and the boy at Capachino's an hour longer than necessary."

"We can stand it if it means a permanent home, one that will never blow away or fall down. You're a tempestuous person, Steve; you've kept me on the wing for years. I want to 'light and I want something firm to 'light on.'"

"I am kind of gusty," he admitted. "I must be a problem to you."

"You'd be a problem to any woman. That concrete is your anchor. And—yonder comes our first pretty thing," Hannah turned her fine eyes seaward where a ship was approaching and in them was an unaccustomed sparkle. "Steve, do you realize we've never owned a stick of furniture we could call our own. First that rented house in New Orleans, then the palace at Tegucigalpa; furnished by the Government. Why, we've lived like a troupe of circus performers."

"That's a fact, come to think of it," the man admitted. "It never occurred to me before. You see I always hated to be tied to anything."

"Exactly! Well, I'm tying you."

Pentecost flung a muscular arm about the speaker and drew her close. "I wasn't cut out for a husband or a father but I'm going to make a success of both. You're going to sink a lot of happiness and I'll build any kind of a house you want. Do you know, Hannah, every now and then I realize what a poor excuse I am and how marvelous you are and invariably it comes with the shock of a new discovery. I'm afraid, however, that our furniture isn't on that ship. Our first boat isn't due back for at least two days and that looks like the Roatan."

"Oh, I was hoping—"

"Say, doesn't she look sort of gloomy to you?" Steve started out across the sunlit bay and there was a half smile on his lips. "Doesn't she look sort of half-masty to you? As if something was wrong?"

"How absurd!" Hannah looked up sharply. "As if you could see anything at this distance."

"Maybe it's something I smell."

"What, for instance?"

Steve sniffed. "Don't you catch a faint odor of over-ripe fruit? Or is it my imagination?"

"Have you been up to something?" the wife inquired suspiciously.

"Sure! Up to my neck in work. That's something for a man who has loafed all his life. Maybe I'm just hoping Tibbler is in hard luck. You know we all take chances in this business. Perishables are uncertain things to handle; bananas rot easily. He's been pretty nasty and you can't arrest a fellow for hoping, can you?"

ON their way back to the hotel Hannah said, "Dan Marchand is an angel, he's helping me out with a new idea."

"Yes."

"Do you realize there's no hospital in Cortez?"

"Never having used one I hadn't stopped to think about it. For that matter, did you ever notice that we don't have any old men here in Honduras? Fact! Nature knocks them off early or they kill each other."

"Suppose something should happen to Steve?"

"I've worried about that," the father admitted gravely. "But with you on hand I know he'll be safe."

"Well, he isn't. We must get a decent hospital and a good American doctor here."

"Of course. I'll speak to Dan today. We'll build one."

"That will take time. There's a place already built if we could get it."

"You mean Montero's place? No trouble getting that, if it'll do."

"Oh, yes, there is! Dan offered him a good price but he absolutely refused to discuss the matter."

"Does he know that you want it?" Hannah nodded and her husband frowned. "Strange! I should think he'd like to get rid of that white elephant and leave the country."

"No indeed. And it's a pity, too, for it's precisely what we're looking for. Who is Montero, anyhow?"

"He was one of the Salazar crowd; in fact, he was mayor here when we landed. Matter was all for shooting him that morning we took the town and heaven knows he deserved it. I've often thought it was something of a pity that Don Manuel intervened. However, Pedro

Fewer Errors Result From Knowing Self

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

"THE truth is, my friend, I must first know myself," said Socrates to the boy Plato, as they walked beside the river Ilissus, four centuries before our era. Then he went on to explain:

"I should be absurd indeed if, while I am still in ignorance of myself, I were to be curious about that which is not my business. What am I, and whither am I going? This is the question."

So Socrates struck the keynote of education, and as far as it goes it is true. The chief end of life is knowledge, the chief thing to know is mind, and the first mind to know is our own.

It sounds selfish, but it is not. Selfishness does not consist in starting with number one, but in stopping with number one. We must start with self; it is the first center of life.

To know ourselves—our body, mind, and soul—and all things in ourselves, with accurate analysis, in just and clear light, in large and true relation—that is the basis and beginning of character.

We must know what we are and what we are not, where we are weak and where we are strong, and where we are neither. We must know our dangers, the mental thickets where our temptations hide, the masks our weakness wears, and the path by which foible ends in folly and failure.

If we do not know ourselves, we are like babes in the woods. In practical matters it would save us no end of sorrow if we asked the question: Do I understand myself in this business?

Take the matter of motive—how often we are in the dark about the motive that is actually moving us. An unworthy motive is like a scuttlefish; it discolors the water the better to hide itself.

A motive is like an ocean cable, a thin wire insulated, wound around and around with coat of coat of rubber. Often it is the hard and thankless task of a friend to show us our real motive.

If we take time to know ourselves we shall make fewer mistakes, and we shall have more tolerance for and sympathy with our fellows.

and I are like that." Steve held up his two forefingers. "We're buddies. I'll see him right now and I'll bet you get your hospital."

BUSINESS and personal dealings with those of opposite sex can be moved several paces forward, if motives and ends are what they should be. Otherwise, make 'em good they should be. There is no what to do wrong. P. M. Social.

Two Thinking Methods.

There are two great classes of thinking. In the one class, we reason from particulars to universals, from effects back to causes. In the other class, we do the opposite: we reason from causes to effects, from universals down to particulars.

The first mentioned method is more likely to skip or jump the track and wind up in the ditch of wrong answers than is the latter.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead calls for thought and hard work in occupation—from Jan. 31 to the end of the year. Be sure you are ready. Careful of estate. Make new friends. Danger: Sept. 24-Nov. 13; Jan. 29-March 9; from May 22.

Sickroom Tips

A single flower in a narrow vase adds much to the beauty of the invalid's tray. If you happen to read a funny story, a piece of beautiful poetry, cut them out of the publication and send one of these up with the tray each meal.

If the invalid is well enough to attend to herself when eating, leave her alone with the tray. You will find she will eat more and complain less when no one is around.

Never let slip what you are planning to bring to the invalid for the next meal. If you do you will find by that time she will have found all sorts of reasons why that is just the thing she does not feel like eating. Let the tray contain a surprise.

Highly seasoned and strongly flavored foods are not good for the invalid.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of society above the rights of individuals.

—Of course some people are color-headed in emergencies than in the calm. When I was a boy, a house caught fire and the family was in a panic. I thought I would calmly go to the end of the world, sprang up, grabbed up a book and brought it in and put it on the parlor table. Anybody who has heard us boys shouting, yelling "fire," grabbing the books and running down very calmly and putting them down very calmly behind an apple tree. Maybe you were a good one, I am sure.

—I have never widely into contact with the young people of this generation. I agree heartily with you. On our board of directors of the American Eugenics Society, men and women of equal ability and of equal status are working together and the evidence is that the young women are not so much as the ideal of the "old-fashioned" idealism of the past and domesticity.

—I have never anybody but intelligent people and consequently, nobody but intelligent people.

—I am so fond of you that I feel sorry for you. I don't get around much. I said Mrs. Quacker.

but highly intelligent people could write well enough to interest such a public. But nowadays everybody can read and anybody who can run a typewriter can write a book or magazine article—or newspaper feature—and be pretty sure of finding people who will read what he or she writes. It's a grand day for us "columnists." While there is probably as much good writing today as ever there is about a thousand times as much bad writing.

KSD Begins Using 1000 Watts Power For Night Broadcasting.

KSD yesterday was granted a permit by the Federal Communications Commission to operate with 500 watts additional power at night. High Price

By Carolyn Carlyle

D. THERESA WAGONER was seated at the desk in the germless cell that was her private office. She was holding her wheat-colored head between her hands. Her gray blue eyes stared at a notation in front of her.

It was a signed order for an automobile, a special model. The price was $5000. It was the exact amount of her bank balance.

She, who had paid for her education by washing dishes and scrubbing floors, owed a $5000 car! She, the blonde giant of a girl from sand-swept western Nebraska! She, who had been tormented from childhood by the ironical nickname, Tiny! She owned a car worth more than her father's farm!

The buzzer on her desk bored into the tumult of her thoughts. "Come in," she said steadily. The man who entered was obviously ill. His trembling lips were colorless. Coughs shook his emaciated frame. Her professional eye recognized a dangerous condition.

"Sit here," she said solicitously, guiding him with a touch to a chair facing her own. "Drink this." She handed him a glass of water.

"Theresa," he gasped when the paroxysm had passed. He leaned back pale and exhausted. "I'm sorry."

Her hand paused in midair as she reached for the glass. "Hal Burke," she said incredulously. She released his limp, cold hand. Was this the man? Was this the wreck of humanity the handsome, dashing Hal Burke of her freshman year?

"I was passing," he was saying in a ragged voice, "and I saw your name. I have a cold. Could you do something, Theresa?" his words shattered into a cough.

The examination was cursory. The man's condition was alarming. "You should be in a hospital, Hal!" Dr. Wagoner said soberly. "You must know that you are dangerously ill. If you could go to Hillview sanitarium for a few days."

She kept seeing the young Hal Burke who had made such ardent love to her—to every freshman girl. Only she had taken him seriously. She had thought he meant it when he suggested marriage. She had adored him. She had responded to his love-making with all the repressed emotion in her humble heart.

She'd gone about the campus in a blissful dream, to her roommate, to her small group of friends, to casual acquaintances, she confided the secret of her happiness. Under the hypnotic spell of Hal Burke's flattery she had forgotten that she was tall and broad and too big for a girl.

From an inner pocket of his coat the man had taken a package. The first letter informed her that her new car could not be delivered for 10 days. She didn't want it. It was only that it was the same costly kind as the one given to Angela Preston by her father on her wedding day. It was only a desperate attempt to restore her self-respect. It was an effort to defeat that old obsession. If she could buy for herself.

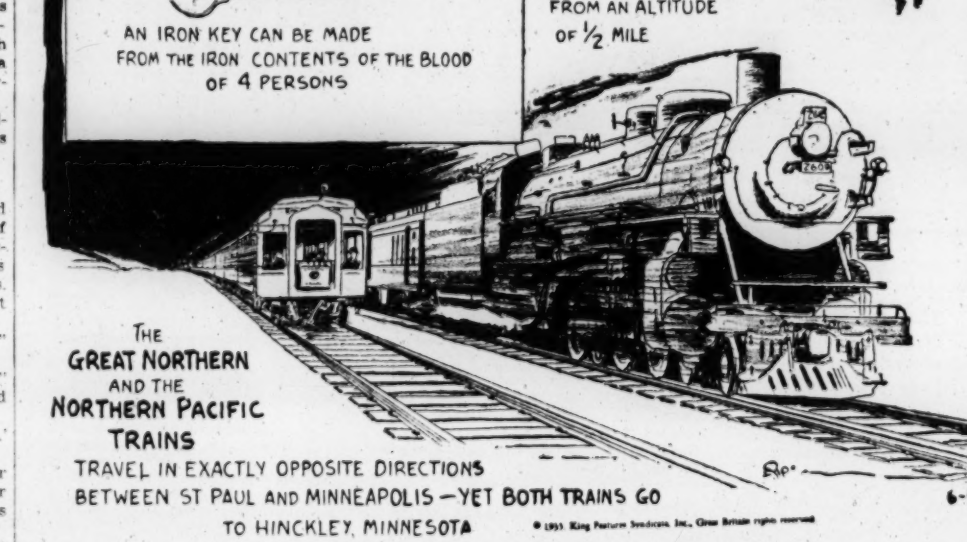

The name of Angela Burke was in the corner of the second letter. Hal Burke was dead at his home in Los Angeles. Theresa was thanked for the payment of the loan. Angela hadn't known that Hal had helped her through medical college. They had been destined.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S COVERTURE
"OLD HORSE" RADBOURNE—Charles Radbourne, pitching on the Providence (R. I.) team of the old National League in 1884, has been known ever after as the "Old Horse," because of his tireless efforts on the diamond. While baseball at that time was not the strenuous game that it is today, nevertheless Radbourne established many records that have never been equaled. In 1894 he won nine games in 10 days. In the same year he established the record of victories in a season—60, as well as the record of consecutive games pitched—22.

TOMORROW: "THE OLDEST HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT"
The third letter was from her bank. There was enclosed a cashed check for five thousand dollars! On the back of the check was her own name and the name of Hal S. Burke.

It was the check which in her haste she had indorsed blank. It had been drawn for five thousand dollars instead of fifty. Cash had been paid to Hal Burke on her signature. Five thousand dollars! It was the savings of five years. It was the price of her car. It was the price of her freedom! The price of her freedom!

Everybody Else Is Wrong

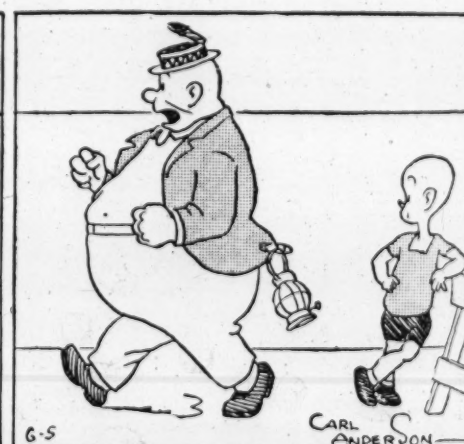

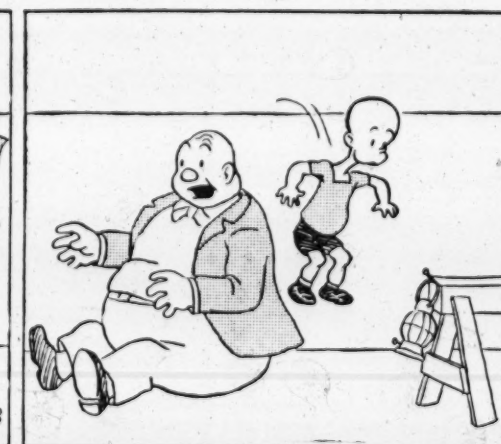

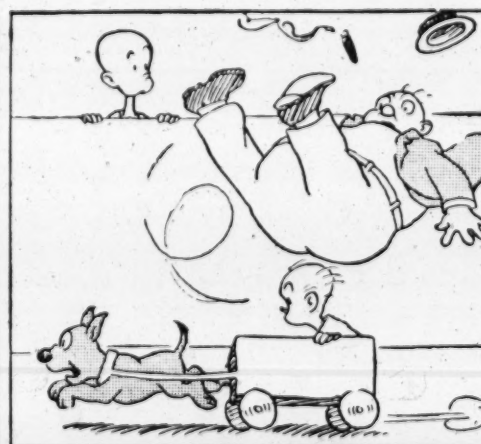

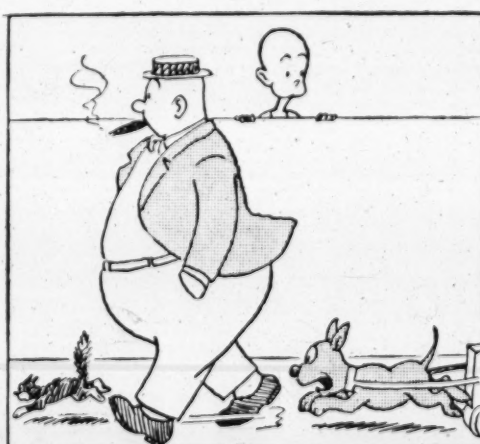

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

We have finally been clamped to the conclusion that the world should be run by professional politicians. We know the stories of Croker, Hanna, Quay, Penrose and Tammany Hall. We know the boys stole everything* they could reach and threw snowballs at the rest. But we would rather hear the rattle of tin boxes than the jingle of cap and bells.
